BILL TO DRAFT CAPITAL CALLED CRACKPOT PLAN

Yet It Is Placed on Senate Calendar.

BY CHESLY MANLY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—Of all the war dictatorship bills recently proposed in congress, the Lee wealth drafting scheme is recognized generally as the craziest economically and the most mischievous politically.

Senator Josh Lee.

Economists give it a sanity rating on the level of the California ham and eggs plan. Veteran legislators dismiss it with a smile as just another crackpot bill. The war and navy departments reported that it would be detrimental to the national defense, and the treasury department said it would not work.

Yet the senate military affairs committee last May 12, with four members absent, voted 12 to 2 in favorably reporting the bill to the senate, on the calendar of which it now is pending. Senators Warren R. Austin of Vermont, H. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire, and Chan Gurney of South Dakota, all Republicans, later filed a minority report.

Rebuffed by Garner.

The wealth drafting bill is the brain child of Senator Josh Lee (D., Okla.), a former dust bowl elocution teacher whose slogan is "dollars are no more valuable than the blood or the life of a mother's son." On the train coming to Washington for the special session which convened on Sept. 21, he swept like a whirlwind into the drawing room of Vice President John N. Garner, demanding to be recognized the moment the senate convened for the calling up of his capital levy bill. The great white tufts above Mr. Garner's eyes bristled, he glowered, and Senator Lee subsided.

The bill provides that whenever congress declares war, or declares "that the imminence of war has created an emergency which in the judgment of the President is sufficiently serious to necessitate an increase in the military establishment by the drafting of man power," the President shall cause to be taken a census of the net wealth of every person in the United States.

Levy Up to 75 Per Cent.

The net wealth of every person in excess of $1,000 then would be subject to the borrowing power of the government in graduated portions, ranging from 5 per cent of wealth in excess of $1,000 and not more than $10,000, to 75 per cent of wealth in excess of 100 million dollars. Representative amounts available to the government would be $450 on $10,000 $1,450 on $100,000, $81,950 on $500,000, $331,950 on $1,000,000, $4,331,950 on $10,000,000, and $64,456,950 on $100,000,000.

The secretary of the treasury would determine the amount of money needed from time to time and the President would pro rate among individuals the sums they were required to "invest." In exchange they would receive government bonds, payable at the option of the government, but not due until 50 years, bearing interest of 1 per cent and not tax-exempt either as to principal or interest.

Notes Could Be Accepted.

In lieu of cash for the 50 year, 1 per cent bonds, the President would have discretionary power to accept property or notes secured by property, but the notes would bear interest of 6 per cent. That is, the property owner would have to pay interest of 6 per cent on a note given in exchange for bonds bearing interest at 1 per cent.

On the security of notes and property tendered in payment for government bonds, the President would have authority to "issue currency, notes or other obligations of the United States."

"One of the strongest arguments in favor of drafting the financial resources of a nation is that it would materially strengthen our national defense," says the report submitted by Senator Lee. "Under this law, our government would never be delayed, hindered or embarrassed for the want of finances to carry on war. But by

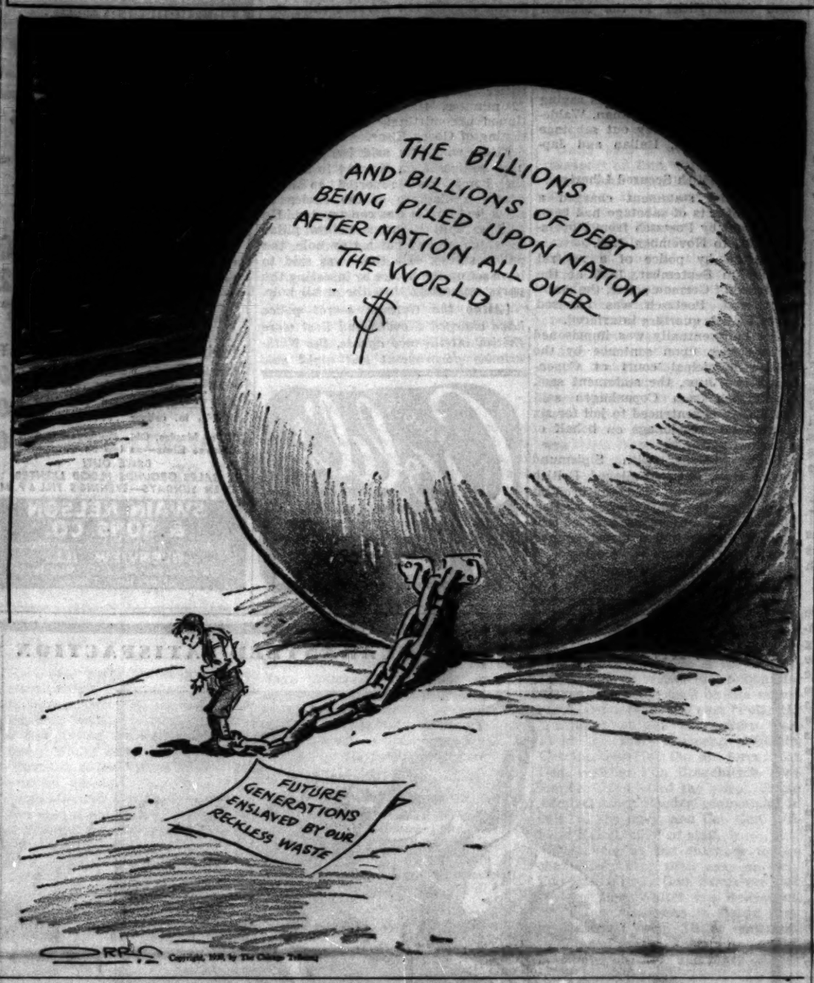
OUR CHILDREN'S LEGACY



Trap Wounded Holdup Slayer in Attic Hideout

Policemen broke into an attic hideout at 18 East 60th street yesterday afternoon and arrested a wounded Negro. A few minutes later the prisoner confessed that he had shot and killed Vito Addante, world war veteran, in a holdup of Addante's grocery at 369 East 54th street last Friday.

The man held is Oscar Bragg, 35 years old, a narcotic addict with a background as a singer and entertainer. He was shot in both legs, in the left arm, and in the left side by Addante's son, Pasquale, 13 years old. His wounds have had little attention. He was taken to the Wabash avenue police station on a stretcher and then to the Bridewell hospital.

Weep as They Identify Him.

He was identified by Mrs. Rose Addante, widow of the victim, and by Pasquale. Both wept as they looked at him.

"It is the man," said Mrs. Addante. "I pleaded with him not to shoot my children."

Calmly Bragg admitted the crime. He corrected the widow when she said she thought he wore a wig the night of the slaying. "It was no wig," he said, "maybe my hair was mussed."

In a formal statement, made to Assistant State's Attorney Alexander Napoli, the prisoner said he was "kind of crazed" and desperate because he was "on the dope" when he fired. He has served two terms in the Bridewell on narcotics charges.

Tells Story of Holdup.

He said that he had taken a pistol belonging to his brother, William, in their home at 5738 Indiana avenue on Friday. [The weapon was found there by Capt. William A. Byrne, Lieut. Al Booth, and Sergt. Thomas Brennan.] He already had planned the robbery of the Addante grocery. He did not know, he said, that Addante had shot and killed a robber last February.

"There was a little boy [Pasquale] in the store, near the kitchen door," he continued. "I told him to show me where the cash register was. The boy ran. His mother came out the door with some more children and asked me not to hurt them. I said I wouldn't if she showed me the money.

Couldn't Miss, Says Slayer.

"Pretty soon I saw a gun pushed from the areaway to the kitchen. Behind it was a man. He was coming slow. I hollered, 'Don't shoot,' but he fired and a bullet in my leg knocked me down. Then I fired and kept shooting. I couldn't hardly miss; he was only about two feet away. He fell and I went for the door. The boy was shooting at me then and hit me two or three times."

Bragg went to the Provident hospital in a cab, but fled to his home rather than be questioned. There he stayed until Saturday night, when his brother, William, a cab driver, took him to Dr. F. W. Wand, colored, 5501 Prairie avenue, where his wounds were treated. The physician, who reported the visit to the police, said he was threatened with a knife. This was denied by the Braggs, who said Dr. Wand knew Oscar.

Reveals Hiding Place.

William Bragg was questioned Sunday. He said he did not know his passenger. Yesterday, requestioned, he said that he had taken his brother back home from Dr. Wand's and had then arranged for Oscar to stay in the attic hideout, where the fugitive had been since Monday. The police raid followed.

The killer said he sang with a colored show on the midway at A Century of Progress exposition in 1934, and was later employed on a federal arts project. He toured Canada with a quartet in 1937 and 1938, he said, and later took part in a radio show.

"I'm a pretty good bass," he boasted, "and I used to be in a church choir a long time ago."

AIR LINER TAKES OFF FOR CHICAGO; FORCED TO ROLL INTO MARSH

Newark, N. J., Nov. 23 [Special].—Loss of power in one of the two engines of an American Airlines transport plane caused a forced landing at Newark airport this morning when the plane was taking off and was about 10 feet in the air. None of the crew or the 15 passengers was injured.

Capt. W. B. Wittaker, pilot of the plane, said that as he took off near the end of the southwest runway he noticed a loss of power in the right motor. He said he brought the plane down and it rolled about 150 feet into a marsh on the edge of the airport. A strut holding the right wheel broke and pierced the right wing. The plane made a half turn to the right and came to a stop.

The plane was bound for Buffalo, Detroit, and Chicago. The passengers were returned to the company's airport depot, where they boarded another plane.

It's Thanksgiving in Two Tri-Cities; None in Other

Davenport, Ia., Nov. 23 [Special].—Moline and Rock Island business was closed today, while in Davenport, just across the Mississippi river, business was carried on almost as usual. Illinois was following President Roosevelt's official proclamation and celebrating Thanksgiving day today, while Gov. George C. Wilson of Iowa proclaimed Nov. 30 as Iowa's Thanksgiving day.

Autoist Takes Spin at Wheel of Misfortune

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Nov. 23.—Philip Zampemma, 28 years old, of Brooklyn, who is just learning to drive an automobile, started out this morning to get some practice at the wheel.

At about the same time, Mrs. Rose Gerace, who operates a grocery in Brooklyn, put her 2 year old son, Alfred, in front of the door of her store with the stern admonition that he stay right there and play.

Things Begin to Happen.

Then things began to happen. Zampemma's car got out of control and smashed through the front of Mrs. Gerace's store.

The oil caught fire, and the puppy became a bundle of flame.

Firemen and Police Arrive.

Firemen put out the fire.

A policeman shot the dog to end its suffering.

Another policeman gave Zampemma a summons to Traffic court.

And Alfred, the baby, who had disobeyed his mother's instructions to stay where she had put him and had toddled into another doorway nearby, wasn't hurt a bit.

'Polar Bears' Enjoy (They Say) Their First Winter Dip

Members of the Polar Bears organization, winter time swimmers, opened the current season with a swim yesterday in Lake Michigan from the Edgewater Beach hotel beach. Five women joined the chilling plunge into the lake. Temperature of the water was in the mid-forties, it was said. The Polar Bears have been enjoying [so they say] swimming thruout the winter months for fifteen years.

Empires Claim 20 Victories in 72 Hours; Germany Five

Both the French and British and the German high commands agree there has been a resumption of serious western front air activity in the last three days. However, there the agreement ends. Here are both sides' stories:

The Paris Version

PARIS, Nov. 23 (AP).—French and British flyers tonight were credited with having shot down nine more German planes today, bringing to 20 their total for the three days since the renewal of serious air activity on the western front.

Seven of the planes shot from the skies today were reported to have been downed by English Hurricane fighters. All the British planes were said to have returned to their bases safely after their encounter with the German bomber reconnaissance ships. Yesterday the British brought down two German planes in dogfights. No British planes have been reported lost in the last three days in western front fighting.

Today French flyers, many of whom were using American-made Curtiss planes, shot down two enemy aircraft in aerial battles deep within France. The French said they had accounted for six enemy craft yesterday while on Tuesday they brought down three German fighters. Reports here were that all of the 11 planes brought down in the last three days by the French were Messerschmitts.

Reports on Losses Vary.

According to French officials, they lost only one plane in the renewed air battles of the last three days. British reports yesterday, however, said two French planes had been lost.

One of the German fighting ships sent spinning from the skies by the British today fell in the Champagne region. The three occupants leaped from the plane in parachutes. One was injured in landing, another was killed, and the third was found to have been wounded.

Planes Over Paris Routed.

Altho increased air penetration of France by German planes was noted, military sources said the flights were for scouting purposes only.

These sources said three planes took part in a flight over the Paris region early this morning, which caused an air raid alarm. Antiaircraft batteries routed the planes.

Counting on Morane and Curtiss planes to battle the admitted initial German numerical superiority in the air, the French said they believed that further purchases of United States warplanes and the speeding of British and French domestic production would meet increased German air factory output.

Berlin's Story

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—While aerial warfare steadily is increasing, with German squadrons flying daily over France and Britain and as far north as the Shetland Islands, the Germans claim to have proved the superiority of the German Messerschmitt plane over the French Morane and the American Curtiss machines.

In today's war communique the Germans claimed to have shot down five Frenchmen and destroyed one British flying boat off the Shetland Islands.

[The British admitted one of their flying boats had been destroyed by fire started by a bomb from a German plane attacking the Shetland Islands on Wednesday. They claimed, however, that the Germans had inflicted no further damage.]

Admit One Plane Lost.

Three French Morane planes, the Germans asserted, were downed by four German pursuit ships over Horbach in the Saarbruecken sector and another was shot down at Sedan. They admit the loss of only one plane, forced down by French pursuit ships near Freiburg.

The German communique also reported an air battle over French territory between nine German "destroyers" and sever French pursuit ships. The Germans claim the French were "driven away, thus enabling the German scouting planes to continue their reconnaissance activity" over French territory. The communique said the "planes were able to do specially valuable reconnaissance work despite heavy antiaircraft fire and defense activities by enemy pursuit planes."

Nazis Mapping Maginot Line.

The Germans apparently are completing a map of the Maginot line to establish whether new fortifications have been built since the war began. Until recently German flyers had strict orders not to fly over French territory.

The destroyers mentioned in today's communique are heavy, armed, swift pursuit ships with a wide cruising radius. The other belligerents are said to be without planes of this type. The destroyers are twin engined Messerschmitts mounting two 20 millimeter cannon and six machine guns. The cannon and four machine guns are mounted in the nose of the ship. The ship requires a crew of only two. The pilot operates the guns, while the observer loads them.

Neutrals Protest British Threat

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

AMSTERDAM, the Netherlands, Nov. 23.—Belgium and the Netherlands instructed their ambassadors in London and Paris today to protest against the new economic blockade by Great Britain and France which will force outgoing steamers of the neutral lands to submit to the same search as those coming in. Britain has announced its decision to seize German exports found on neutral ships.

The Dutch protest was stronger than that of Belgium. The Dutch asserted that Britain's decision is a reprisal for the sinking of the Dutch liner Simon Bolivar by a mine in the North sea last Saturday with a loss of 85 lives. The Dutch, while accepting the loss, say it is inexcusable that Britain should take reprisals against the Netherlands because of a case which does not concern Britain.

Heavy Blow to Neutrals.

The Dutch envoy in London was reported to have told the British that the seizure decision, altho directed against Germany, would strike heavily against neutral countries which carry goods, particularly the Netherlands and Belgium because of their geographical position.

The Belgian protest goes back to the treaty of Paris in 1856 in which all signatories agreed that commerce from belligerents to neutrals was immune from search and seizure. Modification of international law, which Britain initiated in 1912, failed to invalidate this position. The Belgians and Dutch reserved all their rights under international law.

Liner Resumes Sailings.

THE HAGUE, Nov. 23 (AP).—The Holland-America liner Statendam, with 1,250 passengers, prepared to leave early tomorrow for New York as shipping companies resumed sailings except to British ports in the mine laden North sea area.

The resumption of restricted shipping came 24 hours after lines suspended sailings on advice of the government.

The Statendam, whose passenger list includes 700 German refugees, is due to pick up 125 passengers at Southampton. It was announced she would steer an open water course by daylight in the neighborhood of the English east coast.

'Chute Mines Feasible

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—Military and naval experts here tonight said that the sowing of mines by parachutes from airplanes, which the British report the Germans are doing along the English coast, is technically feasible. They added, it is unlikely the German aviators can mine large areas thickly enough to make the procedure decisive in the war.

Naval officers explained how American flyers release parachute mines from low altitudes. It is done, they said, by "parachute pulloff." This means the 'chute envelope is opened in the wash of the propeller. Fully extended, it drags the mine from the plane and floats it down to the sea, on which it alights so gently that it is not detonated.

One coast artillery officer was skeptical about the reports. "If they're 500 pound mines, no plane could carry more than four," he said. "To have an effective mine field 100 to 150 mines must be planted in a careful pattern. That would require 25 to 40 planes, and that many would attract attention and start a fight. I don't believe stories about new explosives making small mines effective."

GERMAN FLYERS SOWING MINES, BRITISH CHARGE

25 Vessels Are Lost in Week of War.

BULLETIN.

PARIS, Nov. 23 (AP).—A French submarine chaser, the Admiral Mouchez, was reported tonight to have scored a depth bomb hit on a German underseas craft in the English channel after escaping one of the submarine's torpedoes. The Admiral Mouchez was traveling in a night convoy when the submarine fired the torpedo, it was reported. The chaser loosed depth charges, it was said, and oil rising to the surface indicated a hit.

LONDON, Nov. 23 (AP).—Eight British, French, and neutral vessels were added today to the heavy maritime losses of the past week from mine and submarine warfare.

Simultaneously, the British press charged the Germans with planting magnetic mines in shallow east coast shipping lanes by planes and small submarines. The mines dropped from planes were attached to parachutes, it was said.

Britain, to combat the increasing menace to shipping, was understood to be planning a two way offensive to clear the seas of mines.

Twenty-five Ships in Six Days.

The eight new losses sent the total for the last six days to 25 ships. For the nearly three months of war the losses soared to 151. The total amount of ship tonnage destroyed climbed to 572,633, the known deaths to 2,033, and the number of missing to 120. The new sinkings increased Britain's losses to 82 ships, France's to 9, and neutral nations' to 45. Germany has lost 15 ships.

Those vessels added to the list of victims today follow:

Aragonite, British minesweeper of 315 tons, which struck a mine yesterday and sank. Four men were injured.

Lowland, 974 ton British steamer, which sank in the North sea with nine men missing and one dead. The cause of the sinking was not given.

Darino, 1,351 ton British steamer, sunk by submarine Nov. 19. Sixteen of her crewmen were believed missing. Eleven survivors landed on the east coast.

Elena B., Greek steamer of 4,576 tons, sunk by a mine, 24 persons saved.

Two French Ships.

Geraldus, 2,494 tons, British, formerly the Candlestone, 26 saved. No cause was given for the sinking.

Bayles II, French fishing trawler sunk by submarine, 16 saved.

Press charges against German tactics in the sea war were led by an Exchange Telegraph report which said it had been learned that mines had been dropped by parachute last night by German planes flying low over the Thames estuary.

Very Light, Very Powerful.

These mines were described as being very light and containing a singularly powerful explosive. One aircraft, the dispatch said, could sow a large number of such mines.

Naval authorities hinted Britain was mobilizing a two way fight against the mine menace by:

1. Developing a new minesweeping technique, possibly with wooden minesweepers or craft insulated from contacts that set off magnetic mines.

2. Intensifying air and sea patrols against minelayers.

Geoffrey Shakespeare, parliamentary undersecretary to the admiralty, told the house of commons that 15 mines, all German, had come ashore on the eastern English coast within the last two weeks.

SEE PLANES LAY MINES

LONDON, Nov. 23 [Special].—Eyewitness accounts of how huge German seaplanes parachuted magnetic mines into the estuary of the Thames river were told tonight.

Working in moonlight and flying so slowly people ashore could see the crews moving about inside, the Germans allowed the mines to float gently into the sea lanes, it was said.

One plane was said to have been seen landing on the sea, and it is believed members of the crew of this plane either were attempting to lay a mine in some special spot or to work in conjunction with a submerged submarine.

British admiralty officials believe the only purpose of night reconnaissance flights by German planes over the outskirts of Kent was to create a diversion while other German aircraft sowed mines.

Engaged by British Guns.

A resident of the Essex coast told how he saw the mines dropped.

"First," he said, "two German planes appeared overhead. They were engaged by our guns and disappeared inland. I was watching to see what happened when I heard the noise of another machine.

"I looked around and was amazed to see a trimotored flying boat less than 100 feet above the water and not a quarter mile from shore. The machine passed in front of me and by the dim light in her cabin I could see figures of men moving about.

"I held my breath at the daring of the pilot. He was within a few yards of one of the most strongly fortified areas in the country.

"Then in the moonlight I saw something drop from the plane and splash into the water. The seaplane shot away when a machine gunner appeared to open fire on her."

GERMANS TELL STAND

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—A spokesman for the German navy today declared that the "disasters which have struck neutral ships off the British coast in recent weeks have proved conclusively that England cannot keep up protection of neutrals in her own waters."

Official circles took great pains to stress that "there are no German floating mines in international shipping lanes." They insisted, however, that the regions in which mines have been sinking ships "were being used by British naval units and therefore could not be considered as truly mercantile shipping lanes."

The Germans further contended that, according to international agreements, "it is forbidden to lay mines near a coast if action is directed only against merchantmen."

Fault of the English.

"It is the fault of the English if one must reckon with the constant presence near the coast of English warships, against which the use of mines is permissible," they said. "Announcement of the laying of mines in a special area is only necessary under provisions of The Hague convention [of 1907] after military purpose has been achieved. Naturally, they have the right to defend their waters against the enemy. If the British public asks worriedly why the British admiralty does not use its right the answer is clear. The admiralty is not able to protect British coastal waters and shipping channels."

How the German mines were placed at points the Germans consider of strategic importance was revealed partly in the reply of naval experts who said that "in the last war we had mine laying submarines. In the meantime, technical progress has been made."

Cite Polish War Tactics.

Airmen, when asked as to the truthfulness of the British assertion that mines had been dropped by German planes, pointed to the achievements of transport planes in the Polish war. Such planes then carried huge containers of gasoline and ammunition to the front lines and dropped them with the help of parachutes.

German officials said that new German torpedoes and explosive mines were "superior to those of the opponents." They also held that the magnetic power of the German torpedoes is an important feature which the torpedoes of other countries do not possess to the same degree.

POLES' SHADOW REGIME GOES TO WORK IN FRANCE

Has Propaganda and Military Duties.

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ANGERS, France, Nov. 23. — This provincial capital of the department of Maine-et-Loire now can boast it is the capital of a nation, tho hardly for the moment a sovereign state.

Arrow locates Polish capital.

Exactly, it is the provisional capital of Poland. A full-fledged cabinet headed by the new premier, Gen. Wladislaw Sikorski, began functioning today. At its first meeting Gen. Sikorski reminded the cabinet that it was responsible for a nation of 34,000,000 inhabitants which continues to struggle against the enemy, Germany.

Previous to the meeting, the cabinet attended mass in the Angers cathedral. Among those present were the American ambassador to Poland, Anthony J. Drexel Biddle Jr., and his wife.

Complete Diplomatic Corps.

This Polish government is attended by a complete diplomatic corps, mostly ambassadors accredited to the former Polish government. The diplomats escaped from Warsaw along with the Polish government, on Sept. 4 and 5.

The new government wields effective sovereignty over less territory than Andorra or the Vatican state. It has only the few buildings and their grounds, to which the French government has accorded extraterritorial privileges. Its subjects number only the few hundred Poles now in Angers doing government work. There are thousands of other Poles in France, of course, but they are subject to French law.

The government is, for the time being, a shadow government. It has been set up as a reminder to Poles themselves not to accept the fourth partition of Poland.

Chief Function Is Military.

The chief present function of the government is military. It will control the new Polish army being trained in France. It will regulate the relations of this force to the military and naval forces of France and Britain. Another of its functions is propaganda. In view of some future treaty of peace, this government's present task is to get the maximum of Polish demands. What those demands will be now is considered an explosive question.

The only light I could get on the question came this morning in a statement issued by Premier Sikorski. It contained one revealing remark, which follows: "I noted with great pleasure that the Polish fleet has spread in Britain this truth, that Poland ought to possess strong naval bases on the Baltic."

[A few Polish destroyers which escaped from Gotenhafen [Gdynia] now are cooperating with the British fleet in the North sea.]

The new president of Poland, Wladislaw Raczkiewicz, has not yet arrived at Angers, but he is expected within a few days. He will be lodged in a sumptuous mansion about 3 miles outside Angers.

BRITAIN BLAMED FOR SABOTAGE ON GERMANY'S SHIPS

Nazis Claim Agents Hired Emigrant as Wrecker.

BERLIN, Nov. 23 (AP).—Germany, by official statement and newspaper accounts, today sought to establish a connection between the British intelligence service and numerous cases of alleged sabotage at sea.

At the same time German secret police continued their effort to pin on British agents the Nov. 8 attempt to bomb Adolf Hitler in the Munich Buergerbrau beer cellar.

Hitler's Voelkischer Beobachter quoted Capt. Richard Henry Stevens, alleged chief of the British intelligence service for western Europe who is now in German custody, as saying he used an emigrant German, Waldemar Poetzsch, to carry out sabotage plots on German, Italian and Japanese ships.

Charge British Secured Liberty.

An official statement charged a number of acts of sabotage had been carried out by Poetzsch from November, 1937, to November, 1938.

Arrested by police of a neutral country in September, 1938, at the insistence of German police, the statement said, Poetzsch was released when British quarters interfered.

But he eventually was imprisoned for sabotage upon sentence by the Danish Municipal court at Copenhagen last June, the statement said. A dispatch from Copenhagen said Poetzsch was sentenced to jail for six months for "espionage on behalf of a foreign power."

Capt. Stevens, with Sigismund Payne Best, another alleged British intelligence agent, was captured at Venloo on the Netherlands border, Nov. 9. The Germans accused the pair of having had a direct connection with the Munich explosion.

Recalls Athenia Sinking.

Stevens was reported to have told the Germans that the ship sabotage acts were planned in a secret service office on the ground floor of the Broadway building in London. He was quoted as saying his superiors had informed him the bureau would become increasingly important.

The Beobachter said that in view of the statements by Stevens the United States of America might wish to reexamine the Athenia incident.

"The first ship of English origin in which perhaps a similar act was undertaken by the order of the intelligence service is the Athenia," the official statement said.

The Germans have insisted the British liner Athenia, sunk on Sept. 3, the first day of the war, was a victim of the British themselves.

Germans List Ships.

Included among the ships which Beobachter said had suffered from sabotage were the Hestia, Norderney, Feronia, and the Italian Felce.

[This is the first report of sabotage on any of the ships. The Norderney is a 1,110 ton German naval oiler, the Hestia a 2,883 ton German ship, the Felce an Italian 5,539 ton vessel, and the Feronia a 651 ton German ship.]

Elser, who was said by police to have confessed on Nov. 14 to setting the bomb, was reported to have drawn a diagram of the device to show just how it was constructed. He said he built it into a hollow pillar in which he had cut a tiny hole, the police stated. He then was said to have set up the device by inserting the parts separately thru the small hole.

[Altho the German secret police have charged Stevens and Best were British intelligence agents, the Netherlands government last night said they had represented themselves as peace negotiators. Dutch newspapers, which said the two Englishmen were captured 35 yards within Dutch territory, said Stevens was connected with the British passport office at The Hague. The official Netherlands statement said an unidentified Netherlands army officer and a Netherlands chauffeur were captured at the same time as the two Englishmen in the incident at Venloo.]

KENNEDY CALLED HOME; TO LEAVE ON CLIPPER DEC. 3

LONDON, Nov. 23 (AP).—The American embassy announced today that Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy had been called home by the state department in Washington for consultation and would leave by clipper from Lisbon, Portugal, Dec. 3. The nature of the consultations was not announced.

Kennedy said he planned to return to London after the Christmas holiday, which he said he would spend with his family in America.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 23 (AP).—Ambassador Joseph E. Davies arrived today to sail for America from Genoa, Italy, Dec. 2, aboard the liner Rex for consultations in Washington on Belgian trade negotiations.

Finland Will Not Submit, Premier Warns Russians

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Nov. 23 (AP).—Premier Aimo K. Cajander in a speech tonight said Finland had gone as far as possible toward meeting soviet Russia's demands and that "no war of nerves or economic pressure will make Finland bow down." He said Finland was ready to resume negotiations with Russia at any time but only on a "basis not implying a violation of her vital interests."

FAMILIES SUFFER AS WAR UPSETS LIFE IN BRITAIN

Upheaval Greater Than Any in Last 300 Years.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Nov. 23.—I have returned to London after traveling about 2,300 miles and spending more than three weeks surveying wartime conditions in England, Scotland and Wales.

My general conclusion is that the British Isles are undergoing social and economic changes greater than in any period in the last 300 years and that England probably never will be the same again.

Public Is Bewildered.

Here are some additional conclusions:

1. The people are bewildered and prematurely wearied by war because this conflict has not had the fireworks they expected.

2. They are almost disappointed and indignant, paradoxical as it may seem, that anticipated mass air raids have not yet materialized. They recall that vast sums of money have been spent on air raid defense.

3. Every one feels it is right to grumble, complain and jeer at mismanagement and burocracy. The middle class and elderly persons are fervently patriotic and want to be up and at 'em. Most of the soldiers are having a good time and are spirited unless they have been on guard duty in some obscure village. Women—there are 2,000,000 more women than men in England—are war minded and eager to get into uniform to help.

4. The people regard the war with grim dislike, but with grim and stubborn determination that once a decision has been made it must be carried out.

Peace Crowd Curious Mixture.

The articulate peace crowd is a curious minority. It includes a mixture of political elements embracing intellectuals such as H. G. Wells and George Bernard Shaw; the communists such as Harry Poullitt and William Gallacher, and the Fascists such as Sir Oswald Mosley.

British peace planners already have in mind a scheme to make every nation sacrifice some of its sovereignty and join a federation in which the English, with their experience in commonwealth organization, would play a leading rôle.

This country's rich soil could make it almost self-sufficient in food and its position with regard to the U boat menace would be immeasurably bettered if it went in for more agriculture. Lord Lymington, in a recent book, "Famine in England," warned against depending on other countries for food supplies. One wonders about this in looking at the unused acres.

Home Life Affected.

A total of 1,500,000 women and children have been evacuated officially from cities to escape air raids. Many more evacuations have taken place thru economic pressure and thru private initiative.

Along with this exodus of women and children has been the mobilization and drafting of millions of men and women in the fighting forces and auxiliary organizations. Departure of women and children from cities has affected home life more than any other single factor.

Many husbands and fathers in the working class have found loneliness and difficulties of housekeeping unendurable. This is one reason why many mothers and children have returned to the cities.

The situation is different for middle class families. When wife and family are sent away new lodgings in private houses or hotels have to be paid for. The abandoned home also must be paid for. Municipal taxes on rent are very high, about as high as rent itself.

Economic problems such as have never been envisaged are the worry of many households. Dividends are down. Prices are going up. The number of professional men whose incomes have disappeared or have diminished is extremely high. Many are unable to meet their insurance premiums and to pay school tuition fees.

Various expedients are employed or tried out. The family house has been rented furnished, the automobile put aside and the family moved into a small apartment. Many hitherto well-to-do homes both in London and the country are taking paying guests.

WAR DEBATE SET FOR NOV. 28 IN BRITISH HOUSE

LONDON, Nov. 23 (AP).—King George VI. of Great Britain prorogued parliament today. A new session is scheduled to open on Nov. 28 with debate on all aspects of the war.

It was intimated today that the session might include a secret sitting, the first since the world war, to discuss supply and munitions.

The Labor party has sought assurances from the government that the industrial resources of the nation are being used to best advantage in the war and it was understood the government would accede to the wishes of Clement Atlee, Labor leader, for the secret sitting.

Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain earlier told a questioner in commons that this was not the time to consider offering to let other countries join the British empire as a part of war reconstruction.

Mussolini Calls Fascist Grand Council for Dec. 7

ROME, Nov. 23 (AP).—Premier Mussolini today summoned the Fascist grand council to meet on Dec. 7. Foreign observers expressed a belief that Il Duce would lay war problems before Italy's highest policy forming body, perhaps with a view of defining further Italy's position. The conflict is vitally affecting the country's trade, maritime traffic, finances, industry and economic situation.

British Knight and Wife Found Dead; Both Shot

LONDON, Nov. 23 (AP).—Sir William Reid, former acting governor of the Indian province of Assam, and Lady Reid, were found dead of gunshot wounds today near their rural home with a pet spaniel on guard and a gun near by. The couple had been missing since going for a walk with the dog on Tuesday evening. Sir William was 68.

Volcano Erupts; Village Is Covered with Ashes

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Nov. 23.—The volcano Telica, near the village of Telica in the department of Leon, began erupting yesterday. It emitted smoke and ashes which covered Telica and the nearby countryside. Crops were ruined. Inhabitants of the region were terrified.

BRITISH GRANTED BULGARIAN BASE FOR PROPAGANDA

Combat Intensive Activity of German Agents.

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 23.—Lord Lloyd, British mystery man of the moment, scored a point today for British propaganda. As British "cultural propaganda" chief for foreign countries, he got permission from Bulgaria to open a British institute here—a center of propaganda in the form of pro-British lectures, free language lessons, exhibitions and other such activities. British propaganda was in need of a new foundation in the Balkans to compete with the intensive activity of German propagandists.

Lord Lloyd.

Calls on Two Kings.

In every capital Lord Lloyd sees the nation's leaders as well as British diplomats. Since his arrival here on Sunday he has seen King Boris and Premier George Kiosseivanoff as in Bucharest he saw King Carol of Rumania and various ministers.

German propaganda is evident on all sides in the Balkans in the form of German books, pamphlets, periodicals, and maps, including maps of the Polish campaign and the western front, and by the presence of German envoys of various sorts.

The Germans opened a permanent industrial exhibition in Sofia last Sunday, presenting elaborate exhibits showing the processes of making their many "ersatz" [synthetic] materials, such as cotton from wood pulp, and other materials which substitute for raw materials they cannot get.

Supply of Goods Slow.

At the moment trade of the Balkan countries suffers from German domination. The Balkans have to take German goods instead of cash and at present it is hard to get even German goods, altho Germany constantly is pressing for larger supplies of foodstuffs and raw materials.

When the Danube river freezes, which normally is about the end of November, it will cut off river export which was an important channel of Germany's supplies from the Balkans.

Sofia had its first snowstorm yesterday and it looks as if real winter and a frozen Danube are not far off.

To encourage all possible efforts to keep supplies moving to Germany, the Germans have put on the pressure of propaganda and the British are trying to counteract it.

All British legations in the Balkans now have press attachés with ample staffs. They send out British news, discuss the British point of view with local newspaper men and British foreign correspondents, and generally act as publicity men for the empires.

Irish Banquet Will Honor Fighters for Independence

Irish societies in Chicago will meet Sunday evening in the Morrison hotel at a banquet honoring those who died fighting for an independent Ireland. The American Association for Recognition of the Irish Republic, the Ancient Order of Hibernians, and other groups will attend. A resolution asking that neutral Ireland be excluded from the European combat zone, as laid down by President Roosevelt, will be presented. American ships are at present barred from Irish ports by the ruling.

Weds Oil Man

[Acme Photo.]

Louise Dudley Lynch Getty.

New York, Nov. 23 (AP).—J. Paul Getty, a Los Angeles, Cal., oil man and hotel owner, returned on the Italian liner Conte di Savoia today after negotiating with soviet Russian buyers in Berlin for the sale of a million barrels of California oil to be used in Siberia.

Getty said it would cost less to transport oil from California to Vladivostok than from Russia's own Baku oil fields. He was confident the deal would be completed.

While in Europe, Getty married Louise Dudley [Teddie] Lynch, 26 years old, one of the first society girls to sing in a night club. The wedding took place Sept. 14 in Rome, where the bride was studying for an operatic career. She remained abroad to complete her studies.

Also aboard the Conte di Savoia, which brought 842 passengers, including 361 Americans, was Dr. Richard Beer-Hoffman, 73 year old refugee poet from Vienna, who said his 40 room home in the Austrian capital was taken from him under the severe Jewish tax laws.

HITLER GIVES 100 MILITARY CHIEFS ORDERS ON WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—More than 100 generals and admirals of the German army, air force and navy today met with Adolf Hitler in the chancellery where he issued instructions for future warfare "based on the experiences acquired in the east [Poland]."

Leaders at the chancellery were Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, chief of the air force; Col. Gen. Walther Von Brauchitsch, commander in chief of the army; Grand Admiral Erich Raeder, commander in chief of the navy, and Col. Gen. Wilhelm Keitel, chief of staff.

Observers at the entrance to the chancellery kept their eyes on Gen. Von Brauchitsch, Gen. Franz von Halder and Gen. Walter von Reichenau. According to rumors in Berlin they had clashed with Hitler and had threatened to resign. No sign of coolness between them and other officers could be detected.

7 Killed by Blast in Tests of Explosive in Bulgaria

SOFIA, Bulgaria, Nov. 23 (AP).—Six army officers and one private were killed and six other persons injured today in an explosion during tests of an explosive in the ammunition works at Kazanlik.

RUMANIA SEEKS NEW CABINET IN NAZI TRADE ROW

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 23 (AP).—King Carol today asked former Premier George Tatarescu to form a new government to replace the cabinet which resigned after a breakdown of trade negotiations with Germany. The Nazis sought to obtain more oil and foodstuffs from Rumania at a reduced cost.

Premier Constantine Argetoianu gave the cabinet's resignation to the king and it first was reported he would be asked to form another government.

Carol, however, summoned Tatarescu, who until a few months ago was minister to France. He has held cabinet posts since 1933.

Argetoianu was named premier a week after the assassination of Premier Armand Calinescu by members of the outlawed Fascist Iron Guard. His appointment ended an interim military rule with Gen. George Argesanu as premier.

Whether trade negotiations with Germany would be reopened was not known immediately.

What Germany Sought.

Germany, it was reported, asked for an increase in her allotments stipulated in a trade agreement negotiated last spring through the increase of the exchange rate from 41.5 Rumanian lei to 60 lei for each mark [in American money, from 30.3 cents to 43.8 cents]. In addition to requesting Rumanian goods under reduced costs, it was understood Germany asked the use of Rumanian tank cars for rail shipments of oil into Germany.

In rejecting the demands the government said this year's crops were low and that oil production had been reduced. The tank cars, it said, were mainly the property of British, French, and the United States oil companies and were needed in Rumania.

Blockade Crippled Trade.

Some observers said they saw a possible connection between Rumania's attitude toward the reich and recent shipments of British planes and tanks to this country.

Germany's difficulties in getting Rumanian supplies since the war started have been due mainly to the British blockade. Normally 70 per cent of Rumania's general exports to Germany and 57 per cent of her oil exports went by way of the Constanta-Hamburg sea route, which has been cut off. This left only rail and Danube barge routes open to the reich.

Fannie May Sure Has the Right Idea!

★ DICK HANLEY ★

His Comment was Especially Interesting . . .

"Many things impressed me in the Fannie May Kitchens, particularly the care with which the nut meats were sorted. I was reminded of the fact that a hundred strapping young fellows in football togs look about alike at first glance, and it's the coach's job to sort out the top quality. It was the same thing with the nut meats—close inspection showed me decided differences—and only the best were set aside for Fannie May Candy. Now I know why I've always liked Fannie May Nut Candies."

BILL TO DRAFT CAPITAL HIT AS CRACKPOT PLAN

But It's Voted Place on Senate Calendar.

the passage of this law, it would mean 350 billion dollars of wealth would be available if needed to coin into long black cannons, war planes, machine guns, and battleships."

Other senators have observed that the wealth drafting scheme could be used to pay off the entire national debt, now approaching the statutory limit of 45 billion dollars. This they consider one of the menacing political aspects of the scheme.

"Without doubt," says the minority report, "adoption of this proposed legislation would cause in the event of war a severe and drastic economic disturbance, forcing the country into treacherous monetary and economic whirlpools.

"As a breeder of economic chaos and confusion in the critical period at the beginning of American entry into a general war, this measure would thus seriously impede and hamper the prosecution of such a conflict to a successful conclusion, probably prolonging it and adding to the loss of life.

Weapon for Deflation.

"It is perfectly obvious that ordinary and normal values would be sharply and with breath taking rapidity depressed if all the persons subject to the provisions of this proposed legislation were forced to sell property to be able to meet the sums assessed against them by the secretary of the treasury.

"The real economic danger would be done thru the application of the provisions of this bill to a man of wealth engaged, for instance, in manufacturing. All of his net worth, ot, say, $1,000,000, would be invested in his factory. Under the bill he would be required to make available to the treasury $206,950. In the critical times of war, it is doubtful whether he could obtain a loan from his bank for such a sum. Thus he would sell one-fifth of his security holdings.

"Immediately the price would be deflated, especially since every other person of wealth would be subjected to the same pressure from government. Clearly such enforced activity would set in motion a devastating deflationary circle, crippling the economic structure at the very moment its usefulness would be most essential."

Confers Wide Powers.

As to the proposed authority of the President to accept 6 per cent notes in lieu of cash, the report continues:

"A President of the United States who wished to change this country's economic system could refrain from authorizing the acceptance of such notes and thus compel every person assessed a part of his net worth to pay for the war bonds in cash, thus bringing about deflation.

"Or a President might decide that the prospects of severe deflation would be better than the inflation which would follow should he permit the acceptance of notes in payment of the bonds. For the President would be authorized 'to issue currency, notes, and other obligations of the United States upon the security of the property, notes, or other obligations accepted.'

"In other words, if the President permitted our manufacturer with a net worth of $1,000,000 cited above to give his note for the $206,950 which he must make available to the treasury, then the President could—indeed, he would, in order to get the money—issue $200,000 of printing press money, secured only by the securities in the manufacturer's factory. Multiply this transaction several thousand times and an inflationary fuel pile would be built up that, when set off, would rock the nation from coast to coast with skyrocketing prices."

SWINDLES WAR REFUGEE; PRINCE SENT TO PRISON

Frederico Banuls testified he paid the duke to obtain news of Banuls' family who were held in Valencia. He said the duke represented himself as a Spanish Nationalist aviation colonel.

To prove his trust, the duke gave Banuls a painting which, according to testimony, he said was worth 800,000 francs [$17,800] but later was discovered to be worth only a few thousands.

San Pedro, Cal., Nov. 23 (AP).—The largest shipment of aviation gasoline from this port in two years is en route to Japan. The tanker Keisho Maru left last night with 37,000 drums of airplane gasoline—almost 2,000,000 gallons of 92 octane rating fuel. A similar shipment will be made next month. The abrogated Japanese trade treaty with the United States expires Jan. 26. Four other Japanese flag tankers are here to load 300,000 barrels of petroleum.

INDIAN GROUP URGES BRITAIN DISCUSS FREEDOM

BOMBAY, India, Nov. 23 (AP).—The working committee of the dominant Congress party [nationalists] followed the lead of Mohandas K. Gandhi today and left the door open for further negotiations with the British government on the issue of Indian independence.

The committee passed a resolution asking complete self-discipline and unity for India. It reiterated the "right of the people to frame a constitution thru a constituent assembly in order to remove the taint of imperialism from Great Britain's policy."

Two days ago Gandhi said the Congress demand for "complete freedom" for India was the price of her participation in the war against Germany, but added he wished the British public to know that tho the demand was "unequivocal" it could be satisfied "if there is a will to shed imperialism."

British Consuls to Charge $2 for Shipping Permits

New York, Nov. 23 [Special.]—A charge of $2 will be made by British consuls in this country for the issuance of so-called navicerts, commercial passports for merchandise shipped thru the British blockade to neutral nations bordering Germany, according to application forms available at the offices of the British consul general here today. Exporters said they connsidered the $2 charge reasonable.

CITY DRESSES UP FOR SANTA'S VISIT HERE TOMORROW

Elaborate Trappings Vie for Attention.

Shoppers are attracted, the State Street council has found, by a formula that credits sight with drawing 87 per cent of the loop district's holiday throngs. Sound is credited with attracting 7 per cent of the shoppers, while the other 6 per cent are drawn by miscellaneous factors. This is the formula, tested and tried, that State street puts into effect again today when it blossoms out for the annual surge of Christmas shoppers. To attract 87 per cent of the shoppers, it has prepared an elaborate program of decorations. Neighborhood shopping centers also are blossoming out.

Street Takes on Gala Dress.

Most of the stores already have been transformed into lavish and wondrous Christmas settings, with prismatic lightings, snow covered firs, leaping silver reindeer, bells of silver, red and green, and all the assorted beautiful oddments that thru the centuries have come to connote the spirit of Christmas. State street itself has done likewise.

When Santa Claus flies into Chicago today from the north pole on an American Airlines flagship for the annual toy opening, he will find State street lined with gigantic, illuminated wreaths. There will be 146 in all.

The wreaths, designed by John Root, architect, are nine and a half feet in diameter, of double-needle balsam, sprayed vermilion. Two ivory candles, 10 feet high, shoot up thru each wreath. In the center shines a gold star. From the base drops a gold bow and streamers. Each wreath is punctuated by a profusion of red and green lights, the red lights facing south, the green lights facing north.

Santa Goes on the Air.

The wreaths will be glowing when Santa Claus arrives. His message will be transmitted over W-G-N at 12:15 p. m. The Lake View High school a cappella choir, directed by Naomi Sweet, will sing Christmas carols, all broadcast from the sky high over Chicago. Following the broadcast, Santa will descend to the airport to be received by officials of the city, the Chicago Association of Commerce, and the State Street council.

By the way, the toy manufacturers predict this will be the best Christmas in years. They think Santa Claus will spend $211,250,000 on toys this year—and hardly any of the toys, they say, will be drums, toy soldiers, or toy guns.

Lights Tree Now in Case Roosevelt Dates Up Xmas

Hull, Mass., Nov. 23 (AP).—Samuel James is taking no chances, for tonight the lights of a gaily decorated Christmas tree shone on the lawn outside his home. "Things have been happening so fast that I thought I'd better get the lights up before the President proclaims yesterday as Christmas," Mr. James explained.

James Purcell, 16 years old, 7531 Coles avenue, drowned yesterday when he fell into the lake at the new filtration plant at 77th street. Grand Crossing police said he was playing ball with two younger brothers, Thomas and Robert, when he ran out on some slag which gave way. The lake front is being filled in at that point. Robert Covert, 21, of 3534 Fulton boulevard, round James after about fifteen minutes, but the boy could not be revived by firemen who rushed him to South Shore hospital. His father, Raymond Purcell, is engineer at the 67th street pumping station.

300 WPA WORKERS BUILDING A BEACH AT CRAB ORCHARD

Carbondale, Ill., Nov. 23 (AP).—Three hundred WPA workers began construction yesterday of a large bathing beach which is to be part of the recreational development of Crab Orchard lake in Williamson county.

C. E. Hamilton, manager of the federal lake project, said the beach would accommodate 1,000 bathers and would be located near the dam which is to form the 7,000 acre lake, largest in the state. A bathouse and parking areas also are to be built.

In a statement released by the federal department of agriculture thru the University of Illinois, Hamilton said present plans are to close the dam gates for formation of the lake some time prior to next March 1.

STATE O.K.'S MILK CARTON; ASK WHY CHICAGO DELAYS

New Law Regulates Sale in Paper Bottles.

Since July 24, when it was approved by Gov. Horner following passage by the legislature, a state law has been in effect regulating the sale and use of paper milk containers thruout Illinois.

Spokesmen for proponents of the paper cartons pointed to this law yesterday as another argument why the Chicago milk ordinance which prohibits the sale of milk in paper bottles should be amended without delay to permit their use.

Sets Up Standards.

Under the new law the state health department holds and exercises regulatory powers. The measure was sponsored by the department and passed under the guidance of Senator Nicholas L. Hubbard [D., Mount Pulaski]. It sets up sanitary standards which are being applied by department inspectors both in Chicago suburbs and in several downstate communities where paper bottles are now in use.

One spokesman for the paper carton proponents, asserting that for weeks the issue has been shunted around among city officials in Chicago, said:

"We are at a loss to understand the delay in amending the milk ordinance. The new law O. K.'s paper bottles anywhere in the state, yet Chicagoans are still denied the right to use them while suburban housewives, just outside the city limits, are allowed to use them under state regulations."

Points to Reasons for Bill.

Dr. A. C. Baxter, director of the state health department, said last night it drew and sponsored the bill.

"Paper already was in use in several communities," he said, "and in other states. We thought it should be regulated here. The dairies selling in paper are complying."

Aside from the Chicago suburbs, paper cartons have their widest sale in Illinois in the oil fields near Centralia and Salem. They also are used by many dairies in delivering to homes where persons are afflicted with a contagious disease. This obviates the possibility of spreading disease by means of returned bottles.

Delay Action Over Suit.

Altho the Chicago board of health has recommended the use of paper bottles, the city council health committee on Wednesday delayed action pending the outcome of a suit in federal court brought by the Fieldcrest Dairies, Inc., seeking to force the city to permit milk sales in the containers. This matter is being heard by Master in Chancery Jacob I. Grossman.

Grossman said yesterday that taking of testimony had been completed and he was now waiting for the Fieldcrest attorney, Fred A. Gariepy, to file his brief. Gariepy said he would file it within a week. After that the city will be given a period in which to file its reply. Then objections will be heard, and then Grossman will study the evidence and make his recommendation to Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward.

It appeared possible, in view of this schedule, that a decision might not come for two or three months. Grossman said it probably would be at least one month and probably longer.

JAPS OCCUPY KEY CITY IN DRIVE ON CHINA'S 'LIFELINE'

BULLETIN.

TOKIO, Nov. 24, Friday (AP).—Domei, Japanese news agency, reported that Japanese forces on a south China offensive aimed at severing Chungking's "backdoor" lifelines, today occupied Nanning, Kwangsi provincial capital.

CHUNGKING, Nov. 24 [Friday].—Many miles of the Kwangsi province trunk highway to Indo-China, one of China's communications lifelines, have been destroyed in connection with preparations for the defense of Nanning, authoritative circles revealed today. Roads in all directions to Nanning have been torn up.

Other steps to resist the Japanese invasion of Kwangsi province include the calling of provincial militia men and self-defense corps.

Two Japanese planes were said to have been shot down in Nanning on Wednesday. Daylong bombing attacks on Nanning and nearby cities continue. The Chinese say the Nipponese advance from Kwangtung province has been checked just inside the Kwangsi border north of Tatang.

MUSIC IN MERCHANDISING

By CALEB

WHILE we of the U. S. A. no longer imitate the Briton's distinctly sidewise look at "trade" as something lower in the occupational scale than the professions—business is still much thought and spoken of as a bleak, competitive arena where sentiment and the amenities merit little room and play little part.

The attitude has, of course, its supporting arguments. Many phases of the commercial day are hard-headed, practical affairs of wit matched against wit, and no quarter given. Plans must be practical; rulings on service and ability impersonal; decisions unbiased by private preference. In these senses, being "businesslike" is a most logical and necessary implication of being in business.

Yet, requisite as they are, these are matters of management, strategy, policy, operating acumen. The carrying out, the ultimate application, of plan, principle, method, administrative fiat, still remains a function of personnel . . . a term as first-kin to the word "personal" in business literalness as it is in everyday etymology.

And to define good personnel execution, business unhesitatingly borrows a term from the field of music, as its common denominator: Harmony. No wonder, then, that it is but a natural step to continue the borrowing further, and adopt music itself as a vital contributor to personnel harmony!

The thought struck me most forcibly, in listening, on a recent Tuesday evening, to one of the weekly Fall rehearsals of our Choral Society. For I saw, sitting in some two hundred closely ranked chairs in our Wedgwood Room, specific evidence of how communal singing by a store's personnel instantly composes, harmonizes, all distinctions and differences of individual routine. Side-by-side, vying for effective rendition of Glinka or Verdi in mutual enjoyment, were representatives of every different store section, who work by day in all capacities from least to greatest—but sing by night on the same fraternal level.

Yes, it's good business to have music in business: literal harmony as well as figurative. The Marshall Field Choral Society is outstanding proof of that fact, evidenced in a fine singing group of all ages and both sexes, now resuming its thirty-third consecutive season's activities as a musical organization.

The Christmastide rendering of the Messiah, and our annual midwinter concert, which will this year feature Richard Crooks as guest artist, are expressive of a personnel feature as fine and desirable commercially as it is praiseworthy professionally.

COUNTY REDUCES ITS DEBT AS TAX INCOME RISES

49 Millions Lopped Off Total in Year.

The six major governments in Cook county reduced their debts by nearly 49 million dollars in the year ended Sept. 30, an analysis of third quarter financial statements showed yesterday. The six governments are the city, school board, park district, sanitary district, county, and forest preserve district.

Each of the governments was able to cut its obligations during the year. The general reduction reflected a gradual improvement in tax collections which has made possible the retirement of outstanding bonds and tax warrants. The school board made the largest reduction, cutting its total debt 20 per cent during the year.

Debt Reduced Sharply.

On Sept. 30, the six governments owed a total of $455,797,362, compared with $504,497,992 a year earlier. The total bonded indebtedness and tax warrant obligations were reduced sharply, and the floating, or current, debts showed a slight decline.

The net bonded debt of all governments was reduced by 33 millions to $357,058,185 on Sept. 30. Net bonded debt means bonds outstanding plus accrued interest minus the amount held in sinking funds for retirement of bonds.

In the third quarter of this year debts of the six governments were cut more than 21 millions from the total of $477,438,710 on June 30. This reduction was partly a result of the rush to pay tax bills before the Sept. 1 penalty date. That was the deadline for the final instalment of real estate taxes.

NEW DEAL TOWN WARNED AGAINST ABUSE OF UTILITY

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 23 [Special].—Residents of Greendale, the government owned suburban village near Hales Corners, have been making generous use of the electric current which they get from the Milwaukee electric company at a flat rate.

Sherwood L. Reeder, manager of Greendale, today notified the tenants that excessive use of current was a violation of their leases, which provide for a reasonable domestic use. The tenants pay from $4.50 to $7 a month for current for ranges, refrigerators, and light, and for rent for the ranges and refrigerators.

Reeder noted that since cold weather began, consumption of current increased 50 per cent, which he ascribed to the general use of room heaters in preference to furnaces and to the heating of water by electric current rather than on laundry stoves.

There are 730 residential units in Greendale, and the current is metered thru general areas and not to individual tenants.

THIEF GETS $350 ACCORDION.

Anthony Orlando, proprietor of a music store at 5328 Belmont avenue, told police yesterday that an accordion worth $350, and six gold lockets worth $18 were stolen from a window of the store Wednesday night.

MOVE TO BLOCK BOOST IN LIMIT OF DEBT GROWS

New Dealers Disturbed by Opposition.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23.—The Roosevelt administration is becoming increasingly uneasy over a rapidly growing movement in congress against raising of the 45 billion dollar public debt limit at the next session.

Senator Millard E. Tydings [D., Md.] joined the movement today, siding with such stalwarts as Senators Alva B. Adams [D., Colo.], Carter Glass [D., Va.], and William H. King [D., Utah], who have protested the raising of the ceiling on the national debt which will be close to 43 billion dollars at the end of the fiscal year.

"Raising the debt limit is not necessary and I hope it will not be attempted," Senator Tydings declared. "Three courses are open to us. We must spend less, raise more revenue or apply a combination of the two policies. Certainly we can now spend less, with improvement all over the country.

Would Stay Within Income.

"We must begin now to approach the day when we will spend no more than we take in. The longer we postpone it the harder it is going to be for the people, particularly the poor, to bear the burdens that will be necessary."

Defeat of legislation raising the debt limit would leave the administration the unpleasant task of imposing new federal taxes. It is a political axiom that tax bills must never be framed in election years and next year—unfortunately from the viewpoint of administration leaders—falls into that category.

The White House put out a statement the other day that President Roosevelt hoped to be able to cut the deficit for the 1941 fiscal year one billion dollars below the deficit for the current year which promises to approximate four billions. Even if that could be done [and fiscal experts are wondering how the President proposes to do it without abandoning his national defense program] there would remain a three billion deficit which would shove the public debt beyond the 45 billions permitted by law.

Glass Sums Up Situation.

Once the 45 billion dollar debt limit is reached, the treasury will be unable to issue more securities for sale. The situation, in that case, of the richest nation in the world would be the following, as put succinctly by Senator Glass:

"We would either have to repudiate our indebtedness, inflate—which is a form of repudiation—or worst of all, have unendurable taxes. I mean unendurable literally."

The one hope of the administration is for a business boom of such proportions that the revenue of the government would be enormously increased under present taxes. Some administration officials have even talked of a surplus of revenue over expenditures, but with outgo near the 10 billion dollar level, this admittedly is highly improbable.

Defense Budget 2 Billion.

The defense budget for the 1941 fiscal year is expected to total more than two billion dollars, half a billion more than the total for the current fiscal year. The President's reported desires to cut the deficit by a billion dollars thus leaves him with the problem of lopping a billion and a half dollars off the appropriations for nonmilitary departments. How this can be done puzzles the fiscal experts.

Nor are some of the President's closest advisers in agreement with the proposal to curtail nonmilitary expenditures to offset increases for the army and navy. Chairman Marriner S. Eccles of the Federal Reserve board recently expressed horror at the suggestion that relief and farm benefit payments might be slashed.

In the opinion of many in congress a new tax bill is the only answer. Chairman Pat Harrison [D., Miss.] of the senate finance committee discussed the subject with the President at the White House several days ago. Afterward he commented in dubious tones as follows:

"If receipts continue to come in fine shape as they are doing now, and we can keen down some government expenses, it may be that we can get along without a new tax bill."

Senator King said he doubted that a tax bill could be avoided.

SEEK TO REVIVE HUNT FOR RECENT LABOR SLAYERS

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

State's Attorney Courtney announced yesterday he will seek to revive police investigations into unsolved labor murders. He plans, he said, to consult with police officials, especially supervising captains, to determine what is being done in regard to the killings and why police have been unable to solve them.

The prosecutor said he welcomes establishment of the new detail created by Commissioner Allman and placed in the charge of Lieut. Kyran Phelan, former day supervisor of detectives. It will be the duty of this detail to keep all investigations active until the crimes are solved. A report on progress is to be made directly to the commissioner every month.

Puts Job Up to Police.

"The job of solving crime and arresting the criminals is essentially one for the police department," said Courtney. "I do all in my power with my limited force of police and investigators to help the police department in this task. My office will continue to render every assistance possible.

"It is the job of the supervising captains and the station captains to see that an investigation never ceases until the culprits are brought to court for trial. Too often, however, an investigation is pigeonholed."

The prosecutor said he will order Capt. Daniel Gilbert, his chief investigator, to compile a list of the recent murders, especially labor killings. He will then consult with police officials to determine what is being done to keep such investigations alive.

Plans Labor Slaying Action.

Lieut. Phelan said his new detail will get busy within a few days. He will consult with Acting Chief of Detectives Walter Storms this morning.

The most recent labor murder was that of Paul Peters, a member of local No. 4 of the International Pressmen and Assistants' union. He was assassinated in front of his home at 2305 North Oak Park avenue, early in the morning of Oct. 31. He belonged to an insurgent group within the union. The international union is headed by former United States Senator George L. Berry of Tennessee.

Capt. Herbert Burns of the Jefferson Park station says he is confident he knows the identity of the killer and his companion, but has been unable to find them. He said, however, that after he arrests them he will have difficulty in finding identifying witnesses.

List Other Slayings.

Other recent unsolved labor murders which may come under the scrutiny of Courtney and Lieut. Phelan are:

Louis [Steve] Schiavone, a major figure in the old Capone gang, assassinated on July 6 in Oak Lawn. Police said this was the result of the revival of the war over local 66 of the Elevator Operators and Starters' union.

James Lawrence, truck helper, shot and killed April 12 in Walton street, near Marshfield avenue, during a dispute between truck drivers and the Wieboldt stores.

James G. Dungan, business agent of the Painter' union, shot and killed in front of his home, 3116 Lowe avenue, on Aug. 8, 1938.

Henry Schneider, found shot to death near Glencoe on May 16, 1938. He was a member of the Motion Picture Operators' union. Police attributed his murder to union troubles.

Edward Shuler Jr., member of the International union of Operating engineers, found shot to death on March 25, 1938, in front of 2222 Chio street. He belonged to a minority union faction.

Lloyd B. Rourke, independent laundry wagon driver, killed with a baseball bat on Feb. 10, 1938, in the rear of the Fairfax hotel, 1369 Hyde Park boulevard, during a laundry wagon drivers' strike.

Police records show that in the last 20 years 64 so-called labor murders have occurred. Only eight persons have been convicted, and in no instance was the death sentence imposed.

Hollywood Clothier Killed in Gangland Style on Street

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 23 (AP).—George Schachter, 48 years old, a clothing dealer, was shot to death in front of his home in what police said was apparently a gangland killing. Two men in a black sedan without license plates drew up beside Schachter's automobile, late last night, and shot him three times.

EXPECT M'GARRY TO RESUME SEAT IN COURT MONDAY

Judge Eugene L. McGarry of the Municipal court, whose indictments on charges of conspiracy and malfeasance in office were dismissed Tuesday by Judge Joseph A. Graber in the Criminal court, probably will resume his seat on the Municipal bench next Monday. John H. Hayes, assistant to Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court, said the assignment may be made today.

While under indictment in connection with false acknowledgments on bail bonds and the probation he granted to a confessed thief Judge McGarry was denied an assignment by Judge Sonsteby. Municipal judges may hold court only at places designated by the chief justice.

Judge McGarry still faces a renewal of an inquiry begun several months ago by the Chicago Bar association. Clarence P. Denning, association secretary, said the judiciary committee would meet next week and a decision made on what action, if any, is to be taken. The committee could recommend disbarment or impeachment proceedings, it was explained.

SEEK INDICTMENT OF POLICEMAN'S 3 KILLERS TODAY

Murder indictments will be sought today against the three young hoodlums accused of killing Park Policeman Harry Francois in Humboldt park Monday night. State's Attorney Courtney said the three will be arraigned before Chief Justice John Prystalski in the Criminal court on Monday. The death penalty will be asked even if they plead guilty, the prosecutor said.

The three hoodlums, Jerry Mangano, 22 years old, Joseph Russano, 18, and Italo Begani, 17, spent Thanksgiving day in detective bureau cells. Begani was the only one who appeared to be worried about his possible fate. Mangano, who confessed firing the fatal shot, and Russano were in a jovial mood.

At the home of Policeman Francois, 4935 Melrose street, his widow, Nellie, prepared a holiday dinner for her two children, Barbara, 4, and Donald, 2. There was a vacant chair where their husband and father was to have sat.

FBI TO AID GARY REORGANIZE ITS POLICE LINEUP

The federal bureau of investigation will conduct competitive examinations by which a new supervising personnel will be selected in a reorganization of the Gary police department intended to promote greater efficiency. The reorganization will start early next month and will be completed by Dec. 30, according to Civil Service Commissioner Edgar Blake.

Chief William J. Linn will remain in charge. As reconstituted the department will have four captains, four lieutenants, and six sergeants. There are 12 sergeants now, all of whom will vacate their positions and enter the examination. The rank of lieutenant has been vacant until now. At present there are two captains: Opie Cross, who will retain his rank, and William Forbis, who is retiring next month.

Capt. Cross and the three new captains will direct departments, such as traffic, records, and the bureau of identification. Three of the new lieutenants will be in charge of the different shifts of patrolmen, and the other will direct radio communication and equipment. Any member of the Gary department with more than three years' experience is eligible to take the examination.

RELEASE VICTIM OF KIDNAPER WHO KILLED HIMSELF

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 23 (AP).—Floyd C. Wadden, Davenport, Ia., automobile salesman kidnaped in Davenport Tuesday, was released by Topeka police tonight.

The man accused by Wadden of the abduction was identified as Allen Lee Morford of Marshalltown, Ia. Morford shot himself in the head and died early today after a gun battle with police in a hotel room. Wadden had been held for 24 hours while police investigated his story.

Floyd C. Wadden.

Iowa filling station operators at Monroe and Des Moines corroborated Wadden's story that he was under duress when the stations were held up. Wadden's employer sent funds to the salesman so he could return to Davenport in the car which he was delivering when kidnaped.

Morford's father, F. M. Morford of Aledo, Ill., a farmer, notified Police Chief Charles O. McKnaught here that he was sending for his son's body.

JUDGE HOLLAND TOLD TO BALK AT JURY QUIZ TODAY

Judge Eugene J. Holland of the Municipal court is scheduled to make another appearance before the grand jury today. And if he follows the advice of his attorney he will refuse again to tell the jury of his business deals with Edward J. O'Hare, slain front man of the Capone syndicate.

The judge was not available for comment yesterday, but his lawyer, Joseph T. Harrington, said: "I shall do all in my power to stop the state's attorney and the grand jury from going on a fishing expedition with Judge Holland."

On Wednesday Judge Holland appeared before the grand jury at a stormy session during which one juror called the judge a "punk." The hearing then was transferred to the courtroom of Chief Justice John Prystalski, who ruled that Judge Holland either must answer the jury's questions or refuse on the ground that he would incriminate himself by answering them. Judge Prystalski then ordered Holland to return before the jury today.

Husband Slays Woman Preacher and Self in Home

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 23 (AP).—A Thanksgiving eve domestic tragedy came to light today with the discovery of the bodies of the Rev. Helen Bryant, 52 years old, an ordained minister, and her husband, George, 60, in the bathroom of their home. The throats of both were slashed, and Detective Lieutenant George Branton, reporting a daughter's story of years of quarrels between her mother and father, said that in Bryant's hand was clutched an old fashioned razor. The daughter, Mrs. William Dooley, said that her father and mother had often quarreled over religion.

CHURCHES THANK GOD FOR PEACE IN A WORLD OF WAR

Eternal Vigilance Urged for Keeping of Liberties.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Gratitude for this nation's peace, when in many other lands there is war, was the predominant Thanksgiving theme in Chicago's pulpits yesterday. Almost equal in emphasis was thankfulness for American democracy, a type of democracy the pastors called virtually unknown in other nations.

And the pastors urged upon their congregations the necessity of realizing their responsibilities for cooperation with Providence to perpetuate these benefits. Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf of the Methodist area of Chicago told his Chicago temple congregation that their main advantages today are the works of other hands, that they are "wells we did not dig."

Gift of Freedom Praised.

Members of the Waldensian faith of Chicago were told by their pastor, the Rev. Frank Sperduto, that the highest forms of freedom which American citizens enjoy depend upon acknowledgment of their relationship with God. The Waldensian church, at 2510 Superior street, is the city's representative of what many historians say is the oldest Protestant communion. It is said to date from the 12th century founder, Peter Waldo.

"The state that gives man freedom in religion is at the same time protected and guided in its policies by this freedom," said the Rev. Mr. Sperduto. "True freedom alone makes men responsible creatures before God and man."

"Gratitude to God for America calls for patriotism on its Christian level," the Rev. H. Ray Berger of Crerar Presbyterian church told his congregation. "Christian citizenship will prompt civic devotion and service in its highest sense. Christian citizens will safeguard and enhance the blessings of American civilization. Thank God for America."

The Rev. George C. Koehler of Luther Memorial Lutheran church emphasized the same American liberties theme. But he admonished his hearers to repentance with a plea for divine guidance for those in authority in the United States to continue to preserve the nation's peace.

"We do not need more things or ideologies," he said, "but a true appreciation of the fact that all good gifts come from God. Proper grateful use of these things will assure their benefits to others."

Worshipers at the Episcopal Church of Our Saviour were asked by the rector, the Rev. Frederick L. Gratiot, to recall that America was founded by religious men and women. He urged that American citizens realize that foreign isms are irreligious or even antireligious. His conclusion demanded that a true American be defined as a religious person who upholds the country's spiritual tradition and asserted that an irreligious American is prey to all imported political heresies.

The Rev. Dr. Weldon E. Bradburn of the Woodlawn Park Methodist church told his Thanksgiving congregation that neither men nor nations can be the terminals of divine blessings, but only the channels for those benefits bestowed by God for mankind's general welfare.

First Thanksgiving Born in Pain.

"The first Thanksgiving in America was the creature of pain, poverty, and sorrow," said Dr. Bradburn. "Yet from the meagerness of the pilgrims' situation was sent forth such a challenging note of thankfulness that our thanks seem small in comparison."

The Rt. Rev. George Craig Stewart, Episcopal bishop of Chicago, preached at the union Thanksgiving service at the Fourth Presbyterian church. The churches participating were the New England Congregational church and the Episcopal churches of St. James and St. Chrysostom. A question worrying many people, the bishop said, is, "How can we thank God, who permits war to go on?" Bishop Stewart explained that man has been created a being of free will and that war is not God's will but is due to man's cupidity.

"But we have something great to be thankful for," he said. "War is slowly, but I think inevitably, defeating itself. Instruments of aggression and defense are canceling out. There is, too, a new spirit abroad for peace. A federation of nations is being discussed, while the church, thank God, is taking the lead that Christian principles shall prevail at any conference for peace."

Zipper on Turkey

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Mrs. Norbert A. Pfaffenbach of Albany, N. Y., with her zipper turkey. The slide fastener held in the dressing.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 23 [Special].—Irked for years when the strings broke and the dressing popped out of her holiday turkeys, Mrs. Norbert A. Pfaffenbach determined to do something different this year. When her turkey was ready for stuffing, she first attached a slide fastener, then filled it with stuffing. She said the new method proved to be a great success.

HUNGRY ARE REMEMBERED

The needy and the hungry were not forgotten yesterday as Chicagoans expressed hearty thanks in thousands of homes with roast turkey, cranberry sauce, nuts, cider, pumpkin pie, and the trimmings.

But no place had more appreciative guests than the Trinity Gospel mission at 203 South Halsted street. There 1,000 homeless men were served Thanksgiving dinner by Policeman Edward De Vries, assistant custodian at the Central police building. De Vries started the mission twelve years ago.

At the same time Harry Block's restaurant at 114 East Cermak road was host to 2,500 children and a few of their parents, most of them from Children's Memorial hospital, Frances Juvenile home, the Blind Service association, and several churches.

Probably the largest of the many feasts offered yesterday by public institutions was that for 4,477 inmates of the Chicago State Hospital for the Insane at Dunning. At Cook County hospital 3,200 patients were served 2,000 pounds [1 ton] of turkey.

Similar dinners were held at the Oak Forest infirmary, the Hines Memorial hospital, the United States Marine hospital, the Illinois Industrial Home for the Blind, the Municipal Tuberculosis sanitarium, and the county jail. At the Bridewell 2,000 prisoners enjoyed a special entertainment by performers in Chicago theaters and night clubs.

Injured in Crash, They Eat Thanksgiving Turkey in Bed

Mr. and Mrs. Volbrecht of Bassett, Wis., drove into Chicago yesterday to visit their daughter, Mrs. Marshall G. Jensen, 4327 McLean avenue, for Thanksgiving dinner. At Kostner and Fullerton avenues their car collided with another. Both Mr. and Mrs. Volbrecht were injured slightly, but they refused to go to a hospital. They continued instead to their daughter's house and ate their turkey on schedule, but in bed.

UNIDENTIFIED MAN FOUND DEAD.

ROOSEVELT EATS TURKEY WITH HIS GEORGIA FRIENDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 23.—President Roosevelt tonight carved a succulent brown turkey and lifted portions to the plate of Mrs. Roosevelt and ten little patients of the Georgia Warm Springs foundation who sat at his table.

Mr. Roosevelt carved not as President of the United States but as founder of the infantile paralysis colony. And to the 350 who attended the dinner the turkey was not a Thanksgiving day turkey but a Founder's day turkey.

In presiding at the dinner Mr. Roosevelt signaled the opening of the annual drive to collect funds for the fight against infantile paralysis. In impromptu remarks he called his arrival in the community in 1922, a year after he had been stricken with the disease, and recounted incidents in his struggle to regain health.

Mr. Roosevelt will leave here next Tuesday to return to the national capital Wednesday.

Tavern's Stock Seized Over a Copyright Suit

Milwaukee, Wis., Nov. 23 [Special].—Federal deputy marshals seized furniture, cash register, and liquor stock in the tavern of Harold Hall, 6416 West Greenfield avenue, last night to satisfy a $500 default judgment of the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers. Hall is one of a recently organized group of tavernkeepers fighting the society's system of assessing tavernkeepers $90 a year for using music copyrighted by members of the society. Hall borrowed enough furniture and liquor from neighboring tavernkeepers to operate. Robert Hess, attorney for the society, said the seizure was the first act of its kind to enforce a judgment in collecting for music.

GOV. HORNER MAKES THANKSGIVING TALK; THEME: PROSPERITY

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 23 (AP).—Gov. Horner, speaking publicly for the first time in more than a year, broadcast a Thanksgiving message today.

Ten Illinois radio stations carried the governor's greeting, which was part of a program in which prominent churchmen of four faiths participated.

"We have cause for much thanksgiving for the blessings of heaven that have come down to our commonwealth," the governor said. "The year just passed brought an abundance of the harvest yield to many; industry and agriculture are in such condition that the future looks even brighter for enlarged prosperity."

Circus Girl Faints 40 Feet Up; Comes Back for More

Boston, Mass., Nov. 23 (AP).—Henrietta Wallenda participated tonight in the high wire cycling act of the famed Wallenda circus troupe despite her narrow escape last night when she fainted 40 feet above the floor. Suffering from a cold, she became dizzy as she sat on the shoulders of a fellow performer, who was balancing a chair on a yoke supported by the shoulders of two others riding bicycles on a high tight rope. One of the performers sensed Miss Wallenda's difficulty and shouted to her to hold on as they edged toward a platform. Just as she reached for a guy wire on the platform she fainted and was lowered safely to the floor.

STABS SELF AT FRIEND'S HOME.

William Bates, 75 years old, 6306 Eggleston avenue, was taken to County hospital yesterday with what police said was a self inflicted stab wound. Bates had been visiting a friend at 438 West 62d street.

METHODISTS LAUD BELGIAN, DUTCH PLEAS FOR PEACE

Speaking for the Methodist church in the United States, Dr. Charles F. Boss Jr., executive secretary of the Methodist commission on world peace, cabled yesterday to the queen of the Netherlands and the king of the Belgians expressing the hope that their majesties' efforts toward peace will be successful.

"On our observance of Thanksgiving day," the cablegram read, "we give gratitude to God for your continued noble efforts to mediate an armistice and an eventual peace in Europe. May your efforts be divinely supported and thru God's great wisdom and strength achieve eminent success."

AN EARTHQUAKE ROCKS ST. LOUIS AND FIVE STATES

It Shivers Many Towns in Illinois.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 23 [Special].—An earthquake which centered 31 miles south of St. Louis at 9:15 o'clock this morning was felt in five states in the Mississippi valley. The most severe tremor lasted for 30 seconds, and subsequent tremors were felt for 15 minutes. No damage was reported.

Apparently caused by the shifting of a large stratum of underground rock, in what geologists call the St. Mary's fault region, the quake extended southward to Cape Girardeau, Mo.; west to Kansas City, Mo.; north to Janesville, Wis., and east to Springfield, Ill.

Too Much for Seismograph.

The main shock was so intense that it knocked the St. Louis university seismograph needle off its hinges. It shook buildings, tumbled late sleepers out of beds, rattled dishes and windows, and gave short handed telephone exchanges the busiest half hour they have had for many years.

The Rev. James B. Macelwane, St. Louis university seismologist, said the quake was the most intense in the Mississippi valley since 1917. Prof. W. A. Buckner, seismologist at the Southeast Missouri State Teachers' college in Cape Girardeau, said the quake was of a type which might recur in a short time.

The St. Mary's fault region, between Festus and Crystal City, Mo., in which the quake had its epicenter [focal point], contains many underground rock defects of the type which produces earthquakes. The faults follow the river south for 125 miles and underlie three Missouri counties.

Many Towns Shaken.

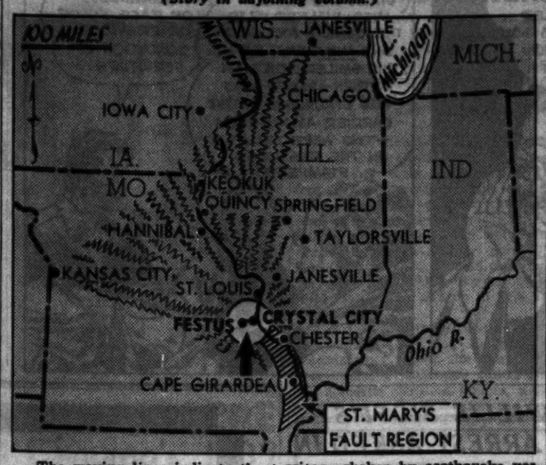
Reports of the quake were received here from Kansas City, Mo.; Kansas City, Kas.; Jefferson City, Ste. Genevieve, Columbia, Fulton, Hannibal, and Cape Girardeau, Mo. Towns in Illinois which were shaken included Belleville, Chester, Alton, Springfield, Quincy, Decatur, Taylorville, Carlinville, and Edwardsville.

The shock was slightly noticeable in Iowa City and Keokuk, Ia., but guests on the fifth floor of a hotel in Janesville, Wis., said the building swayed. The Marquette university seismograph in Milwaukee recorded only a faint shock.

A series of major earthquakes occurred in the Mississippi valley in 1811 and 1812. Few persons lived in the valley, and there were no sizable buildings to be damaged. The quake caused the earth's crust to settle in the northwest corner of Tennessee and form a basin 15 miles long. This basin is from 8 to 35 feet deep and now is known as Reelfoot lake, a famous fishing ground.

Earthquake Rocks Five States

(Story in adjoining column.)



The waving lines indicate the territory shaken by earthquake yesterday. The quake had its epicenter or origin in St. Mary's fault region between Festus and Crystal City, Mo. (in circle). The fault region follows the Mississippi river south for 125 miles from these two points.

Abandon Search for Boy Lost in Hills of Oregon

Klamath Falls, Ore., Nov. 23 (AP).—Organized search for Irwin Jack Maxwell, 4 years old, missing since Sunday, was abandoned today. Authorities said they believed the boy was dead. After exhausting every lead, the searching party of 1,500 men, Boy Scouts, and school children dwindled to a few who hoped that the youngster had survived four nights of subfreezing weather in the sage brush covered hills east of here. He apparently wandered away from home.

BURNED IN BOILER ACCIDENT.

James Aikens, 33 years old, colored, 6124 Prairie avenue, was burned severely yesterday when a boiler backfired in an auto agency at 74th and Stony Island avenue, where he is employed.

FEAR HUNDREDS DEAD IN 6 TURKISH VILLAGES LEVELED BY QUAKES

ANKARA, Turkey, Nov. 23 (AP).—Eighteen bodies today were recovered from ruined villages of East Anatolia, where hundreds were feared killed by a series of violent earthquakes.

Six villages were reported levelled by the shocks. The government and Red Cross rushed tents, food and medical supplies for the homeless and injured in the western part of Turkey. Icy weather increased the suffering among hundreds of homeless.

WILEY ATTACKS PROPAGANDA OF POWERS AT WAR

Chetek, Wis., Nov. 23 [Special].—Senator Alexander Wiley [R., Wis.] tonight called on American patriots to get "rid of termites in our society who believe our republican form of government should give way to a totalitarian state." He addressed an audience of townsfolk and farmers here. "We must unite to resist the propaganda which foreigners and even some of our American citizens use to foment class hatred and unrest," Wiley said.

"The America of the future will be what the people of America want it to be," he added. "If the people permit themselves to be stampeded into war, the people alone will be to blame. If they develop anew the traits of their forefathers, honesty, integrity, industry and thrift, America will go forward economically and politically."

INDIANA POWER LINE TOWERS ARE ROCKED BY BLAST

Ligonier, Ind., Nov. 23 (AP).—Two terrific dynamite blasts, 20 minutes apart, rocked steel utility towers of the Indiana and Michigan Electric company of South Bend tonight at points near Ligonier separated by a distance of 14 miles. The towers carry high tension lines from South Bend to Fort Wayne.

The first blast occurred about 9:25 o'clock near Diamond Lake, in Noble county, southeast of here; the second 20 minutes later near Millersburg, northwest of Ligonier.

Foundations of the towers were destroyed and they settled a few feet. In the explosion near Millersburg a high tension line snapped and fell on a steel bridge, and Ligonier was in darkness for a minute.

A state police road blockade was thrown up through northeastern Indiana and adjoining parts of Michigan and Ohio. Officers were ordered to stop an automobile with Indiana dealer's license plates.

The blast was the latest of a series along the power lines. Five weeks ago a similar occurrence was reported near Arcola, in Allen county. Other explosions occurred near South Bend. Company officials, declaring themselves at a loss to explain the explosions, said they had had no labor trouble.

Mexico to Repeal Capital Export Tax in Three Days

DEMAND LEWIS GUARANTEES IN CHRYSLER ROW

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 23 [Special].—Declaring that foremen are the representatives of management, the Chrysler corporation tonight demanded assurance of John L. Lewis, boss of the C. I. O., that his organization will cease attempts to get control of those in the Dodge truck division. Resumption of negotiations with C. I. O. auto workers in the controversy, which has kept Chrysler plants idle for seven weeks, is made contingent upon this assurance.

Agreements in the Chrysler-C. I. O. dispute had reached the point where only the wage issue remained to be settled when a demand was made for recognition of a C. I. O. foremen's and supervisor's local in the truck plant. Contending that the C. I. O. was trying to get on both sides of labor negotiations, the corporation stopped the conferences. R. J. Thomas, president of the U. A. W., induced the foremen to withdraw their demand and now the corporation wants Lewis' assurance that it will not be renewed.

The foremen's local still has a petition before the NLRB asking for bargaining rights and charging unfair labor practices. Held ineligible for job insurance, 88,000 idle Chrysler workers will appeal the compensation commission's ruling tomorrow. Negotiators met fruitlessly for four hours today and will return to their task tomorrow.

Last year it was awarded to Stanley Reed, associate justice of the United States Supreme court. Held annually since 1921, the party has come to represent the climax of the Yale football season.

CRA FINDS SINGLE PERSONS GET 48% OF HOME RELIEF

Cost Exceeds Average for All Other Cases.

Investigation showed yesterday that nearly half of the home relief cases on the Chicago Relief administration rolls are made up of single persons. To support these single persons, the CRA spent $646,485 in October, or about 29 per cent of the $2,365,350 paid for all forms of home relief.

C. R. Ferebee, CRA statistician, estimated that the average cost of supporting a single person on home relief is $13.74 a month. The average cost for all home relief cases, including single persons, is $10.27 a month.

Bared in Wake of Cost Inquiry.

These figures were made available in the wake of the investigation to determine why Chicago's relief costs have failed to diminish in proportion to the recent sweeping gains in employment. Raymond M. Hilliard, attorney for the Illinois Emergency Relief administration, has charged that one of the reasons for the continued high relief costs has been the failure to enforce the century old law requiring close relatives to support indigent persons.

If all the single persons were taken off the Chicago relief rolls by reemployment or by forcing relatives to support them, the city's relief costs would be reduced nearly $8,000,000 a year. If only half of them were removed from the rolls, the saving still would be $4,000,000 a year.

During October single persons made up 48.7 per cent of the 97,552 home relief cases and about one-fifth of the 230,277 persons being supported by the CRA. The sexes were about evenly divided in the cases of single persons.

Handling of Cases Told.

Leo M. Lyons, city relief commissioner, said single persons in need of relief are treated in the same way as family cases.

"If children with money won't support their needy parents, we take the children into court to force them to do so, if they can,' Lyons said. "The same rule applies to relatives of destitute persons. But we have no right to discriminate against a needy person just because he or she has no family.

"To the best of my knowledge, many of the men and nearly all the women are elderly. Many of them are unfit for work because of their age."

Lyons said his staff had never been able to establish the truth of charges that thousands of single persons have migrated to Chicago from other states to take advantage of a higher standard of relief.

New Law Bars Migrants.

"And even if some migration has occurred," he continued, "the new law making three years' residence in Chicago a prerequisite to relief certainly should stop anything further along that line."

Lyons said the hiring policy of the WPA is one of the chief reasons for the large number of single persons on the relief rolls. Since last summer, he said, the WPA has been assigning reliefers to jobs in this order: First, persons with dependents and no income; second, persons with dependents and some, but insufficient, income, and third, single persons.

Still Drawing on First Class.

"WPA is still making assignments from the first class," Lyons said. "Therefore, it is obvious that the ratio of single person cases on the relief rolls probably will go up instead of down, at least until WPA has cleared groups 1 and 2."

Lyons said another factor in the situation has developed from the former policy of housing single persons in shelters. During 1934 and 1935 there were 22,000 in such shelters.

"Many of them," he said, "once held good or fairly good jobs, and they were not the sort of people whose morale should have been broken by congregate care. As we developed control of the situation we gradually moved men and women with decent, hard working backgrounds into home relief."

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—MUST HAVE BEEN GUNGA DIN

AUTO VICTIM'S NAME IS STOLEN WITH KEEPSAKES

The body of a neatly dressed man, about 70 years old, lay last night in an undertaker's rooms at 1649 West 51st street. And because a sneak thief had taken his belongings, police had no clews to his identity.

The man was struck by an automobile at 50th street and Ashland avenue. He died while being taken to Southtown hospital. Police arrested the driver of the car, John Baselski, 1803 West 21st street. The body of the victim was taken to the undertaker's in a patrol wagon. His belongings, wrapped in a handkerchief, were left on the wagon seat while two policemen carried in the body.

When the policemen returned to get the bundle, it was gone. They said it had contained a watch and chain, a pair of eyeglasses, a little blue notebook, and 60 cents.

POLICEMEN DEFY THE BOSS; START ANTIVICE DRIVE

Huntington, W. Va., Nov. 23 (AP).—Eight city policemen rebelled at department's "lack of support" and staged raids last night on their own time.

Policeman Ted Riffe said the raiding companions are under suspension for service and that charges would be filed before they could be dismissed.

"And no matter what the attitude of the department say," added Riffe, "our raids and investigations of gambling and vice conditions will continue."

All eight walked their respective beats today. They raided six places which they charged were selling liquor illegally.

Police Chief Lon H. Whitten and Mayor George Seamonds declined to comment.

The Inquiring Reporter

Question.

What picture did you like best at the Italian art exhibit?

Where Asked.

Art Institute.

The Answers.

Mario Poliastrini, 946 Diversey avenue, restaurant owner—"Portrait of a Lady — Called the Courtesan, Anthea," by Francesco Parmigianino. Italians are the world's best painters and this portrait is the noblest. Such expression! Such design! Such a lovely look of wise innocence on her face.

Mrs. Sadie Feder, 1328 Greenleaf avenue, real estate—My favorite was that vivacious one done by Palmo Vecchio, "Virgin and Child with Three Saints!" The lighting was superb, and those soft blues were magnificent. I was torn between it and the Titian.

E. G. Howell, Winnetka, scrap iron broker—I liked the Caravaggio painting, "Boy Bitten by a Lizard." Those sombre, gray tones are most impressive and that perfect expression of terror is fright incarnate. The whole composition pleased me.

Georg Redlich, 5644 Harper avenue, art student—The Michelangelo, "Madonna and Child with the Young St. John." The placque is unfinished, you know, but it shows such freedom of handling, and yet such restraint. He was the greatest figure in the whole Italian school.

Jane Pratt, 764 Locust street, Hubbard Woods, art student—I was thrilled with the Michelangelo bas-relief. The delightful peach color amazed me with its warmth. It's great to be able to study the old masters. Most of us will never see them again.

Browder, Barred at Other Schools, to Speak at Yale

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 23 (AP).—Conrad Seipp of Chicago, Ill., secretary of the Yale peace council, announced today that President Charles Seymour had granted the student group permission to have Earl Browder, communist leader, speak in a university building. The council, said Seipp, decided to bring Browder to New Haven because the latter's "civil liberties have been attacked at Princeton, Dartmouth, and Harvard." The communist leader will speak here next Tuesday.

ALASKAN FLYER RACES TO RESCUE STRICKEN PRIEST

OTTAWA, Ont., Nov. 23 (AP).—A French missionary, stricken with gangrene when his hands were frozen, was the object today of a 1,200 mile mercy flight from southern Manitoba to Repulse bay, on the Arctic circle.

Arrows locate places in mercy flight.

Capt. Bill Catton of Canadian Airways planned to carry the priest, the Rev. Joseph Alain Bullaird of Le Barboux, France, 300 miles south to the hospital at Chesterfield inlet. If it is not equipped to care for him, he will be taken to Winnipeg.

Word of the priest's plight was received by the government radio station here a week ago, and daily reports have been made by the arctic mission. When his condition became more grave, church officials here arranged for the flight from Lac du Bonnet, Man.

ILLINOIS' RIVAL COAL UNIONS TO AID EACH OTHER

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 23 (AP).—Seven years of intensive rivalry between Illinois' two coal miners' unions seemed to have been forgotten tonight when leaders of the groups met and announced they had tacitly agreed to support each other's efforts for better working conditions.

The symbol of tranquility between former labor foes in this state was the offer of support of the A. F. of L. affiliated Progressive Mine Workers of America in a current employer-labor dispute by Ray Edmundson, state president of the United Mine Workers of America, a C. I. O. union.

Officials of the Illinois P. M. W. A. accepted the offer and tacitly promised similar coöperation to the United Mine Workers, if and when it is needed. Edmundson's pledge of support referred only to the position of some 1,500 members of the Progressive union's local No. 1 at Gillespie, Ill., who are currently involved in a dispute over working conditions with the Superior Coal company, operator of four mines in the Gillespie area.

Three West Point Cadets to Get U. S. Hero Medals

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 23 (AP).—The soldier's medal, highest peacetime award of the United States army, will be presented to three West Point cadets Saturday for heroism in a boating accident last May 28. The trio are Charles S. Brice Jr. of Spartanburg, S. C.; William N. Holm of Minneapolis, and Victor S. Zienowicz of Ludlow, Vt.

A WILD BOWLER DIPS INTO FLOWING BOWL, AND ALL'S CONFUSION

William Wernicke was about to lock up his bowling alley at 2660 North Clark street early yesterday when a drunk stumbled in.

"I," said the drunk, "would like to bowl."

Wernicke demurred, thinking of his Thanksgiving dinner, but the drunk insisted, so finally Wernicke let him in.

The bowler's control was bad—very bad—and he lofted every ball. Wernicke angrily demanded that he quit lofting because it was damaging the alley.

"If you don't want me to loft the ball, I'll loft my fist," the bowler answered. And he did.

WILLIE BIOFF'S ARREST ASKED IN PANDERING CASE

A telegram asking the arrest and extradition of Willie Bioff, so-called labor dictator of the amusement industry, was sent to the chief of police at Hollywood, Cal., yesterday by State's Attorney Courtney's office. Lieut. Charles Egan said he expected to go to Hollywood to return Bioff here.

According to the state's attorney's office, Bioff is wanted on a 17 year old pandering case. The records show that in 1922 Bioff was convicted of pandering and sentenced to 6 months in jail and fined $300 in Municipal court. Bioff never served the sentence, apparently because the records of the case became buried somewhere between appeals to the appellate and Supreme courts.

HIT-RUN DRIVER SURRENDERS IN FATAL SMASHUP

Tells Police He Wandered Away in a Daze.

Frank Bednarik, 5119 South Hoyne avenue, surrendered to Marquette police yesterday several hours after he had fled on foot when his car struck another at Harrison street and Ashland avenue, killing one man and injuring two others.

Bednarik's car struck one driven by Nastasi Batasino, 19 years old, 2247 Flournoy street, after Bednarik allegedly had run thru a red light. Both cars were overturned, killing Thomas Arcuri, 18, of 848 Hudson avenue, Batasino's brother-in-law, and injuring Batasino and a friend, Lawrence Titone, 18, of 2525 Flournoy street.

Extricated, Then Flees.

Bednarik, who is 45, was extricated from the wreckage by a passerby and fled before police arrived. He was traced by the license number of his car, however, and police were waiting at his home when he walked into the Marquette station. He told Sergt. John Malsheimer that he wandered away in a daze after the crash. He was held for the inquest.

Summerdale police were holding the admitted driver of a hit-run car and two companions yesterday. The three fled after their car struck Miss Mary A. Begley, 29, a housekeeper at the parish house of St. Gertrude's church, 1420 Granville avenue, as she stepped from the elevated station steps near the rectory.

Those held are John Reid, 22, of 6721 Newgard avenue, said to have been driving the car; John Shea, 22, of 3501 Janssen avenue, and Roger Kobush, 22, of 1706 Thorndale avenue.

Dies as Car Strikes Post.

Edwin B. Adams, 50, 2703 North Clark street, was fatally injured when his car struck a light post at 51st street on the outer drive. Police believe he fell asleep.

Andrew Sellstrom, 20, of 5640 North Ashland avenue, an elevator operator, was injured fatally when his motorcycle struck a parked car at Lincoln and Jersey avenues. He died in the Swedish Covenant hospital.

George Washack, 48, of 4433 South Sacramento avenue, motorman of a Fulton-Canal street car, and two passengers were injured when the car struck a truck trailer at Fulton street and Hoyne avenue. The injured passengers are Mrs. Amy Williams, 38, colored, 2604 Washington boulevard, and Mrs. Julia Rucker, 39, colored, 2947 Ellis avenue.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 785 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 606 were killed in Chicago, where 19,956 were injured in the same period.

FIREMEN FIGHT 4 HOURS TO SAVE CHURCH BUILDING

Damage estimated at $75,000 was caused early yesterday by a fire that swept thru the third floor of the athenæum of St. Alphonsus Roman Catholic church. The athenæum is at 2942 Southport avenue.

Firemen who responded to a 5-11 alarm, followed by a special alarm, fought for four hours to subdue the flames, and saved the church itself, the rectory, convent, and an auditorium, all in the same block. The athenæum housed music and club rooms.

A section of the athenæum's third floor caved in, but no one was endangered. Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan and his first deputy, Anthony J. Mullaney, directed the fire fighters, while Supervising Capt. Andrew Barry took personal command of a large force of police who rerouted traffic and controled more than 1,200 spectators.

While Engine company 22 was busy at the flames, fire broke out in locker and store rooms of its fire house at 522 Webster avenue. Engine company 98 put it out with $100 damage.

W. C. T. U. EXPECTS YEAR TO DEVELOP MILLION DRINKERS

A million new drinkers, at least half of them hard liquor addicts, will have been added to the country's total for the year ending next June 30, according to an estimate released yesterday by the National Women's Christian Temperance union in Evanston.

The prediction is based on internal revenue department reports of beer, liquor, and wine sales during the first three months of the current fiscal year. These show the withdrawal from brewery stocks of 22,000,000 more gallons than were withdrawn during a similar period in 1938. The W. C. T. U. said there was an increase of 599,823 barrels of beer sales alone, after a drop in 1938 and 1937.

If the present trend continues, the year's totals will top all previous records since repeal, the temperance group said. A 100,000,000 gallon total for domestic distilled liquors, a 60,000,000 barrel business for the beer brewers, and a gain over the 1938 record of 63,800,000 gallons in domestic wine sales was forecast. The W. C. T. U. said that probably one-fourth of the new drinkers would be boys and girls who are under legal age.

DELAY INQUEST OVER ENGINEER IN TRAIN WRECK

A Lake county coroner's jury yesterday continued indefinitely an inquest into the death of Harry M. The inquest was continued pending recovery of the fireman, Stanley Mack, who was seriously injured but was reported resting easily in the Victory Memorial hospital in Waukegan yesterday.

The permit was granted to Medical and Surgical Care, Inc., of Utica, and will serve residents in 12 counties in upstate New York. Such plans became legally possible last June when Gov. Herbert H. Lehman signed the new state insurance code.

Tentative application for a permit also was made months ago by a medical group to serve residents of 17 counties in southern New York.

GEORGE WASHINGTON SAID:

"Excessive partiality for one foreign nation and excessive dislike for another cause those whom they actuate to see danger only on one side, and serve to veil and even second the arts of influence on the other."—From the Farewell Address.

AN ADMIRAL GETS MAD.

Rear Admiral Henry A. Wiley is a member of the United States Maritime commission, a government agency for the ownership and operation of merchant ships. The admiral these days is indignant, and with reason. When congress adopted the cash and carry law many thousands of American seamen were thrown out of work. The government recognized that these men were in difficulties not of their own making and offered to place a thousand of them in a training school for merchant sailors where they would be paid $36 a month and receive free board and lodging besides.

The admiral says that Joseph Curran, leader of the C. I. O.'s union of seamen, accepted the offer and said he would enter a hundred men for the school within twenty-four hours. In fact, only twenty applied over a two day period and it wasn't long before Mr. Curran admitted he had changed his mind about sending his men to school but gave no satisfactory reason for doing so.

What seems to have irritated the admiral particularly was the picketing of the commission's offices in New York. The pickets carried such appreciative slogans as "Maritime Commission Says Go to Concentration Camps or Starve" and distributed handbills which accused the commission of requiring the sailors to attend military schools, tho, in fact, no military training was to be given. In a letter to Mr. Curran the admiral has called these tactics "vituperation and misrepresentation" and has suggested that Mr. Curran was acting not in the interest of the workmen whom he was supposed to represent, but "of powers outside yourself and the organization," which is to say the communist party.

All of this is interesting for a number of reasons. For one thing, it confirms the evidence of communist activity in the trade unions, obtained by the Dies committee, and in particular substantiates the evidence regarding communism in the C. I. O. maritime unions, if such confirmation were needed.

For another thing, the United States government now joins the ranks of those employers who have tried to deal fairly with communist influenced C. I. O. unions only to discover that fair dealing gets them nowhere. When the communists take a union it is for the purpose of exploiting the members and their organization in the furtherance of communist causes. The welfare of the members is, at best, a secondary consideration.

Strikes are called when there is no need for them. Terms of settlement are offered which everybody knows cannot be accepted if the business is to survive. False accusations are made. Pickets allege unfairness where there has been none. The purpose always is to foment disaffection and promote hatred and distrust. If the employer yields in the belief that time will bring a change for the better he is doomed to disappointment. That seems to have been Admiral Wiley's experience.

"I have observed your activities rather closely for the last three years," the admiral wrote to Mr. Curran. "I had hoped that in time and thru experience you might develop qualities of leadership worthy of the responsibilities of your office. However, my hopes in that respect were apparently as baseless as the charges to which you now give currency."

It will be instructive to observe what happens to the admiral, now that his letter has been published. If he had written it a few months ago, when the communists were valued allies of the New Deal and the Roosevelt family was not averse to attending meetings of the communist dominated Workers' alliance, his resignation would have been expected. Now that Stalin has allied himself with Hitler, the admiral may not have earned a place in the doghouse for speaking his mind. As long as communist activities in the C. I. O. were devoted merely to disrupting American industry, promoting class hatred in America, and depriving American workmen of wages, the New Dealers would tolerate no criticism of C. I. O. tactics. Now that disaffection in this country may, in addition, injure England, the administration seems more disposed to view communism here with alarm.

WE VIEW WITH ALARM.

The latest man-bites-dog item is that Florida fishermen are now making a tidy living on sharks. The shark liver oil business brings in $100,000 a year, with additional revenue from fins, used in soup, skins, tanned as leather, and teeth, as prizes enticing children to pester their parents for some newfangled cereal.

This all proves that science is wonderful, or American enterprise won't be downed, or something; but what about the editorial writers of the nation? Hitherto the most cautious members of the profession have always felt safe in denouncing the man-eating shark. They could lambast him to their heart's content and never displease a reader. Next time they crack down they may get a letter of protest from the Shark Packers' institute. If the institute hasn't been formed as yet, it will be soon. In time, we suppose, it will be getting out bulletins lamenting the destruction of sharks' natural food supply by unseasonable weather at the bathing beaches.

CALL FOR AN INQUIRY.

The indictments charging Judge Eugene Mc Garry with malfeasance and conspiracy have been quashed. He was accused of taking false acknowledgments on bail bonds and turning a prisoner loose at the behest of a politician. Upon reasoning which it is difficult for the layman and perhaps for the lawyer as well to follow, Judge Graber held that Judge McGarry could not be held accountable in a Criminal court for the offenses charged.

The matter should not be allowed to rest there. Gov. Horner has indicated that he intends to call a special session of the legislature. Part of the business of that session should be an inquiry into Judge McGarry's conduct with a view to impeaching and trying him if the house finds that his conduct was improper. The fact that he can not be tried criminally should not result in a dropping of the charges. Certainly if Judge Mc Garry is in the clear his friends will insist that he be given a forum in which he may defend himself against a false accusation.

What is true of Judge McGarry is equally true of Judge Holland and perhaps other members of the judiciary whose acts have lately been called to public attention. If their conduct has been improper they should be removed from the bench and if not the doubts should be removed.

A legislative inquiry is clearly desirable. It is to be expected that Gov. Horner, who made a distinguished record on the bench, will be eager to preserve the good name of the judiciary in this community and will coöperate to the full extent that may be required in obtaining an inquiry by the legislature. If the legislature may not go into the matter unless it is included in the call for a special session, the governor should include the item in his message.

Our system of government cannot survive if the judiciary is unclean or has lost public confidence and respect. An honest and upright bench is indispensable. In our system the guardian of the judiciary is the legislature, with its power to inquire into judicial conduct and remove the unfit. It is a power which should not be used lightly, but which must be employed when occasion warrants.

BIGGEST GOLD BRICK SCHEME.

In 1932 a group of men began to put forth the idea that prices had fallen and had remained low because there weren't enough gold dollars in the country. They said that if we could just manage to get some more gold the price level could quickly be raised to any point desired. The reasoning appealed to President Roosevelt and he obtained authority to reduce the gold content of the dollar from 1/20 of an ounce to 1/35 of an ounce. Cutting 35 dollars out of an ounce of gold instead of 20 meant that the government would buy gold for $35 an ounce instead of $20. It also increased automatically the number of dollars represented by our existing gold supply.

By revaluing the gold we had here early in 1934 we raised our gold stock from 4 billion dollars to 7 billion dollars. Subsequently by offering to buy all the gold anybody wanted to sell at $35 an ounce we increased our stock to 17½ billion dollars. Thus we now have 4¼ times as much gold as we had in 1932. But the prices have not attained the objective of getting back to the 1926 level. In the fall of 1933 prices averaged 71 per cent as high as in 1926. Currently prices are 79 per cent of 1926. Nothing is plainer than that the gold scheme was a fake.

And a very expensive fake it is. The gold we have purchased at $35 an ounce since 1934 cost 10½ billion dollars. At $20 an ounce, the old price, it could have been had for 6 billion dollars. Nearly all of the extra 4½ billion dollars spent in carrying out a mistaken policy has gone to foreign mine owners.

As Thomas Lamont said last week in New York, this country has been the victim of the greatest gold brick scheme ever conceived. If the gold mining interests are like the silver mining interests, so strong that they must be bought off, why not confine our purchases of gold at $35 an ounce to the domestic production?

Editorial of the Day

PRESSURE GROUPS DO THEIR STUFF.

[Kansas City Times.]

In the older days the complaint of government for "special interests" was familiar and it ordinarily meant something pretty bad, which might be disguised, however, as something pretty good and necessary. The multiplied instances of tariff enactments of course were "special interest" legislation, favoring the industrial as opposed to the agricultural groups of the country.

The attempt has been made to balance that up in recent farm enactments, but in late years the government attitude toward "special interest" groups has undergone a radical change. This is stressed in an independent study just made by the Brookings institution, which finds that it is only recently that "the government has sought actively to promote the organization of partisan interests and required their participation on one level or another in the legislative and administrative process."

In other words, it would seem that government has ceased to resist pressure groups and to yield only reluctantly to their demands, and now has gone over voluntarily to the actual promotion of their interests. The NRA was an early example of it which did not survive, thanks to the Supreme court. More recently it is noted that there are "three broad partisan groups which have been promoted by government"—labor, the "producer" or employer group, and "the consumer group."

The labor relations act, the bituminous coal act or the "little NRA," the agricultural adjustment act, and others are seen to be among this legislation aimed at the benefit of "special interests." It is found that in this newer trend there is in some instances an effort to "identify the public interest with the interest of the group as members of the group define it."

Naturally any special interest would feel or at least argue that the government favors it desires would be in the "public" interest. But it is the function of government to represent and protect all the people. In the exercise of that function it should be possible to draw the line between "special" and "public" interests. When that is not done we have frankly government by pressure groups and nothing else. And that considerable part of the public which is not comprised within any successful pressure group is certain to have a rather hard time of it.

ALL-AMERICAN BANQUET.

This nation ate turkey yesterday in thanksgiving for the manifold blessings of American life. Our superb fowl, which Benjamin Franklin wanted to make the national emblem, provided our tables with a feast, at a time European governments are fighting a war with methods of mass starvation.

In his digestive meditations of the holiday, the Linemaster thought of American contributions to the world's food supply. Since our café cuisine is French of technique, and since we are great patrons of alien table d'hôtes, we are likely to forget the many gifts to the palate that were unknown before the discovery of the two Americas.

Irish potatoes? They originated in ancient Peru and Colombia. A number of the most important food plants in the world came from the agriculture of the American Indians. They include corn, white potatoes, sweet potatoes, tomatoes, pumpkins, squashes, Lima beans, kidney beans, peppers, peanuts, pineapples, and strawberries.

This is a long story, but it can be condensed into the menu for an "all-American" banquet which the late W. E. Safford of the department of agriculture suggested for the entertainment of a botanist from Europe. Read it and smack your lips:

Chowder of Little Neck clams with tomatoes and green corn (opossum fat substituted for butter); or terrapin stew with turtle eggs.

Sweet potatoes, string beans, succotash of Lima beans and green corn, stewed tomatoes, Jerusalem artichoke.

Corn pone or hoe cake, guava jelly, salted peanuts.

Sherbet—Passion flower à la Martinique, or soursop à la Peruvienne.

We will omit the beverages and the rich game and dessert courses, and remark that the cigars and cigarets at the banquet's end are American also.

The dun monotony of sand hills, blown
To varying shapes in autumn's bleakened day,
Brings me new thoughts of thankfulness. The gray
Horizon, reaching up to meet its own
Blue arch, has beauty—or the winging line
Of migrant fowl; beneath my questioning feet
The miracles in earthing seeds, define
Eternal life. Each cycle is complete.

I will give thanks. My world, loved by the God
Of lonely things! I know that He will share
The joys, the weariness, the vapid clod.
I will give thanks for trust, serene and fair,
For through the haze of alkali, I see
The marvels of the range He gives to me.

Dwarfs and Gnomes in the Dictionary.

The names of nickel and cobalt were coined by miners in the Harz mountains of Germany. Nickel was originally called coppernickel, a term of contempt—"goblin copper," meaning a tricky ore which promised copper but did not yield it. Cobalt was named after "kobold," a friendly but mischievous gnome supposedly haunting mines and caves. The miners believed the tunnels and galleries peopled with goblins and gnomes.

At a luncheon one day at the Adventurers' club the late Opie Read said the toughest spot he ever saw was a dance hall near Birmingham, Ala.

HARVEST REMORSE.

The golden bounty of the garnered grain
Is gleaming in a million bins today;
While fruity purple, yellow, orange, bronze
And luscious ruby glow in bright array,

Our gratitude is tempered by remorse,
As we survey kind earth's abundant yield,
Recalling cursed carnage and the blight
Of blackened ruins on the battlefield.

Earth's lavish goodness holds a poignant sting

In Praise of the Maroons.

Acting upon the inspiration kindled by the Linemaster's reference to the University of Chicago football team, we hocked our typewriter and went to the Oberlin-Maroon game. Remembering our affiliations with the Oberlin kindergarten, '97, we sat with the youngsters on the west stands where, under a canopy that shielded us from the drizzle, we rooted for the Golden Boys from Oberlin and the Maroons as well.

Our 40 cent general admission ticket, which we purchased from a smiling lad who looked up from a novel he was reading in the main ticket office, was one of the best sports investments we have ever made. The game was a worthy contest. The thrill of seeing the football over the goal line and under a Maroon was only one of the many pleasures of the afternoon. The gleaming scoreboard, the roomy stands, the gray towers in the hazy background and principally, we must admit, the 40 cent admission price, were among the highlights of the day.

Granted that the contest lacked many of the high pressure elements of other Big Ten affairs, it had a true college flavor. The Oberlin rooting section, which nearly balanced the entire Maroon aggregation in the north stands, proved that college spirit is not yet dead in a land fast becoming stupefied by box car figures in politics and sports as well.

Newcomer.

We will celebrate the closing of the college football season at Dyche stadium, but we'll probably miss a few touchdowns because our eye will be cocked at the bulletin board, watching the returns from Chicago vs. Illinois, at Stagg field.

COMFORT FOR THE AILING CHILD.

THE numerous ailments to which children are prone are recognized easily in most instances, but there are exceptions. The cause may not disclose itself at the onset because the early manifestations of a dozen diseases are practically identical. But within a day or two the appearance of an eruption or other characteristic sign will lead to the identification of the culprit. This explains why, regardless of the insistence of parents, the most expert physician may not always be able to name the malady at his first visit.

As most of us know, children are likely to exhibit severe symptoms. While they may come on quickly they disappear with equal promptness. This is quite in contrast with the behavior of many disorders which afflict adults with long intervals of apparent preparation before they strike.

With every afflicted child—at the very outset—the best plan is to treat the symptoms as they arise and keep the tot as comfortable as possible. Heroic, spectacular measures may do more harm than good. There are few occasions when a dramatic "performance" will be required.

One thing we must not forget—namely, that every little one who is running a temperature will need a generous quantity of fluid because of the excessive loss of water from the skin and lungs. It makes little difference what liquid is used just so the patient likes it and imbibes freely. Cambric tea, lemonade, orange juice, carbonated water, etc., may be employed. Sometimes the latter, if mixed with a teaspoonful or two of ice cream, will be enjoyed.

On the whole, it is rarely wise to reduce the fever abruptly. Rather than give coal tar drugs, a tepid bath or a gentle sponge with warm water to which a little alcohol has been added will promote a sense of well being. One part of the body at a time, followed by thoro drying and powdering, before proceeding to another is the rule. The sickroom should be warm enough so that chilling will not be complained of.

The diet usually takes care of itself and but few will desire much food. If hunger is present, however, boiled skimmed milk will prove satisfying. Soups are filling and not very nourishing, but they increase the liquid intake. A soft boiled egg with buttered toast over which scalding water has been poured and then drained off will be relished. As appetite returns there is much value in allowing the sufferer to chew beefsteak and expectorate the fiber.

The digestive tract can be regulated with either orange juice or a small amount of citrate of magnesia. Some will prefer magnesia tablets. Because exercise is not permitted, contractions of the alimentary canal will be less forceful. Occasionally a glycerine suppository will be needed to bring about emptying of the lower bowel.

Real difficulty may be ahead if youngsters are allowed to be up and about too soon. We must safeguard the heart. At the same time muscles must not be called upon to do work that is too strenuous. With picture books, papers, pencils, crayons, and the "funnies" most children will be quite content. Let them play in what Robert Louis Stevenson called "The Land of Counterpane." We will thus give the pumping organ an adequate opportunity to recover from the assaults of the poisons of disease.

It is clear that our discussion centers upon good nursing which includes scrupulous cleanliness and reasonable attention to the mouth, nose, ears, and the skin. If there is trouble in the throat, gargling may be helpful. If it accomplishes nothing more, a fair amount of toxin and millions of germs are washed away.

Fortunately, with every sick boy or girl the tendency to recovery is strong. Should illness come, let us not become panicky as nature is a powerful healer. For serious infections we have antitoxins and sulfanilamide. We must not overtreat our little patients else we defeat rest which, after all, is our best medicine.

BOILED LOBSTER.

M. R. S. writes: I have heard that lobsters sometimes cause attacks of diarrhea—simulating food poisoning. What is the explanation for this situation?

REPLY.

Insufficient cooking may be responsible. Reports of digestive upsets following the consumption of lobster led recently to a series of experiments to determine the time required for thoro sterilization. It is well known that the gut of this crustacean may harbor disease producing organisms, particularly the colon bacillus. Experiments have shown that the ordinary plan of employing scalding water for 25 to 30 minutes is not safe. Forty-five minutes is necessary. It has been found that the internal temperature of a fair sized shell fish (lobster or crab) will not reach boiling until it has been cooked for at least three-quarters of an hour.

DUODENAL ULCER.

J. M. writes:

1. What is a duodenal ulcer?
2. Is the cause food or the blood?
3. What kind of treatment must a person have—an operation?
4. Must one starve himself to be cured?

REPLY.

1. A form of peptic ulcer, located in the first part of the small intestine [duodenum].
2. Perhaps both—for example, improper food and poor blood [anemia]. It is found usually in nervous, high-strung persons.
3. Treatment includes rest, diet, alkalis, mucin or similar preparations. Relaxation and increasing the general resistance are important aids. Surgery is advised only for the complications or when persistent medical treatment is unsuccessful.
4. Not to extinction. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for peptic ulcer diet.

HEART PAIN.

A. P. writes: How does the pain of angina pectoris differ from that of coronary thrombosis?

REPLY.

In the former the distress is much more severe but it is short in duration and usually follows exertion. In the latter, an attack may occur with the patient at rest and the discomfort may persist for hours.

LEG ULCER.

T. A. writes: My husband has an ulcer on the right leg. It has been treated for five months, but it will not heal. What can be done for him? He is quite uncomfortable.

REPLY.

If the lesion is spreading or becoming deeper—skilled medical care will be needed. Consult the best physician in your vicinity.

PHANTOM CIVIL SERVICE.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—Here's another paragraph or two to add to your excellent editorial, "Statehouse Shakedown."

Mr. Lancaster, chairman of the civil service commission, has written me to the effect that eligible lists cannot be shown to any one—altho these lists are supposed to be posted in the offices of the commission at Springfield.

Jobs are evidently distributed to favored ones regardless of who is No. 1 or No. 1001 on these so-called eligible lists. Why do they hold competitive examinations? Surely not to find out who merits the job. I can vouch for your statement that the state civil service is a joke—but at present the joke is on people like myself who, along with at least 500 others, took an examination for the job of junior department bookkeeper in September, 1937. Tho I made a special trip to Springfield to see the "posted" list, I was not permitted to see it, even tho this same phantom list will be discarded in February, 1940. PHILIP WEINBERG.

FENCING NEGLECTED.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—Why does fencing not receive a fair amount of publicity as do other minor sports? There are several thousand fencing enthusiasts in Chicago and vicinity puzzling over the indifference of our daily papers.

The art of fencing is a specialty not to be learned from books. Genuine efforts are required to erase misconceptions, too numerous to be mentioned, and our public considers the newspapers a proper place to perform such a task.

Please give us more space to spread the message and more pictures to popularize fencing. R. I. POSTE.

A USEFUL SCHOOL.

Chicago, Nov. 21.—If any Tribune readers would be interested in making a small donation of either clothing or money during the holiday season, a good cause would be the Piney Woods Country Life school at Piney Woods, Miss.

The founder, Lawrence C. Jones, has done a great deal for underprivileged colored boys and girls in that area. He has helped them [many of them blind] to get a start in life. Even the donation of $1 helps toward putting a boy or girl thru school in that region.

You would be doing a service if you would start a public fund to help this family of Pasquale Addante. Make actions speak louder than words.

SOME THANKSGIVING DATES.

Chicago, Nov. 20.—It may be interesting to your readers to learn that President Lincoln officially proclaimed two Thanksgiving days in 1863—one on the last Thursday in November and one on Thursday, Aug. 6.

Furthermore, on April 11, 1865, in speaking to the citizens of Washington after Lee's surrender, President Lincoln said:

"A call for a national thanksgiving is being prepared and will be duly promulgated."

This new Thanksgiving day was apparently to be celebrated at some day in the near future, but the President's assassination prevented it from being officially proclaimed.

Before Lincoln's administration Thanksgiving was celebrated sporadically only on a national scale. Thus, after proclaiming Nov. 26, 1789, as a day for national thanksgiving, President Washington did not proclaim another day until 1795. President Madison set a date for thanksgiving in the spring of 1815 to celebrate the close of the war of 1812.

Therefore, it appears that the date set for national Thanksgiving depends upon the whim of our chief executive and President Roosevelt, accordingly, had ample precedent for setting a new date for our national Thanksgiving day by executive order. DAVID DOLNITSKY.

FINDS A MISSING WORD.

Keokuk, Ia., Nov. 20.—It was fitting that the big givers should have been present at the laying of the Krum Elbow cornerstone, to explain to the public what the project was for. Most of us have been wondering how any one man could have thought it out.

One of the federal office holders, presumably separated from some of his money by the "squeeze," asserted in his speech: "The papers were the record of the man who more than any other has been the actor and the speaker of his time."

Occasionally a single word is accidentally left out of a quotation. Maybe some readers will agree with me that the eighth word from the last has been omitted from the above quotation. You can't supply the word? That's bad.

THE WORLD WAR 25 YEARS AGO

[From Tribune Files.]

Nov. 24, 1914.

[119th day of world war; 30th day of present war.]

LONDON.—Russian armies under the leadership of Grand Duke Nicholas apparently won a decisive victory over the German armies under Gen. von Hindenburg. All reports from Petrograd indicate a second German attempt to capture Warsaw has failed. Germans who penetrated Russian Poland to within 35 miles of Warsaw are reported retreating toward the frontier after a battle of five days in which they sustained enormous losses.

BERLIN.—The Cologne Gazette declared that reports of a German desire for peace belonged to the "region of higher political idiocy" and were probably inspired by the British. "The position of Germany, neither in the east or west, is critical," the Gazette said. "German military undertakings on all battlefields are progressing favorably."

NEW YORK. — The Rockefeller Foundation announced it would send relief help to four other countries besides Belgium. It announced plans to ship food to Austria, Serbia, France, and Russia.

ILLEGAL ENTRY.

Chicago, Nov. 16 [Friend of the People].—1. Is it true that those people who entered the United States illegally prior to July 1, 1924, and stayed here all this time, may now, according to a new law, be legalized as United States citizens?

2. I came from Canada in October, 1921, and stayed here all this time. I came here as a student with a slip of paper from the United States agent, who gave permission for me to take the train at Brandon. Soon after I came to the United States, I took out a first paper, which I still have with me. My greatest desire has been to become a citizen of the United States but I know that there was no legal registry of my name in Washington so I did not apply for second papers. Can I become a citizen of this country now?

3. What is the procedure in obtaining my second papers, provided I have the right to become a citizen? How long will it take to wait until I can have my second papers? J. D. T.

1. Under an act of congress approved Aug. 7, 1939, those aliens who entered the United States prior to July 1, 1924, and have not been absent therefrom since that time, and of whom there is no record of land entry for permanent residence, may apply for naturalization of their residence here. If and when a certificate of registry is granted to them under the provisions of said act, they may apply for citizenship papers.

2. It is suggested that the inquiries call at this office with any papers he may have relating to his entry into this country, in order that it may be ascertained whether or not he is now a legal resident here. If he is illegally here, he will be advised as to how he may apply for registry under the provisions of the act above mentioned. The registry fee is $10. If it is ascertained that he is legally here, he will be advised as to how he may proceed towards citizenship.

3. According to the facts stated, it appears that, when he is ready to apply for citizenship papers, it will be necessary for him to file a new declaration of intention [first paper] and when the same is at least two and not over seven years old, apply for final papers. The first paper mentioned by him as having been taken out soon after he came to the United States is now invalid for all naturalization papers as a first paper is valid for only seven years from the date of its issuance. FRED J. SCHLOTTFELDT,
District Director of Immigration and Naturalization.

TEST NEW DEAL DAM PROJECT IN SUPREME COURT

Oklahoma Sues to Block U. S. Flood Control.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23 [Special].—Solicitor General Robert H. Jackson has filed an answer in the Supreme court to a suit by the state of Oklahoma which seeks to restrain the war department from building a $4,000,000 dam on the Red river at Denison, Tex.

"The Denison dam and reservoir," according to the brief, "is an important unit in the entire flood control program and determination of its validity at the earliest possible moment therefore is desirable."

Attorney General Mac Q. Williamson of Oklahoma, who filed the suit to protect state rights on orders from Gov. Leon C. Phillips, believes Jackson's reference to early determination of validity means that a decision against the government would upset the entire flood control program. "It's a very important law suit," he added.

Not Wanted by People.

The Oklahoma suit argues that the 375 million dollar congressional flood control act of 1938 is unconstitutional in cases where the government is building projects not wanted by the people.

The Oklahoma brief also attacks the dam as a shameful waste of taxpayers' money and of valuable farm land. Flood control can be had, according to the brief, by building a 12 million dollar dam on the Washita river and smaller dams on tributaries to keep their waters from entering the Red river.

Under war department plans for the Denison dam, half a mile east of the confluence of the Washita and Red rivers, water will be backed up in the Washita river for 30 miles and in the Red river for 40 miles. This will flood 160,000 acres of land, 80 per cent of which is in Oklahoma.

One of Gov. Phillips' principal objections to the dam is the loss of 128,000 acres of fertile river bottom land from production and from the tax rolls of the needy counties.

Under Genral Welfare Clause.

Jackson defends the project under the general welfare and interstate commerce clauses of the constitution and contends the United States has full power to take property owned by the states in eminent domain proceedings. He insists that a federal project cannot be halted merely because functions of a state will be hampered by flooding land.

Jackson's brief holds that objection to the dam is simply because citizens will have to move and the state will lose tax revenue, but not political jurisdiction.

"But the very purpose of paying just compensation," he says, "is to leave whole a dispossessed property owner and it is settled that any diminution of state tax revenue does not effect the validity of a federal project.

Army engineers rejected the dam proposal in 1935 and told President Roosevelt there was no market for the power proposed to be produced. Congress approved the project in 1938. It was delayed then because land to be flooded was appraised at 20 million dollars. This was scaled down to 6 million on reappraisal.

SEVEN ARMY PLANES START HOME AFTER RIO DE JANEIRO VISIT

NATAL, Brazil, Nov. 23 (AP).—Seven American army bombers, winging their way homeward from a good will fight to Brazil, landed here today from Rio de Janeiro. Maj. Gen. Delos Emmons, in command of the flight, planned to take off tomorrow for Maracaibo, Venezuela, on the second leg. Ten Brazilian army officers, members of a mission which will study American defense methods, are passengers. The purpose of the planes' visit to Rio de Janeiro was to assist in the celebration commemorating the 50th anniversary of the founding of the Brazilian republic.

Planes will land at Maracaibo, Venezuela, on next stop.

Peddler Dies in Squalor with $31,000 in Savings

Indianapolis, Ind., Nov. 23 (AP).—In a dingy third floor room of a building near the union station Charley Mike, an itinerant peddler, lived and died—apparently in abject poverty. But today Moses Katter, who was appointed administrator, disclosed that Charley Mike, whose real name was Albert Howraney, had $31,000 in bank and building and loan association deposits.

MR. TURK'S JUST HASH, BUT STILL RULES CUPBOARD

There Are Lots of Bargains to Help Him Out.

BY MARY MEADE.

Today's bargain story is a short one.

Mr. Turkey's great day is past, but he's still ruler of the pantry and more meat than memory lingers on to complicate the food buying problem.

You'll need something to go with that leftover turkey, however, and there are plenty of bargains in fruits and vegetables to round out the menu.

Vegetable Escorts Plentiful.

Eligible escorts for la turkey's encore appearances include artichokes, beets, brussels sprouts, carrots, celery, spinach, mustard and turnip greens, squash, rutabaga, and onions. None of them is out of line for the season, and all are of good quality.

Celery is exceptionally reasonable, and tomatoes are a little less expensive than they have been the last couple of weeks. Lettuce to trim up your turkey salads is back to normal prices. You'll find nice heads of the California iceberg variety on your grocer's display racks.

Carrots, too, are somewhat cheaper. But Spanish onions, those big, sweet-as-an-apple kind that are the makings of cold turkey sandwiches, are slightly higher. Broccoli, too, is higher.

Citrus Fruit Hits Its Stride.

Citrus fruits usually hit their stride around the first of December, so you can expect top quality before long. They've been improving in sweetness and juiciness right along and are a good fruit buy even now.

Those oranges coming from California are slightly higher, but all other fruit prices haven't changed much one way or the other. Nice avocadoes are still coming from Florida, and tangerines and kumquats are finding their way to the city in small numbers. They will be here in larger quantities within the next few weeks.

Grocers, who should know if any one does just how much you've over eaten, are featuring such back-to-the-diet foods as canned soups. They also will have on hand all the packaged noodles, prepared biscuit flours, and other staples needed in making leftover dishes.

Meat Bargains Galore.

A good rare beefsteak should look pretty tempting come Sunday dinner, or for that matter so should any of the other bargain priced meats available this week-end. And there are meat bargains galore.

Any veal cut is a good choice for the woman who needs to make up a few extra pennies on her turkey taxed budget. Steaks are somewhat higher than they've been in some stores, but they are still reasonably priced. Pot roasts of all kinds and cube and Swiss steaks are excellent buys.

Citrus-Crabmeat Cocktail Starts a Meal Off Well

A tasty appetizer like citrus-crabmeat cocktail served in grapefruit shells is a good beginning for any meal. To make the cocktail, combine segments of grapefruit and flaked crabmeat. Add enough tomato catsup to moisten the ingredients, season with Worcestershire and a dash of tabasco sauce. Fill grapefruit shells and chill until ready to serve.

KUMQUATS MAKE FINE CONSERVE; TRY THIS RECIPE

Those midget members of the citrus family, pear-shaped, orange kumquats are looking pretty on the grocer's racks once again. But they're good for something besides looking pretty. You'll put them to good use in this delicious conserve.

KUMQUAT CONSERVE.

2 quarts kumquats.
5 cups water.
6 cups sugar.
2 cups canned bing cherries, drained.
1 cup almond halves.

Wash kumquats and, using a sharp knife, cut into very thin crosswise slices. Add water and simmer 30 minutes. Add sugar and cook until thickened, about 30 minutes longer. Add remaining ingredients, cook 10 minutes. Pour into sterilized glasses and seal.

Fruit Juice and Nectar Add Pep to Mincemeat

Have you tried adding fruit juice and fruit nectars to your mincemeat? Recommended pep-givers are apricot, or prune nectars, and apple, or grape juice. A recipe that makes two quarts of mincemeat will take about one and one-half cups of fruit juice.

A Colorful Potato Salad

A zippy potato salad between two layers of red tomato aspic makes a colorful dish that any buffet table would be proud to sport. The salad is made from two cups cubed, cooked Idaho russets combined with a little chopped parsley and Spanish onion and one-half cup each of French dressing and mayonnaise. Use spiced tomato juice and plain, unflavored gelatin to make the aspic layers.

TRY THIS FLANK STEAK TO CRACK THE HUNGER LINE

Stuffed flank steak tastes so good it is hard to believe it is one of the least expensive beef cuts. It need not always be served à la jelly roll. Try it en brochette as in this recipe. You'll also like your pork sausage made into a loaf with a surprise potato filling as in the other recipe.

FLANK STEAK EN BROCHETTE.

1 flank steak
2 cups bread crumbs
1 small onion, minced
½ cup diced celery
2 tablespoons butter
Salt and pepper

Have the butcher score the flank steak. Make a dressing of the remaining ingredients and spread over the steak. Roll up and slice at inch intervals, spearing each slice on a skewer before cutting it from the roll. Brown on both sides in hot fat, add ¼ cup hot water, cover and cook over very low heat until meat is tender, about 1 hour.

FILLED SAUSAGE LOAF.

2 pounds bulk pork sausage
1 egg
4 cups bread crumbs
2 cups mashed potatoes
2 egg yolks
2 tablespoons chopped green pepper
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
1 teaspoon paprika
Salt and pepper

Mix sausage with whole egg and crumbs. Line a large loaf pan with sausage, reserving enough of the mixture to cover the top of the loaf. Combine remaining ingredients and fill center of loaf with mixture. Top with remaining sausage and bake in a moderate [350 degrees] oven for 1½ hours.

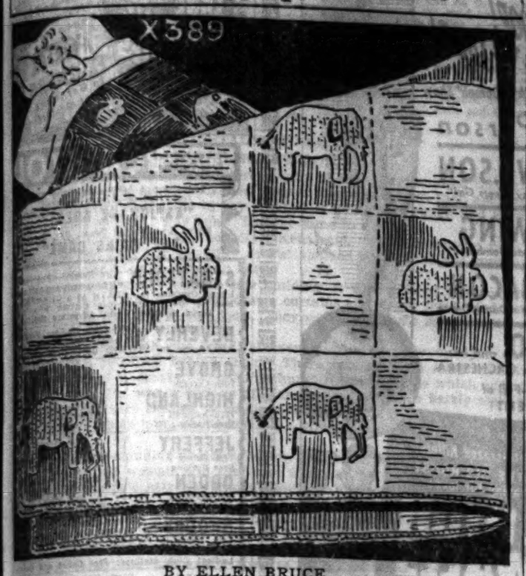
Crocheted Applique Animals



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

Crocheted animal motifs appliqued on baby carriage robes or quilts are ideal suggestions for the ever prevalent gift problems. The quilt may be crocheted, knitted, or woven, and the crocheted bunny and elephant will enhance a pale pink, delicate blue, soft yellow, or pale green background. These motifs measure about four inches when completed. Instructions in knitting and crocheting the quilt are included with the instructions for the animal appliques.

For instructions in crocheting the applique bunny and elephant, No. X-389, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Good Posture One Factor in Reducing Plan

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

(Copyright, 1939, News Syndicate Co., Inc.)

Think of good posture as a reducing aid, and you'll not only look but feel a hundred per cent more streamlined. For today's and tomorrow's woman is going to be posture conscious. She won't let her figure look like a misshapen zero.

Why does good posture make a woman look pounds lighter? When she stands up tall she automatically stretches her muscles and flattens out the fat around those muscles. Her abdomen is pulled in; her shoulders are pulled back, thus lifting her breasts and doing away with the lump of fat on the back of her neck known as the "dowager's hump." She feels like walking more quickly because less effort is required to drag lazy muscles and fatty tissues. Her derriere flattens more and the woman who holds up her head seldom, if ever, has a double chin.

This last point is of extreme importance, for when the chin muscles are permitted to sag a double chin is the result. As for the feet, they will look much smaller when the good posture rule is observed, for they cannot turn outward at the toes so much, a walking habit which tends to make the feet look larger. Walk toward a mirror with your toes pointed straight ahead, and then walk with the toes pointed out, and notice the difference.

It is not only while walking and standing that good posture should be practiced. Sitting in a chair correctly is not only less tiring but more beneficial to health and good looks. Without appearing too stiff, sit well back in your chair, with your body from the waist up straight and not too dependent on the chair back for support. We have seen many women reclining in easy chairs with their shoulders humped, knees crossed, and sitting more on one buttock than on the other. We've noticed that, as a result, one shoulder is lower than the other, and the body looks "bumpy" in spots.

If it's an easy chair you're sitting in, sit in it with some attempt at good posture. Your appearance of grace and ease will present a much prettier picture than the picture of you "slopping" over every which way, and the dignity of your posture will make you seem more streamlined.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

One of the most exciting hair brushes we've ever seen is that remarkable new one with bristles set in an aluminum base which may be taken out of the handle-back at will.

That's one of the best ideas any brush manufacturer ever had. Not only does it make brush cleanliness simple but this base is perforated so that you can insert pads saturated with your favorite perfume. You can scent your hair while you brush it!

The brushes, or rather the bristles, are of excellent quality. The maker has a splendid reputation and the new feature of a removable base is merely improving on perfection, in our opinion. These are the kind of bristles that keep their elasticity indefinitely. They're well spaced, of good length, and altogether do an excellent job of cleaning and polishing the hair.

The handle-back is severely plain. This is a utilitarian brush. The aluminum base is removed easily and washing is speedy. Naturally, the base cannot absorb water, and after washing the bristles are dry and stiff again in a quarter of the usual time. The handle-back lasts practically forever since the removable bristles feature relieves it of the wear and tear of frequent washings.

The idea of brushing perfume on the hair is an interesting one. Naturally the hair should be exquisitely clean. When it is and the scent used a soft and subtle one the effect is truly lovely.

Among practical Christmas gifts this excellent brush with modern improvements ranks high on our lists.

Miss Hoffmann and Bradford Brown to Wed

BY JUDITH CASS.

Two lits of interesting romantic news that were made known on Thanksgiving are the engagements of Miss Caroline Dickinson Hoffmann to Bradford Brown and of Miss Isabel Louise Wilde to John Holbrook Thomson.

Miss Hoffmann is the daughter of Mrs. Max Hoffmann of the Lake Shore Drive hotel and St. Joseph, Mich., and Mr. Brown is the son of Dr. and Mrs. E. V. L. Brown of Winnetka. The announcement was made at the country home of the Hoffmanns, where the Brown family is spending the holiday week-end.

Miss Hoffmann has been studying music in Chicago since leaving the Wheeler school in Providence, R. I. Mr. Brown attended Amherst college and the University of Chicago. He and Miss Hoffmann plan to be married in the spring and will live on a farm at St. Joseph.

The son of Judge and Mrs. Charles M. Thomson of Winnetka is engaged to an eastern girl, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Charles Wilde of Beaver, Pa. Miss Wilde attended the Fairmont school in Washington, D. C., and is a graduate of Swarthmore college. Mr. Thomson is a graduate of Washington and Jefferson college and the University of Michigan law school. The wedding is planned for next year.

At the same time that they announced Isabel's engagement to Mr. Thomson, who is practicing law in Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Wilde announced the engagement of another daughter, Jane Clingan, to Norton Van Voorhis Coyle, son of Mrs. Robert J. Coyle Jr. of Pittsburgh. Their wedding, too, will take place in 1940. Young Mr. Thomson is in Beaver spending the holiday week-end with his fiancée and her family.

Meredith Manning to Have Supper-Dance.

Mr. and Mrs. Lucius Manning have planned a supper-dance for Tuesday, Dec. 26, at the Racquet club, to introduce their second daughter, Miss Meredith Manning.

The debs and their beaux will be dancing most of that evening and night for Miss Virginia Skinner is to make her deput at a tea-dance that afternoon at the Woman's Athletic club, and Miss Joan Reid is to be given a dinner-dance at the Casino that night by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bryan S. Reid.

Miss Grace Shumway, who arrived yesterday to spend the long week-end with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward D. Shumway of Lake Forest, will be the especial guest at a jolly dinner and skating party tonight. Miss Shumway's cousin, Miss Mary Adams, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams, are giving the party. After dinner in the House on the Roof of the Hotel Sherman the 50 young people will go roller skating at a west side rink.

Miss Shumway, who is a student at Vassar, made her debut in the early autumn. Tomorrow night another uncle and aunt, the John Stuarts, are giving a dinner and theater party for their young kinswoman, after which she will leave to return to college.

Hold "Old as You Feel" Party Tonight.

Any one who neglected to make reservations for the "Come as Old as You Feel" party, which will be held at 9:30 o'clock this evening at the Ambassador hotel may find that it does not pay to take a chance. The committee has chosen five members to act as bouncers, should the crowd get too large. Two of these, Nat Blatchford and Ted Wilder, are rugby stars.

The party is to be a costume affair. Those who, like the Ted Nicholsons, decided to come in baby clothes, will Husband's Reply.

Mrs. Lewis G. Blessing of Evanston, wishing to suggest a pleasant place to dine to her husband, asked if he would go to El Gaucho (the Harold Stokes-Lawrence Salerno restaurant west of Evanston).

"I'll be damned if I'll go to opera," answered Mr. Blessing.

Here's Prison Film You Will Want to See

"THOSE HIGH GRAY WALLS."
Produced by Columbia.
Directed by Charles Vidor.
Based on story by William A. Ullman Jr.
Presented at the State-Lake theater.

The Cast.

Doctor Norton ..... Onslow Stevens
Doctor MacAuley ..... Walter Connolly
Nightingale ..... Paul Fix
Redlands ..... Bernard Nedell
Mary MacAuley ..... Iris Meredith
Warden ..... Oscar O'Shea
Lindy ..... Nicholas Soussanin
Jockey ..... Don Beddoe

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

As you have undoubtedly surmised, "Those High Gray Walls" is a prison movie. BUT—

It's one so different from the ordinary run of gaol melodramas that I earnestly recommend it to your attention, feeling sure that you'll thank me for doing so.

The film is not primarily concerned with jail breaks or routine, but with personalities, and its principal characters, two doctors, are presented with extraordinary intelligence, insight, and sympathy. The entire production is, in fact, a thoughtfully knit together affair that commands your respect and compels your interest.

The action starts with a depot scene. Dr. MacAuley, genial, humanitarian, clever—stands with another man upon the rear platform of a train bidding farewell to a crowd of devoted Marysville patients, hungry for a last look at him.

The doc is smiling and full of gay quips. . . . This is, he tells the folks, his first vacation in years. . . . It's not until the train is about to pull out that you discover he is starting out on that vacation handcuffed to the quiet fellow beside him.

And so to prison for, as you learn, failing to report the removal of a bullet from the chest of a boy he had brought into the world; a boy who was the son of his lifelong friends and who, when he got into trouble, had turned to the doc for help and protection. . . .

Dr. MacAuley is a philosopher and a good sport. He has decided to take the medicine which he admits he merits for law breaking, and, if he can't like it, at least swallow it with no unsightly grimaces. . . .

It isn't long before he's clubby with most of the prisoners. But with the prison doctor, a stern, disillusioned young man with a haunted face, he can make no headway.

Despite his pleas to be allowed to work in the hospital, he's put in the tailor shop. Dr. Norton doesn't want his assistance. But, tho constantly rebuffed by Norton, MacAuley sticks to his guns, helps where he can, and constantly studies Norton, whose strange, unhappy personality intrigues him.

Against his will Norton gradually succumbs, recognizing the elder man's ability, and, despite himself, reaching out for the warmth that makes MacAuley like a hearth fire. . . . Circumstances, concerned with death, attempted jail break—and childbirth!—force the two men into close association and result in—what the picture shall show you.

Onslow Stevens as the prison doctor absolutely fascinated me. Nothing could be more restrained than his performance, but the driving force behind the restraint and the man's great personal magnetism cause him to dominate his every scene. Your attention is glued to him when he's in evidence, and you're uneasy, waiting for his return, when he's not.

Walter Connolly's Dr. MacAuley is a fine, intuitive piece of work. This player NEVER lets you down. . . .

Paul Fix as Norton's "rat" assistant, and Bernard Nedell as a screwball with delusions of grandeur and great ideas on all subjects, including jail breaks, give gripping performances.

I feel that the story could have done nicely without the old doc's daughter.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

The Reviewing Stand.

Hollywood, Cal., Nov. 23.—You never realize fully how tiresome is the ornate pretentiousness of too many Hollywood films until you see a double bill on which is contrasted a French motion picture and, say, a flicker like "Another Thin Man." . . . The French picture costs about $120,000; the American picture costs about $850,000, and yet the French picture, costing about one-eighth the price of the Hollywood extravaganza, conversely is eight times as good.

The French film is more sensitive; it has better performances; it has more delicate direction; it is simpler in theme and yet packs a greater dramatic impact. . . . The Hollywood picture has only one advantage: it is photographed magnificently.

Now surely there must be a definite reason for this and, while your guess is as good as mine, these are the things that have impressed me in seeking the solution. . . . In the first place, probably the only French films we see out here are the cream of the Gallic crops. If we saw, say, 400 French pictures a year perhaps the general average would be considerably lower than it is when you see only the standouts.

Conceding this point, however, you must admit that the French writers and directors obviously are closer to flesh-and-blood realities and values than the locals. . . . Hollywood, I think, is in the position of a famous cartoonist with whom I worked long ago on the New York Evening Mail. . . . When he was on the way up in his profession, he traveled on the subways, sat in the balconies of the theaters and sealed his life to a small purse.

As the dough started rolling in, he gave up the subways and theater balconies and substituted limousines and orchestra seats. . . . His cartoons almost immediately lost their terrific mass appeal, because he had lost it too. . . . I think, perhaps, that Hollywood is in somewhat that position.

How can writers earning thousands of dollars a week living in magnificent homes, eating the finest foods and drinking the finest liquors, relaxing at polo, golf, and tennis—How can they groove their stories for people who are in the $25-a-week brackets? . . . As a writer, I'm in favor of writers earning a king's ransom. . . . This column is not a thesis on labor and capital. . . . But obviously Hollywood writers can't do a true report on the boweries of the country from the vantage point of a yacht's deck.

My good friend, Mayor La Guardia, was hooted and jeered when he suggested that it would be to the advantage of Hollywood if some of the film production were shifted to New York City. . . . I'll go one step beyond that and suggest that it would be to the advantage of the movie industry if some film production were based in Chicago, Pittsburgh, Omaha, Boston, Philadelphia, Detroit, Minneapolis.

Perhaps in that fashion American movies would regain their contact with the good earth. . . . Certainly it had been proved, before war broke out, that Hollywood benefited by establishing studios and making pictures in London. . . . "Goodbye Mr. Chips," and "The Citadel," made in London by American directors, had a quality of charm and human warmth that few pictures made out here achieve.

You can't understand human misery, human aspirations and hunger for ideals unless they have been experienced. . . . Hollywood writers and directors, shut off from the world and its people by golden bars, can be excused for manufacturing the unreal stuff they project on the screen.

That the public craves down-to-earth fare has been proved by "Grapes of Wrath," just as it has been demonstrated in such series of pictures as "The Hardy Family," the sequence of "Four Daughters" films, the Jones Family series, etcetera.

Man-in-the Office Gets Girl's Heart

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a secretary, in love with a man in my office. I know he likes me, but he never asks me to spend an evening with him. I have other admirers, but they don't interest me.—S. E."

The few words told us are enough for us to picture a situation which exists in many offices. When a girl is working in an office where there are men, almost invariably there is one man for whom she develops more than just a liking. She often falls in love with that man. This is understandable, for the girl is in such close contact with him she knows his weaknesses as well as his strong points, which fact only endears the man to her more.

Because she spends most of her day in his presence, naturally her thoughts are occupied more with him than any other man she may see during the few evening hours left for her to relax. That she is loving the man in the office under a great handicap is not to be denied, for office etiquet requires that she keep too personal feelings from showing.

This businesslike attitude need not prevent your being nice to him at every opportunity, tho, and even going out of your way to do small favors for him. Under no circumstances, however, confide your feelings to any one in the office. Guard against showing your feelings. Dress as attractively as possible, and be well groomed at all times.

Danger on the Border

By FREDERICK R. BECHDOLT

[Copyright: 1939: By Frederick R. Bechdolt]

SYNOPSIS.

Leonard speeds west by car after finding that the sample of ore sent to him by his sick friend, Dillon, is rich in gold. In Copper City he picks up two strange companions, Mrs. Sebastian, who owns a Mexican roadhouse, and Louis Mestres, who claims to be a line rancher. They leave just after the pay car of the Golconda mine. In a lonely spot they come upon the car—all occupants murdered, and the three holdup men still on the scene. They chase Leonard's car with a machine gun. Mestres drops tacks in the road and stops Leonard's car with a machine gun. Mestres drops tacks in the road and stops Dillon's assayer. He recognizes one bandit as the mine's paymaster. Paul Collins, a crooked assayer, tests Dillon's ore and gives him a false report. He enlists the aid of another friend, Kent, to cheat Dillon. Dillon breaks the sad news to Pat, an orphaned girl who owns an old hotel, and who had staked him, then goes off to collect his tools. Arriving at Pat's hotel Leonard doesn't get a chance to ask her about Dillon. He sees her slip out in the night with a gun. Distrusting Kent, Collins sends two hirelings to follow Dillon and jump his claim. Kent, suspicious, puts Papago, an old watchman on the trail. Senor, the Golconda's paymaster, arranges with Kent to have Leonard blamed for his robbery. In Collins' office Pat finds the correct report on Dillon's ore, but Kent and Collins discover her there. Kent kidnaps the girl in his car.

INSTALMENT XI.

A STRANGE PRISON.

A few moments later the scattered lights of San Ilario showed through the car windows, the speed slackened, they turned one corner, then another. They were traveling in some byway where the going was rough and there were no lights on either side now. The car came to a stop.

"If it will make you any happier," Kent said, "you can scream now."

He alighted and bade her get out. As Pat stepped down from the running board, he slipped his arm through hers.

They were standing before a low building. It was without near neighbors. Some light sneaked beneath drawn curtains at the two front windows. The driver was knocking at the door. They waited for some moments, then a voice said something within.

Kent answered with one word, his name. The door swung open and they went in. It closed behind them. There was a single lamp and its light was dimmed by smoke. The fumes hung in thin wreaths which eddied slowly upward. Pat was conscious of many eyes, they were barely visible, faintly luminous, they seemed to be disembodied.

The smoke which hung about her had a strange odor, it was pungent, it frightened her.

A woman was standing at Kent's elbow. Pat could hear the two of them whispering. A tall woman, and the large face was colorless, there was not a line on it. The pale hair was drawn tightly to the scalp, and there was a queer cleanliness about the bulky form, a neat, smooth cleanliness which seemed repellent. She was dressed in white, even to her shoes. She took Pat's arm and led her out of her room as Kent left the place.

"Get back to town as fast as you can make it," he bade the driver.

"Sorry, chief," the man said, "I got to fill up with gas first."

Kent was chafing at the delay when they passed the fringe of houses at the edge of the village a few minutes later. Then the headlights revealed a figure on the road before him and he realized that luck had played him a good turn.

After Leonard saw Pat take the little pistol from the clerk's desk and depart from the old hotel, he lighted another match and found his room. He was trying to convince himself that it was natural enough for a girl to carry a weapon to protect herself at night in such an out of the way neighborhood as this. But that did not explain the expression on her face when he had confronted her on the stair landing, nor the tenseness in every line of her small figure.

The more he tried to reassure himself upon these points the greater his certainty became that there was something wrong about the whole affair. He recalled her hesitation when he had announced his intention of staying there, and the voice of the old Chinese servant reassuring her. There was no doubt of it—poverty would account for the trouble which he had detected then, but tonight she was in desperation.

"Maybe the Chinaman will know," he thought. "And anyhow, it might be as well to tell him what she's done." He went to the desk and played a tattoo on the futile little bell, arousing no response beyond a faint echo somewhere in the shadows. He glanced at his watch: The hour was still early. He made up his mind to linger there a while just in case there were further developments. Preferring the outside air to the loneliness of the deserted lobby, he took his post in the wide-armed chair on the wooden sidewalk where Pat had been sitting when he drove up the hill.

Leonard smoked two cigarets and nothing happened.

"If you're going to make that call on Mrs. Sebastian," he reminded himself at last, "you'd better get going."

It had been his intention to drive over, but he happened to remember the taking of his license number at the customs' station. The distance was less than half a mile, and the walk would do him good anyhow.

The strangeness of the things which had happened to him during the day had left his nerves keyed up. He was not particularly imaginative and he was not cursed with the susceptibility to premonitions which afflict many men, and this tenseness was a novelty to him, he did not like it.

He was drawing near to the American customs' shack when a dazzling flood of radiance swept upon him. He heard the drumming of a motor behind him and leaped from the road just in time to save himself from being run down by the oncoming car. It roared past him, so close that he felt the rush of indrawn air like a great wind. Its red tail lights glimmered, drawing together as they receded. The surge of anger which had brought an oath to his lips was succeeded by amazement.

It had come and gone in an instant. A glare of headlights and a roar, a pair of red specks winking in the darkness. But during that brief time he had seen a strange thing. It remained stamped upon his mind so firmly that it seemed to him as if he were still staring at it.

It was at the rear of the car, on the outside. It was between the two tail lights, and it was tinted by their ruddy glow. An old Chinese: He was clinging to the spare tire rack, his lean arms were bared to the elbows, his bony legs were bent, the knees were bowed, clamping the tire rack. His flimsy blouse was flapping in the wind. But it was the yellow face which remained most vivid in Leonard's mind. It was contorted with a multitude of deep lines, the narrow eyes were like two flaming slits, and the white hair was raised by the rush of air so that it stood on end.

"That Chinaman seems to be mighty strong on spare tires," Leonard laughed as he came back into the road, but the laughter was uneasy and he had a feeling that this was no matter to dismiss with a poor joke. The car had passed the American customs now, it was halting at the small building further on where the Mexican officials guarded the boundary. A man came to the doorway, he waved his arm and it went on. The man went back into the building.

When Leonard reached the place a few minutes later there was no one in sight. He did not halt: If the inspector had noticed anything wrong he had seen fit to ignore it for reasons of his own, if he had not, there was small chance of making him believe so wild a story.

The tall cottonwoods at San Ilario were rustling above the flat-roofed adobe building whose windows glowed like yellow jewels, set with the purple of the night. The Casa Verdi was ablaze with lights. As he approached it, Leonard was wondering what sort of establishment this might be wherein his respectable lady passenger held forth.

The storekeeper at Cooper City had been emphatic in vouching for her impeccable character. Now that Leonard came to think of it, it occurred to him that the emphasis had been perhaps a little too great. But, if this was a place of revelry, there were no audible evidences of it outside. He stood before the green portal for just a moment reflecting on these matters, then he turned the knob and stepped within.

Well, the storekeeper might have been correct, but if he had been, there was no doubt that his recommendation needed all the assurance behind it that he had been able to convey. For the establishment proclaimed its character at a glance. There are a thousand like it north of the international boundary, and evidently the customs of the more sophisticated communities were seeping southward into Mexico.

Attractive Two Piece Outfit

MISS' TWO PIECE ENSEMBLE.

Designated for youthful figures is this two piece outfit. Its jacket is double-breasted, with a pert small collar and squared shoulders. The waistline is nipped in, forming a neat contrast for the skirt cut with flare.

You may make the costume all in one color and fabric, or you might vary the scheme, using a plain jacket with a plaid skirt or the reverse. Two tones in plain colors also afford a beautiful harmony.

Style No. 3074 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, and 20. Size 16 requires 3½ yards of 39 inch material.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central annex, NEW YORK CITY, including 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be sure to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

Home Is Where the Child Must Find Interests

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1939: News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

A day or so ago I mentioned that at the opening luncheon given to inaugurate Better Parenthood week there were parts of two speeches that especially interested me. One I discussed—the speech of Mrs. Roosevelt. The other I want to tell you about today—the one given by Dr. Eugene A. Gilmore, president of Iowa State university, which has one of the earliest and finest child welfare research stations in the country.

In his talk, Dr. Gilmore gave full credit to the many agencies and organizations that have been created for children's welfare. But he went on to say that, regardless of the fine work they do, never should they be thought of as replacing the home; never should the concern of those who run them be depended upon as a substitute for the concern of a parent for his or her child.

Children should feel, he stated, that they are wanted at home, that their presence is important, that it is enjoyed by their father and mother. And home should be a place so full of interest for them that they want to be in it.

Too many children, too many young people, find their satisfactions outside their home. When in it they are restless, uneasy, at a loss. When this state of affairs exists it is not the children's fault. It is not their fault that they are bored, it is not their fault that they seek too much the passive entertainment afforded by thrilling movies and exciting radio programs and highly colored reading.

The fault lies in their homes and with their parents. Of course a statement like that must take into account the handicap that a very low income creates. But even there, where there is a will, some way will open up. A mother's determined spirit can mow down many obstacles.

Smart Gloves Have Place on Christmas Lists

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Gloves of unusual color and high fashion are ideal finds for a gift list. A delicate shade of pink in dress parade short gloves and the longer opera lengths rates first this season, with beautiful turquoise blue suedes and kidskins taking the second place.

The most exciting gloves in town are the long gold snakeskin affairs that look like stunning gauntlets. The palms are of softer material to accent the startling swank of the gleaming tops of snakeskin.

Also used for the same daring contrast against pastels or high shades are the dozens of distinctive sooty black suedes and doeskins. Lattice work, lovely cutouts the entire length of the gloves, unusual fagoted designs, inserts of fine narrow black lace bows, bands of fur, contrast colors in red or gold make these gloves superattractions.

Snappy short models and all lengths up to the sophisticated opera gloves provide a wide and distinctive assortment.

Glove designers have presented some outstanding street or tweed outfit gloves in thicker leathers in gorgeous bold colors. Slip-ons are good all-purpose buys.

Duo Pianists Make Debut at Symphony

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Vitya Vronsky and Victor Babin, a handsome pair of young Russians who are married to each other and who—no connection—play the piano magnificently together, made their first appearance with the Chicago Symphony orchestra in Orchestra hall last night. Hans Lange conducted.

The soloists were heard in one of the Bach concertos for two harpsichords and in Mr. Babin's own concerto for two pianos and orchestra. In the former work they played with a restraint that preserved the healthy, unsentimental character of the piece, yet which was not so restrained as to preclude the use of finely graduated color effects and subtle modifications of pace.

In Mr. Babin's concerto the players cut loose a bit, proving that they have plenty of virtuosity up their sleeves and that they are quite willing to become brilliant when the character of the music permits. But the music, alas, impressed many of us as glittering rather than brilliant. The piece had a hard, angular, percussive surface, with little to woo the listener on first hearing and with small chance therefore of leading this listener into the emotional depths which may or may not lie beneath.

The program's other principal item was the serene Haydn symphony which is grotesquely called "Military"—mostly because of a harmless trumpet call in the second movement. In performance the symphony was dainty, capricious, and even humorous.

SEE OPERA SCENE SHIFT

BY CECIL SMITH.

The capacity audience at last night's board of education performance of "The Barber of Seville" enjoyed a unique opportunity to see the mechanical operation of the gigantic Civic Opera house stage. Between the first and second acts the curtain was kept raised, while a street in Seville was metamorphosed into the interior of Dr. Bartolo's house.

Serving as master of ceremonies, Count Cardelli, the Chicago City Opera company's director of educational activities, explained the technique of scene-shifting and introduced Armando Agnini, the stage director, and other members of the technical staff. To illustrate further the possibilities of the magnificently equipped stage, the huge blue cyclorama was lowered until it enfolded three sides of the stage.

From his control box under the stage apron R. C. Moore, the lighting technician, threw different qualities of light upon the cyclorama, and showed how clouds and constellations may be produced by the lighting equipment. The audience enjoyed the demonstration enormously.

The cast of the opera included Hilde Reggiani, Ada Paggi, Tito Schipa, Carlo Morelli, Virgilio Lazzari, and Pompilio Malatesta. Angelo Canarutto conducted.

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

The fourteenth annual exhibition of the work of Illinois artists sponsored by the All Illinois Society of the Fine Arts has opened at the Stevens hotel to continue thru January.

Three medals have been awarded. The gold medal was given to "Beverley Shores, Indiana Dunes" by Arno Bretsnyder. The downstate gold medal went to "Drowsy Village" by Edward Nicholson, and the gold medal for water color was won by Donald J. Mills with "Homestead."

The exhibition is of the type the All Illinois has made familiar. The efforts of the organization are bent more toward bringing out Illinois artists who would otherwise be unrecognized and in introducing "an original work of art by an artist of Illinois in every school and home of Illinois" rather than developing a stronger art. That it leaves up to the individual artist, not always with the best results.

However, it is said repeatedly about exhibitions at the Art Institute and in other galleries that the presence of one or two good pictures makes the show worth while; working on this premise, the All-Illinois fourteenth annual is worth while.

The "Dawn" by Dale Nichols, the "Girls and White Rocks" by Adam Emory Albright, the "Garden Rainbow" by Minnie A. Carlson, the "Theater of Nature" by Richard Chase, the "Peonies" by Esther Austin, the "Storm Tollers" by Ruth L. Schwaegerle, the "Happy Fiddler" by Antonin Sterba, the "Portrait of Mr. Charles S. Peterson" by Mary C. Peterson, the "Struggle" by Sophia Davis Talbot and "The Harbor Town" by Louis J. Kaep are all good, which leaves us with a wide margin of safety in commending the exhibition.

The North Short Art guild is sponsoring an exhibit by members at the Edgewater Beach hotel until tomorrow. This is a sparkling show. Charles O. Longabaugh is showing two stunning water colors, Gene Bosworth a delicate "Gardenias," Jessie Field the decorative "Lilacs and Tulips," and N. P. Steinberg an amusing study [a dry point], "The Poet."

The National League of American Pen Women is holding an exhibit of paintings at the Piccadilly studio, Fine Arts building. It is an attractive, small exhibit and will run thru the month. Anna Lynch, Florence Schofield, Elizabeth K. Peyraud and Mabel Landrum Torrey are represented in what is one of the nicest little shows in town this November.

Need Clothes for Jobs.

Mr. H., on the north side, has a promise of work if he can obtain presentable clothing. His needs include a suit and overcoat size 38, and shoes size 8.

Mr. F. also can obtain work if some reader has a suit and overcoat, size 38 or 40 for him. Shirts size 15½ also would be appreciated.

Mr. L. is doing house to house canvassing and feels he would be more successful if his clothing was less shabby. He needs a suit and overcoat size 42 or 44.

"MY DEAR CHILDREN"

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

There may be a few players who, somehow or other, have incurred Lady Luck's displeasure and who therefore never win finesses or get horrible suit breaks. But I doubt it. Nine times out of ten, when a player talks about his bad luck, he really is making an excuse for unskilful play. Here is a typical hand:

Neither side vulnerable.

♣ 10 8 2

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 ♦	Pass	1 no trump	Pass
2 ♦	Pass	Pass	Pass

South should have bid three clubs on the second chance, but he felt that that was out of the question and passed, at match-point duplicate, to play a game in no trump rather than in a minor suit.

West opened the three of hearts, East winning with the ace. De Wolf scrutinized admiringly at the exposed of dummy's four aces and then started to play the hand as badly as possible. At the second trick he led a low diamond to his king and allowed the nine spot for a finesse. This lost to East's queen and a low heart was returned. At this point South could not afford to take his king of hearts, for he could count only eight tricks and dared not lose control of the hearts. He played his ten of hearts, hoping that West would return the suit, but West, after winning with the heart jack [dummy discarding a low club], properly exited safely with his last diamond. Dummy won and returned a low club which rode to West's queen. West returned a club and dummy won with the ace. The rest of the diamonds then were cashed and another club was led from dummy. East took his king of clubs and returned a spade. South at this point had to guess whether East was underleading the jack or the king of spades. He finally decided on the latter and accordingly put up his queen of spades. But West covered with the king and dummy had to win and eventually surrender a spade for the defeat of the contract.

South complained bitterly that he could have made the contract if the queen of diamonds had been in West's hand or the king of spades in East's. But he did not deserve better luck because he should have made the contract with perfect ease.

At the beginning of the hand South can count a spade, two hearts, at least four diamonds, and a club—a total of eight tricks. South must realize that his best chance of making the ninth trick, outside of picking up the diamond queen, consists in developing an extra club trick. Naturally the proper development of the clubs requires two finesses from the South hand and consequently two entries to the South hand. And South can obtain two entries in diamonds regardless of the position of the diamond queen.

At the second trick a low diamond should be led from the dummy and South should finesse his eight. Even if this loses to the diamond queen, the diamond nine and king assure entries for the proper play of the clubs. Furthermore, South is well prepared, in the event that West gains the lead, for any return: A spade return assures South of making a trick with his queen, and a heart return gives South a third stopper in the suit.

If the hand had been played in this way South actually could have made 12 tricks instead of only eight. On winning the finesse of the diamond eight he would lose a club finesse to East's king. East probably would return a heart and South, if he chose to be ambitious, could take his king while dummy discarded the low spade. Another club finesse would bring in the entire suit and South would lose no further tricks.

CALM WILDCATS AWAIT RAIDS OF MIGHTY KINNICK

Feel They're Ready for Iowa Star.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Iowa's Hawkeyes, just a small bunch of boys who love football in a big way, will be in the vicinity of Evanston today, and even their approach to the boundary line will cause more consternation than they may create tomorrow when they dash into Dyche stadium to see what can be done about removing the few square inches of fur Northwestern's Wildcats have saved from debates with Oklahoma, Ohio State, Purdue, and Notre Dame.

The villagers in the neighborhood of the stadium have stretched chicken wire across the parlor windows. Fretful mothers have ordered the children not to roam beyond the confines of the back yard tomorrow. They fear a lad named Nile Kinnick Jr. who has pained other folks, including Indiana's Hoosiers, Wisconsin's Badgers, Purdue's Boilermakers, Notre Dame's Cosmopolitans, and Minnesota's Gophers, might throw something—possibly a football.

Experts Are Most Surprised.

The valiant little batch of Hawkeyes has been labeled the surprise team of the nation. They have been a surprise only because the experts consigned them to a dismal experience before the season opened. Now that the Hawkeyes have shooed away all comers save one, the experts are convinced they must have underestimated the throwing, running, kicking Kinnick. But there are a few other guys in the setup arranged by Coach Eddie Anderson.

The Iowans have a new system in which HOW you get the points isn't important so long as you get 'em. They have won on passes when necessary, notably over Wisconsin and Minnesota. They outcharged a supposedly stronger Purdue line to block punts for a pair of safeties. They had enough power to pick up the few yards needed after they had shown they were on the job when Notre Dame fumbled a lateral. And yet they are so old fashioned they believe that to start a game and not finish it indicates lack of endurance.

Anderson Is Rewarded.

Coach Anderson probably can be labeled the happiest coach in America, whether or not his huskies beat the Wildcats. As a reward for his splendid showing in his first season with the Hawkeyes, Dr. Anderson has had his contract, originally set at three years, extended to seven and received in addition a salary increase.

The Wildcats have had nothing but anti-Kinnick talk drummed into their ears all week. They've been told that all they've read about the youngster is mild compared to the truth. They've been loaded up with instructions on how Kinnick can be throttled whether he pitches or runs. They've even been warned that Kinnick might throw a pass and then catch it himself. That's about the only thing he hasn't accomplished this season.

All the solemn advice about the little fellow who flits around like a toe dancer hasn't created any noticeable mental depression in the Wildcat ranks. They were a jovial crew as they worked up an appetite for the turkey in a two hour drill yesterday morning. Even their coach, Lynn Waldorf, couldn't see a cloud in the sky. The coach suspects that his boys, having had their disappointments, will loosen up, toss caution overboard, and finish out the season in a blaze of fury.

IOWA SENDS 35.

Iowa City, Ia., Nov. 23 [Special].—Coach Eddie Anderson named a traveling squad of 35 men for the Northwestern game, including a number of injured linemen who will see no action, but who are given the trip as a reward for good service. The squad will arrive in La Salle street station at 1:15 p. m. tomorrow and will work out in Loyola university stadium at 2. The list of players follows:

ENDS—Prasse, Evans, Norgaard, Moore, Haber, Kelley.

GUARDS—Tollefson, Snider, K. Pettit, Hawkins, Luebcke.

QUARTER BACKS—Couppee, Gallagher, Anthony, McKinnon.

DON GRIFFIN NOT ONLY FENGER BOY TO SCORE POINTS

BY JAMES SEGRETI.

There are some Fenger supporters who hold a pessimistic view that the far south side school's reign as city prep football champion will come to an end tomorrow afternoon in Soldiers' field if Donald [Flash] Griffin, the injured 17 year old quarter back, is unable to carry on against Schurz, the north section challenger. However, a glance at Fenger's season record reveals there are several other able and talented ball carriers on the squad.

Griffin, who was slightly hurt in the semi-final game against Tilden Tech last Saturday, has scored 10 touchdowns and four extra points in Fenger's seven league contests, but he does not hold the team's individual scoring honors. The player who has led the squad's ball carriers is Ray Florek, 16 year old full back, who weighs 175 pounds and is 6 feet tall.

Has Two Busy Days.

Florek has contributed 77 of his team's 237 points, 11 touchdowns and 11 extra points. Florek's outstanding performances were against Bowen when he accounted for three touchdowns as Fenger won, 55 to 13, and against Morgan Park when he collected four touchdowns to lead the champions to a 31 to 0 victory.

The other players capable of breaking loose against Schurz and placing Fenger in Mayor Kelly's All-City game on Dec. 2 are Harry Stevenson, left half back; Joe Kredens, right half back, who scored three touchdowns against Hirsch, and Bob Wallis, who has been credited with four touchdowns, his last score being made on a fifteen yard pass from Griffin against Tilden Tech.

Griffin's Injury Not Serious.

Griffin's injury is not serious, according to Coach Chuck Palmer. He will start the game against Schurz and will remain for the entire contest if the injury is not aggravated. The star quarter back played every minute of the Tilden Tech contest, which Fenger won, 13 to 0, to run its victory string to 21 straight.

The champions spent Thanksgiving day resting, but Schurz engaged in a short drill on its practice field yesterday morning. Both teams will end preparations for the championship game with light drills this afternoon.

STANDS FALL AT SPRING VALLEY; SIX ARE HURT

Spring Valley, Ill., Nov. 23 (AP).—Bleacher stands holding some 200 spectators collapsed today during the football game between Hall township and La Salle-Peru High schools. A half dozen persons suffered minor injuries, the most seriously hurt being Marcene Stratton, 17 years old, La Salle-Peru student, who suffered a back injury.

The extra seats had been erected on the Hall Township athletic field to accommodate a crowd of more than 5,000. La Salle-Peru, champion of the Big Seven conference, won the game, 34 to 7.

La Salle-Peru scored in each period except the third by pouncing on fumbles and completing long passes.

Mr. Dooley Reflects.

"Good evenin', Jawn," said Mr. Dooley as Mr. Hennessey came in snorting, and shaking the snow from his hat. "'Tis a turrible night entyrly. I wuz jist fixin' a drop iv th' crayture to drive th' evil speerits from th' weather. Will ye jine me?"

"I will, Martin," said Mr. Hennessey, removing his coat. "We don't know how long we may hav' these blessins iv liberty, with wars and roomers iv wars about us."

"Do ye think we'll git in, I dinnaw?" said Mr. Dooley.

"Well," said Mr. Hennessey, "Congrissman Dorgan is jist back from Washington afther ignorin' our letthers and votin' yis, and he's explainin' to his constitch'ints that th' intrists of the nashun demanded th' liftin' of th' imbaargo."

"I've heard that," said Mr. Dooley, "I've heard it all, Jawn, but if Mr. Dorgan and his fellow statesmen paid liss attenshun to th' intrists and more to th' nashun, we'd still hav' th' imbaargo, and we'd be sure t' stay on this side iv th' water."

"But ye must remimber, Martin, what Ambassador Page said so often before th' last war, that blood is thicker than water, and wile Mister Roosevelt anathematizes th' economic rylists that wouldn't giv' wurruk to the great army iv our unemployed, he's not too prejudyced against the right sort from beyondt th' water that would employ all our boys iv fightin' age.

"He's happy to have thim visit him at the White House an' leave their pitchers on th' dresser. 'Here's a pitcher iv me frind, George VI. England,' he'll say to Cohen and Corcoran whin they come in uv a Sundah t' help him stick sthamps in his album. Ye see he had a picnic fur George, an' he sez, 'George,' he sez, 'ye'll like this,' he sez, ''tis a reel American outin',' he sez. 'Ye'll eat hot dogs in th' reel American way,' he sez.

"'I will,' sez George, 'I'll eat annything in th' American way, if ye'll repay th' complymint an' swallow whativer we feed ye whin we start our periodic outin' with thim Germans—pass th' mustard, please,' he sez, 'an' whin th' pic wuz over he tilliphones Buckin'ham palace, and sez he, 'git ready a shipload iv orators and idle per-fessors,' sez he, 'and sind thim over to tell the Americans iv the glories of democracy,'and iv th' necessity of liftin' th' imbaargo on arms an' munitions—an' especially on min',' he sez.

"An' they're at it, Martin dear, they're at it. And Congrissman Dorgan and his colleagues who votid 'yis' ar-re laffin' up the'yre sleeves at th' simple citizens iv Archey road, and expectin' us t' support thim at th' poles for their ryle patriotism in puttin' our letthers in th' waste basket."

"Let thim laff," said Mr. Dooley, "let thim laff, but th' common people of Archey road do not furgit what th' poet, Tim Scanlan, wrote in the 'Ballads of the Crowd.' 'T is the Magna Charta of our liberties."

"An' what's that?" said Mr. Hennessey.

Bradley Is Upset, 6 to 0, by Wesleyan

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 23 [Special].—An inspired Illinois Wesleyan football team today outplayed Bradley Tech to win, 6 to 0, ending Bradley's string of games without defeat at 21. Tech made only one first down to thirteen for Wesleyan. Tech failed to reach Wesleyan's 35-yard line. Wesleyan threatened to score on four occasions.

In the third period, Ken Olson, Bradley safety, fumbled a punt and Clem Elden, tackle, recovered for Wesleyan on Tech's 32 yard line. Chet Wetterlund passed to Frank Janca, end, for thirteen yards. Wetterlund got five and Morrow plunged straight thru center for a first down on Tech's 1 yard line. Wetterlund went over Bradley's left tackle for a touchdown on the next play. Three minutes later, Elden blocked Olson's punt, Frank Soeka, end, recovering for Wesleyan on the Bradley 28 yard line. Palcynski, Morrow, and Wetterlund moved to the Tech 5 yard line. Morrow drove over the goal line, but officials ruled he was stopped at the 3 and Tech took the ball on downs.

Just before the game ended Charley Lam, sub guard, intercepted a Bradley pass on the Tech's 37 yard line. Wetterlund and Morrow quickly moved Wesleyan to the Bradley 10, but with first down on the 7 yard line, the final gun sounded.

Wolverines Gain Full Power for Final.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ann Arbor, Mich., Nov. 23.—With a crowd of more than 80,000 assured for the 36th game between Michigan and Ohio State here Saturday, this was no day of Thanksgiving for Ticket Manager Harry Tillotson and his staff. And the work pattern set by these employés of the university was followed by Coach Fritz Crisler, his assistants, and the Wolverine football players.

Altho classes have been dismissed for the Roosevelt holiday, the football men waited until 2:30 this afternoon for their final hard drill of the season. At its conclusion the Wolverines had done all that could be done to prepare for the battle with Ohio State. If Michigan wins, the victory will be partial recompense for the grievous surprise at Illinois and the trouncing received from Minnesota.

The Victory Urge Is Strong.

Michigan encouraged its followers by whipping Pennsylvania last week and ticket sales for the finale with the Buckeyes attest the hope of thousands that the Wolverines can salvage prestige by a victory over Ohio, something no other conference team has achieved.

The game may be a sellout, Tillotson said today. Saturday's weather will determine that. Early this week the last blocks of tickets were being sold at a rate of more than 3,000 a day. Tillotson is certain attendance will be in excess of 80,000 and may reach the capacity figure, 85,700. Sixteen thousand tickets have been purchased thru Ohio State university in addition to the thousands sold to Ohioans direct from the Michigan ticket office.

Five Games Were Sellouts.

Michigan has had five capacity football crowds in history. In 1927, the year the stadium was opened, Ohio State, Minnesota, and Navy each attracted 85,700. In 1929 Ohio State and Harvard duplicated the feat. In 1933 a throng of 83,500 saw the Michigan-Ohio game. This would have been a sellout except that more than 1,800 general admission tickets were returned to those who could not reach the end zone seats adjacent to the field. Since then all stadium seats have been reserved.

The Michigan-Ohio State series since 1922, the beginning of the era of large football crowds, has averaged more than 60,000 each year, which ranks this rivalry in the top flight as measured by public interest. In intensity of play and caliber of contestants the series, which started in 1897, has few peers. Michigan has won 23 games, lost 10, and two were tied. Four of the Buckeyes' victories were consecutive, the string being ended last fall when Michigan won in Columbus, 18 to 0.

They May Do It Again.

This Michigan team, which includes many who played in last season's victory, might repeat. With the exception of a sophomore tackle and the shifting of Charley Maag from center to tackle, the 1939 Ohio State eleven closely resembles the 1938 team. Yet the Buckeyes have beaten Missouri, leaders in the Big Six conference, won five Big Ten games and assured themselves of at least a tie for the title, and have been defeated only by Cornell, the unbeaten leader of the east.

Last year Ohio State lost to Purdue, Southern California, and Michigan and was tied by Northwestern.

OHIO STATE SENDS 36.

ARMY TO MEET EIGHT MAJOR ELEVENS IN 1940

West Point, N. Y., Nov. 23 (AP).—Abandoning its policy of bringing two or three small southern and midwestern schools to West Point, Army today announced a 1940 football schedule of nine games, eight of them with major opponents and all except one with eastern teams.

Lieut. Col. Louis E. Hibbs, graduate manager of athletics, said the new policy was in line with steps taken by other members of the Eastern Intercollegiate Football association to schedule as many rivals as possible of equal athletic caliber.

Oct. 5, Williams at Army; Oct. 12, Cornell at Army; Oct. 19, Army at Harvard; Oct. 26, Lafayette at Army; Nov. 2, Notre Dame vs. Army in New York; Nov. 9, Brown at Army; Nov. 16, Army at Pennsylvania; Nov. 23, Army at Princeton; Nov. 30, Army vs. Navy at Philadelphia.

BOWL GAMES ON; SOURDOUGHS WIN FIRST (GOLD), 6-0

JUNEAU, Alaska, Nov. 23 (AP).—An ambulance, Red Cross nurses, and doctors were on the sidelines today as the continent's bowl season got under way. The Alaska Sourdoughs football team defeated the Baranoff Bears, 6 to 0, in the first Gold Bowl game.

Only one player was injured. He was Quarter Back Jim Mailer of the Bears, who suffered a broken ankle. He was well taken care of by the medical corps which was on hand because the cinder strewn playing field was frozen into a rough sandpaper complexion.

HOLD WORKOUT THIS MORNING ON ILLINI FIELD

Lansdell Recovers from Cold.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 23 [Special].—The University of Southern California football squad, en route to South Bend to meet Notre Dame in their 14th annual intersectional game Saturday, left late today for Champaign, Ill., where a brief workout will be held tomorrow morning. The Trojans then will head for Chicago, where they are due to arrive at 2:45 tomorrow afternoon. They will spend the night in Chicago and will proceed to Notre Dame Saturday morning.

When the Trojans entered the Sugar Bowl this morning for a light workout they found the field occupied by the Tulane squad, and the two lined up against each other for photographers. The rival coaches, Howard Jones of Southern California and Red Dawson of Tulane, posed with their starting elevens.

Lansdell Feels Better.

After the pictures and a rousing welcome from 5,000 New Orleans fans, the Trojans went thru a brisk drill with Quarter Back Grenny Lansdell, Southern California's No. 1 threat, showing more speed in ball carrying than at any time this week. For several days he had been handicapped by a severe cold, but today he felt much better.

Southern California will definitely lose Full Backs Jack Banta and Bill Sangster and Tackle Bob De Lauer, Dr. Packard Thurber, medical director, announced. All are benched by wrenched knees.

With Amby Schindler, No. 2 triple threat man, moving over to Banta's full back position, followers of the Trojans were confident that their team would lose little power, however. Amby is now working in the second back field, pairing up with Doyle Nave, the pass throwing star, and this running-passing combination will be inserted into the game early if the opening Lansdell-Bob Peoples duo runs into trouble.

IRISH EAT TURKEY

Notre Dame, Ind., Nov. 23 [Special].—Coach Elmer Layden got Notre Dame's football practice out of the way early today so the squad could settle down to some earnest Thanksgiving day turkey eating and resting. The squad snapped thru a morning drill and was excused at noon for the holiday.

Again defensive measures occupied the Irish, with only a short period near the end of the workout being given over to signal drill.

"There is no doubt that in Southern California we are meeting the most dangerous and versatile offensive team in the country," said Coach Layden.

Bernie Crimmins, Steve Bagarus, and Lou Zontini, injured right half backs, were reported ready to play Saturday. The status of Tom Gallagher and Tad Harvey, starting tackles, remained doubtful, altho both took light workouts today.

The Irish will have their final drill of the season tomorrow, the last in Notre Dame regimentals for 10 starters and six other members of the second and third teams. Saturday's kickoff is set for 1:30 o'clock.

BIKE OFFICIALS PENALIZE RIDERS FOR LOITERING

New York, Nov. 24, Friday, (AP).—Officials clamped down last night on the bike riders for not hustling and penalized three teams as the 66th international six day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden ground thru its 76th hour.

The Rodak-Nauweins combination narrowed the margin between first and last places by stealing two laps, but later was assessed one lap for not chasing the leaders. Later the penalty was jumped to two laps and imposed on the Walthour-Crossley and Debaets-Vanvliet teams.

As a result of all this and a nightlong series of jams there was a three way tie in the mileage at 1 a. m., but Cecil Yates and Cesar Moretti continued to hold their point advantage.

The field was reduced to ten teams when George Shipman was unable to obtain another partner after little Ewald Wissel suffered a broken collar bone in a spill.

SAN JOSE ROUTS FRESNO, 42 TO 7; 12TH STRAIGHT

Fresno, Cal., Nov. 23 (AP).—San José State college today scored a 42 to 7 victory over previously undefeated Fresno State college. It was San José's twelfth victory of the season. Thus far, the Spartans, with Pop Warner as advisory coach, have amassed 312 points to opponents' 29. One more engagement remains on the San José calendar. It meets Drake next Thursday night.

1,113 Entries Are Listed in Specialty Club Event.

BY BOB BECKER.

Pure bred dogs from California, Colorado, Iowa, New York, and other states will move into Chicago today to compete against the cream of Chicagoland kennels tomorrow and Sunday in the Western Specialty club's dog show in the Coliseum. THE TRIBUNE'S handling classes for children will be judged at 5:30 tomorrow afternoon.

Several Chicago kennels specializing in terrier breeds have entered a number of their best dogs. T. B. Maginnis, who favors the Irish terrier, will have his famous champion, Slemish Splendid, entered for exhibition only, and has listed Champion Aristocratic Rum Hound and Splendid Acushla for competition. Harold M. Florsheim has entered three airedales, but is holding out Champion Boynehouse Brutus, which has won so many honors in previous shows.

Hertzville Collies Entered.

P. K. Groves has one Scotty puppy entered, and Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Peet are sending Ardendale Optimist, an American bred airedale, into the competition. Mrs. Grant Little has entered her Scottie, Havahome the Berries.

The famous Hertzville collie kennels of C. J. Cassleman and Tom Halpin will have three champions in the show, including Hertzville Headstone, Hertzville Blue Headliner, and Hertzville Historian. Headstone, one of the most famous collie sires of all times, is in for exhibition only.

113 Cockers Listed.

Schipperkes, competing in the Western Specialty show for the first time, will have a good representation from Chicago kennels. Mr. and Mrs. C. Howard Yates have entered nine dogs of this breed, including Champion Top-Marc La Puce of Ochsnerhof, winner in the International Kennel club show this spring. Cocker spaniels, favored by many Chicagoland owners, lead the entry list with 113 specimens ready for competition.

J. Paul Bishop has two cockers in the American bred class, Tedd Coppin has entered Champion Kindon Freckles and Ace of the Storm, and Lauren T. Miller has five cockers in competition. Other local cocker kennels to be represented include those of John Blow, E. G. Eberle, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Smith.

Chow Entries Numerous.

Almost all of the Chicagoland chow kennels have entered their dogs, to be judged by Mrs. Joseph Siebert, local chow breeder. Karl Rask has entered four chows, John Cardia two, Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Schmidt four, Mrs. Lewis Wade three, and E. E. Eichman three. One of Mr. Eichman's entries is T'Go O'Night, a champion.

Mrs. Janet Henneberry, one of the judges of the children's handling classes, to be sponsored by THE TRIBUNE, has entered five English springer spaniels. Part of her competition in the open class will come from Pennville Peer O'Aragon, a springer owned by Stanley Tichy Jr. Other sporting dogs to compete include three Irish setters owned by the Denhaven kennels of D. L. Hollenbeck, and a winning English setter, Pennine Pure Gold of Prune's Own, owned by Potter Palmer III.

Prize Bostons Included.

The Wayston kennels owned by Hulburd Johnston and Conway Olmsted have entered four dachshunds, including Itor of Wayston, a young dog which has been winning in recent shows. Miss Helen Nowicki, a breeder of toy dogs, has entered four Pomeranians. Two of these, Blackacre Little Love and Blackacre Again, are champions.

A number of Boston terrier kennels in the Chicago area have entered their best dogs. C. P. Squire and P. J. Shannon have listed Champion Duneland Duke, and Mr. Shannon also has entered three other Bostons. T. J. Moore has entered a novice Boston named The Umpire. Among the schnauzer entries will be dogs owned by Mrs. Myrtle Falcon Cooper.

36 Badgers Are Named for Trip to Minneapolis

Madison, Wis., Nov. 23 [Special].—Thirty-six Wisconsin players were named by Coach Harry Stuhldreher today for the trip to Minnesota, where the Badgers will make their last desperate attempt to salvage a victory out of the conference campaign. The squad will leave early tomorrow.

Following a light practice session, which was devoted largely to running signals and reviewing defensive assignments against the Gophers' running attack, Stuhldreher said he was gratified with the spirit of the Badgers in the wake of their five straight defeats and a tie at the hands of Purdue.

The traveling squad includes Tony Gradisnik, senior left half back from Milwaukee, who will not be able to play, but is being taken along as a reward for his three years of service. Those named for the trip are:

ENDS: Capt. Ralph Moeller, Al Lorenz, Cliff Philip, Ray Krieck, John Koehrke, and Ed Wegner.

GUARDS: Dick Embick, Don Kolbusz, Bob Holloway, Nick Jacque, Orville Fox, and Dave Jones.

QUARTER BACKS: Tommy Farris, Don Peterson, and Fred Gage.

HALF BACKS: Claude York, Bob Peterson, Don Miller, Ted Damos, and Gradisnik.

GOPHERS TO SHOOT WORKS.

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 23 [Special].—Coach Bernie Bierman of Minnesota is ready to shoot with every weapon at Wisconsin in the Big Ten windup game between the two elevens here Saturday afternoon. He made that plain by running the Gophers thru their full array of plays today, after spending much time on pass defense, a department which has bothered Minnesota this year.

Wisconsin has shown definite defensive weaknesses, both along the ground and thru the air, and Bierman hopes to take advantage of any eventuality.

Despite the fact the game will be a battle of tail-enders, a surprising turnout will be on hand. Thirty-two thousand tickets had been sold before the public sale opened Monday. There has been a steady stream of buyers since that time, with more than 3,000 additional sold. More than 4,000 high school players and youngsters under 12 years of age will swell the total to 40,000.

Hoosiers Hold Last Drill for Purdue Game

Thanksgiving was no holiday for the Hoosier squad, which went thru a long rehearsal of offensive and defensive maneuvers, after viewing motion pictures of last year's game, which Purdue won, 13 to 6. Indiana's tentative starting lineup which took the field today included only two players who started against the Boilermakers last season—Capt. Jim Logan in the line and Quarter Back Eddie Herbert. Purdue's starters are expected to include at least half the number which opened the game a year ago.

PURDUE GETS READY.

Lafayette, Ind., Nov. 23 [Special].—A lengthy defensive drill this afternoon against Indiana's widely varied formations, with particular emphasis on stopping the passing of Hal Hursh, practically wound up Purdue's preparation for the Old Oaken Bucket battle in Bloomington Saturday.

Felix Mackiewicz, veteran right end, made his first appearance since the Wisconsin game, and Coach Mal Elward indicated that he may be able to see some action, although he will not start.

The Boilermakers will have only a light drill tomorrow afternoon to work off the effects of the Thanksgiving dinner the squad enjoyed tonight after drill, and will entrain for Bloomington at 8:30 Saturday morning.

Do you want ALL-WINTER RADIATOR PROTECTION FOR ONLY $1.50?

HERE'S the way many car owners do it every year! They put in a couple of quarts of Du Pont "Zerone" early in the season for protection against rusting and sudden cold snaps.

When it gets really cold, they add enough "Zerone" for lower temperatures. A total of six quarts, put in as needed, can protect a car with an average size cooling system (15 quarts) for the entire winter. And six quarts of "Zerone" cost only $1.50!

Your car may need a little more or less, depending on radiator capacity and the severity of winter. But "Zerone" will save you real money. "Zerone" prevents rust and corrosion, gives better dissipation of engine heat, avoids power losses. Put some in today! Remember, it's only $1.00 a gallon, 25¢ a quart.

Joe Rodick carried the ball over for the first two touchdowns, opening the scoring on a forty-two yard sprint with an intercepted pass. His second, a short plunge, climaxed a sustained march of forty-five yards. Lou Treber also was a double scorer, making both tallies in the third quarter.

In between these individual exploits, South Bend scored on two beautifully executed aerial plays, when Dan Glod stood between the goal posts and took a pass from Weinzlel, then Ed Talboom passed to Ed Hanyzewski for eight yards for the final score.

Prairie du Chien, Wis., Nov. 23 [Special].—Campion academy defeated St. Philip High of Chicago today, 7 to 6. Campion scored in the second quarter on a pass, Murray to Rierdon. Another pass accounted for the extra point. In the last period a long pass put St. Philip deep in Campion territory. Duax then carried the ball over. The try for the point was wide. The visitors threatened again in closing minutes, when a pass took the ball to the Campion 5 yard line. However, the Chicagoans fumbled, and Campion recovered.

HYDE PARK BEATEN, 21-13.

University City, Mo., Nov. 23 [Special].—Hyde Park High of Chicago was defeated by University City today, 21 to 13, before 3,500.

Both Hyde Park touchdowns resulted mainly thru the efforts of Tom Meehan. Meehan set up the Chicagoans' first touchdown early in the opening period with four passes. He hurled two to Chuck Skeens, good for twenty-nine yards. Another pass to E. Kallish put the ball ten yards closer to University City's goal. Bill Marks picked up seven yards on a run, then Meehan passed to Marks for the touchdown.

A reverse, Skeens to Meehan, enabled Chicago to score a touchdown in the final quarter. Pete Krogh place kicked the extra point. University City was credited with two points in the last quarter when Meehan was tackled in his own end zone after the Indians had been halted on the 1 yard line. Shale Rifkin scored twice for University City and Blumberg once.

Franklin to Meet Simms Next Friday

Lew Franklin, 1937 Chicago Golden Gloves heavyweight champion, and Eddie Simms of Cleveland have been matched to meet in a 10 round return bout in White City next Friday. Franklin, who stopped Perk Daniels in one round last week, will be seeking revenge for a technical knockout handed him by Simms in a previous meeting in Cleveland last Dec. 20. . . . Art Alto, Waukegan lightweight, will meet Robert Earl of Chicago in a five round amateur headliner tonight in Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street. In a five round semi-final Paul George, junior welterweight, also of Waukegan, is paired with Fred Colquitt, Chicago. Preliminary matches will bring together Bernie Cohen and Louis Cohen [no relation], Jack Miltimore and Ivory Bates, and Ed Rhodie and Eugene Alm. . . . Eddie Camp, west side light heavyweight, who formerly fought as Emil Campagna, yesterday was signed to meet Ralph Chong of New Orleans, La., in Marigold Gardens Monday.

Joe Louis will spar with George Nicholson and Clarence Brown in Eddie Nichols' gymnasium, 4949 Indiana avenue, tomorrow afternoon in preparation for a heavyweight title defense against Arturo Godoy in Madison Square Garden Feb. 9. . . . Peter Rocco, the old East Chicago middleweight, who recently reopened Venetian hall in Roseland to amateur boxing, has indefinitely postponed his next offering. . . . Holman Williams, welterweight stablemate of Louis, will head for New Orleans tomorrow for a 15 rounder there on Dec. 1 against Charley Burley of Pittsburgh. He will be accompanied by Trainer Larry Amadee. . . . The Illinois boxing commission has received Attorney General John E. Cassidy's report as to whether Harry Thomas' charges that he threw bouts to Tony Galento and Max Schmeling justify a public hearing. It was learned yesterday. However, a decision, based on the attorney general's findings, will not be handed down until Monday. F. M.

OLD TIME BEARS COME HOME FOR CARDINAL GAME

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Sunday may not be gloomy for George Halas, but he'll spend it with countless shadows. Scattered about him in the stands and on the bench will be 50 Bears from yesterday, back for the third annual homecoming and a glimpse of perhaps the greatest Bear machine of all as it engages the Cardinals in Wrigley field in the closing game of the regular season.

This is the oddest homecoming in football; no old grads crowd the campus and no bonfires spur the throng to song and frenzy. Only broad shouldered veterans of other professional seasons, some of them immortals in the sport, attend.

They're All Invited.

Invitations have been sent to every man who ever played for the Bears. Among those expected to attend is Bronko Nagurski, the only man who ever made his own interference and who wishes he were 10 years younger as he takes his football from the grandstand. Red Grange will be there, and so will Paddy Driscoll. Jimmy Conzelman, Tarzan Taylor, George Trafton, George Corbett, John Sisk, Link Lyman, Bert Ingwersen, and Bill Karr also are expected.

Among the things these old timers will be anxious to see first hand is how the Bears prevent the opposition from scoring one touchdown after another against a defense that on consecutive week-ends permitted record breaking totals of pass completions. Detroit set the team record two weeks ago when Darrell Tulley, Dwight Sloan, and Johnny Pingel completed 20. Last Sunday little Davey O'Brien broke this record and bettered his own individual mark by connecting with 21 passes. The 41 completions netted 520 yards, yet produced only four touchdowns while the Bears were romping to two victories.

Those Cards Can Pass.

The Cardinals should be able to give the veterans a good idea. The return of Jack Robbins to their lineup will give them a passing attack nearly as dangerous as that of the Lions and Eagles. Much of the Cardinals' misfortune can be traced to the loss of Robbins thru injury for a great part of the schedule. Robbins is the Cardinals' only passer. With him out of the lineup opponents faced no threat that would drive them back and loosen up the defense for Marshall Goldberg and George Faust, who strictly are ball carriers.

The Bears' apparent vulnerability to passes is the Cardinals' chief hope of ending their season with a victory and knocking the Bears out of the championship race. Accustomed as the Bears have become to having passes completed against them, they, nevertheless, are concerned over Sunday's game. Neither the Lion sharpshooters nor little Davey were firing to receivers who have a right to be in the same league with Bill Smith, the Cardinal captain.

Coach Ernie Nevers also hopes that with Robbins and Smith operating again, the Cardinals will be able to spring loose Goldberg. Nevers, like the rest of the Cardinals and the fans, would like to see the young man get away—just once this year.

The Green Bay Packers passed thru the city last night on their way to Cleveland, where on Sunday they meet the Rams in a game that will mean as much to the Bears as their own Cardinal encounter. A Cleveland victory will aid materially in strengthening the Bears' chances of engaging in a playoff for the Western division championship.

PULLMAN TECH BEATEN, 20-6, BY MORGAN PARK

Morgan Park High school scored twice in the second half to register a 20 to 6 triumph yesterday over Pullman Tech on the latter's field. Fred Minuth, Morgan Park quarter back, passed 30 yards to Left End Hillman for the first quarter touchdown and ran 35 yards for a third quarter score. Telander at full back, plunged four yards in the final period for Morgan Park's third touchdown.

Left Half Back Kurnick scored Pullman's six points in the last minute of play on a two yard plunge.

Catholic Central High school of Hammond invaded Calumet City and won an 8 to 6 decision over Thornton Fractional. Senn defeated the alumni team, 6 to 0, at Loyola stadium when Bob Fredericks, quarter back, sprinted 35 yards in the final quarter. Amundsen also won over its alumni team by the same score in a game played at Winnemac park.

R. B. Cook, Cubs' Former Traveling Secretary, Dies

Rutherford B. [Rube] Cook, former traveling secretary of the Chicago Cubs, died yesterday. A native of Northfield, Minn., Cook was 56 years old. Mrs. Harriet Loucks, Chicago, a niece, and Sidney Smith, New Mexico, a nephew, survive. Funeral arrangements will be made today.

MOON MULLINS—THE NIGHT RIDER

Welterweights Will Put Extra Punch in C. Y. O. Boxing Finals

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Followers of the Catholic Youth Organization's tournament are looking forward with particular zest to the welterweight championship bout in next Wednesday's finals in the Stadium. In this fight, Willie Goldsmith and Harry Sparrow will play a return engagement of their 1938 lightweight final.

Goldsmith won the 135 pound title last year after Sparrow had fought him punch for punch all the way. It was one of the closest bouts of the tournament. This season both boys are bigger, more experienced and more powerful. It's small wonder then that their admirers are looking forward to a terrific struggle.

Goldsmith, a south side colored boy, will be going after his third open division title, having won in 1936 as well as last year. He reached the finals in 1937 also but lost to Joe O'Connell when he incurred an eye cut which prompted the referee to stop the bout.

If Goldsmith should succeed in his quest he will be the third C. Y. O. fighter to take three titles in the nine year history of the tournament. The others were Andy Scrivani and Frank Kalnrath.

Goldsmith Can Hit.

Goldsmith and Sparrow will receive some of their own medicine in their championship bout. For years they have been going along confusing their opponents by their southpaw stances. Now they will confuse each other.

Goldsmith is a hard puncher who can hit particularly well with his left hand. He will find Sparrow an elusive target, however, for this tall, long armed youngster has a bouncing, bobbing style of fighting that keeps him out of trouble in most of his bouts.

Harry has been competing in C. Y. O. tournaments since 1934, when he was just a flyweight. He has been coming close, but hasn't yet been able to win a championship. He made a good showing in the Golden Gloves tournament last season and he hopes that the added experience was just what he needed to go all the way to a C. Y. O. title this time.

A South Chicago Boy.

Sparrow is a South Chicago boy. He took up boxing eight years ago in neighborhood shows which were held at 100th street and Lake Michigan. He weighed only 85 pounds at the time. Later he attended St. Patrick's High school on the west side, where he went in for basketball and football.

O'Brien Leads Eagles to First Victory, 17-14

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 23 (AP).—Davey O'Brien and Franny Murray passed and kicked the Philadelphia Eagles to their first National Football league victory of the season today. O'Brien fired two touchdown passes and Murray kicked a thirty-one yard field goal for a 17 to 14 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates before 20,000.

The Eagles were forced to come from behind in the last two minutes of play to gain their triumph. With the Pirates leading, 14 to 10, as the result of two fourth quarter touchdowns, O'Brien pitched a nine yard pass to Dick Riffle and followed this completion with a twenty-six yard pass to Bill Hewitt. The Eagle end lateraled to Jay Arnold, who raced the remaining forty yards for the winning touchdown.

Davey Keeps Busy.

O'Brien not only passed the Eagles to their first touchdown late in the second quarter, but set up the opportunity as well by intercepting Hugh McCullough's long pass on the Eagles' 14 yard line. Davey then passed fourteen yards to Hewitt and threw one for thirty-five yards to Joe Carter, who scampered thirty yards for the score.

Murray, who place kicked both extra points for the Eagles, contributed what proved to be the winning points with his field goal in the third quarter. Joe Bukant intercepted Boyd Brumbaugh's pass on the Pirate 16 yard line midway in the period, and after Bukant lost nine yards and two passes were grounded, Murray made his placement kick from the 31 yard line.

Pirates Fight Back.

An exchange of punts early in the fourth period gave Pittsburgh the ball on the Eagle 30 yard line. Coley McDonough passed to Lou Tomasetti for a first down on the 19, picked up six yards at center himself, and Brumbaugh smashed thru left tackle to the 6. Brumbaugh scored three plays later and Armand Niccolai place kicked the extra point.

A short time later Brumbaugh whipped a pass good for sixty-three yards to George Platukis for another touchdown and the Pirates led, 14 to 10 after Niccolai converted for his 34th consecutive extra point in pro competition.

Syracuse Wins at Maryland on Field Goal

College Park, Md., Nov. 23 (AP).—Syracuse university ended its golden jubilee football season today with a 10 to 7 victory over Maryland before a Thanksgiving day crowd of 5,000.

A field goal from the 27 yard line in the first period by McPhail, Syracuse end, proved the victory margin.

Maryland, playing as if determined to win its final game for Head Coach Frank Dobson, who, it is reported, will resign tomorrow, rolled up 13 first downs to 10 for Syracuse.

Shortly after McPhail's field goal the Terrapins charged back with their scoring thrust. Joe Murphy dashed around his right end on the second play of the second period and ran fifty-nine yards to score. Wildener converted to put Maryland ahead, 7 to 3.

Syracuse's Gerald Courtney, entering the game in the third period, broke loose around left end and stepped fifty-two yards to Maryland's 6 yard line. Courtney picked up five more, then Walter Zimdahl plunged over. McPhail kicked the extra point.

HUSKIES UPSET GRAYBEAL AND OREGON, 20 TO 13

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 23 (AP).—As fast as Jay Graybeal, the Oregon jackrabbit, hung up points on the scoreboard, the University of Washington Huskies matched them to win an upset football victory, 20 to 13, over their traditional foes before 25,000 today.

Graybeal scored all of Oregon's points, but he and his teammates couldn't cope with the accurate passing of Washington's Dean McAdams, and a seventeen yard "Corrigan run" by Ernie Steele.

Graybeal Starts It.

Graybeal put the Webfoots in the lead on the first play of the second quarter when he place kicked a field goal from the husky 20 yard line.

Then the Huskies went to work. McAdams tossed the first two of five successful passes to Bill Marx, the first for twenty-two yards and the second for nineteen, which put the Huskies on the Oregon 10 yard line. Full Back Don Jones made the last half yard on fourth down.

Graybeal sparked another Oregon drive which carried seventy yards and Southpaw Bob Smith hurled a touchdown pass to Graybeal in the end zone. Jay converted. That gave Oregon a 10 to 7 edge at half time.

Mr. Steele Rambles.

In the final quarter Graybeal collected his second field goal, from the 19, tying the score at 13 to 13.

TUBERCULOSIS STILL IS MAJOR SCOURGE OF MAN

Known to Medicine for 4,000 Years.

Despite 4,000 years of medical knowledge of tuberculosis, this disease still kills more men during the most useful period of life than any other disease. So says the Journal of the American Medical association in a recent article outlining the evolution of man's knowledge of the microscopic organism which causes the disease.

Archeologists have found that tuberculosis killed many ancient Egyptians. Their conclusions are based on examinations of distorted joints and spinal columns of mummies and skeletons.

Known in Ancient Times.

From ancient times until the present day, medical writers, scientists, and doctors have all referred to the minute organism whose latest appellation, conferred by Lewis J. Moorman, is "a bug full of tricks."

"The code of Hammurabi, written at least 2,000 B. C.," the article says, "indicates some knowledge of tuberculosis. Greek writers described the clinical features of tuberculosis in the fifth century B. C. In the second century, Aretaeus not only accurately described the clinical features but suggested routine treatment. The first postmortem report of miliary tuberculosis [in which tubercules or nodules are found in the tissues] was given by Manget in 1700."

In the middle of the 18th century, according to the article, the tuberculosis death rate reached its peak. At the same time, facilities for gaining knowledge of the disease also increased.

In 1761, Auenbrugger made what was deemed a great contribution by describing various phases of the disease. Late in the 18th century, tuberculous meningitis was discussed for the first time by Whytt. The habits and ways of the deadly tubercle were being discovered while patients—and even many of the doctors—died.

Holmes Helped Fight Scourge.

The physician-poet, Oliver Wendell Holmes, was one of the many pupils of the great clinician Louis. With his master and other pupils he established clinical medicine with special interest in physical examination of patients suspected of having tuberculosis. In the middle 19th century, scientists in Vienna perfected diagnostic methods, while others bent their efforts toward effective cures.

The specific nature of the disease was demonstrated by French physicians in 1865 by means of inoculation. Gerlach in 1870 proved that milk from diseased cows conveyed the disease.

"Then," according to the article, "medicine began to move into a new era. The bacillus of the disease was seemingly preparing a way for its own discovery and for the surrender of many of the secrets of its occult powers."

Bacillus Found in 1882.

The first pathological laboratory was established in 1856 in Berlin. And in 1882, the bacillus tuberculosis was discovered by Robert Koch. Simultaneously, other doctors became pioneers in sanatorium management of patients.

"Four thousand years have been surveyed for this brief statement of evolution of knowledge of this disease," the article concludes. "Still from year to year more and more is being written. As the unsolved problems related to the tubercle bacillus remain infinite, so tuberculosis remains the greatest killer of man during the most useful period of his life."

MINNESOTA CHIEF OF CONSERVATION FIRED BY STASSEN

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 23 (AP).—Gov. Harold Stassen today found Herman C. Wenzel, suspended state conservation commissioner, guilty of misconduct in office and formally ordered his removal. The action climaxed long ouster proceedings, including a five weeks' public hearing that began with Wenzel's suspension April 25. The governor found Wenzel had committed a long series of acts constituting misfeasance and malfeasance.

Among the charges against Wenzel were that he carried on a systematic plan of political assessments among conservation department employés; that he condoned the practice of illegal splitting of requisitions to avoid advertising for bids, and that persons who spent much of their time in political activity were paid with department funds.

Wenzel was a Farmer-Laborite appointed before the present Republican state administration was elected a year ago. His term of office would have expired in 1943.

BATISTA TO QUIT CUBAN ARMY TO SEEK PRESIDENCY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Nov. 23.—Col Fulgencio Batista, "Cuba's strong man," today said that, in view of the defeat of his condidates for the constituent assembly at the polls less than a week ago, he had decided to abandon the army permanently and become a civilian and a candidate for the presidency of Cuba in the Feb. 24 elections. Batista will be replaced as head of the army by Col. Jose Pedraza, inspector general of the army and Havana's police chief.

Regarding Batista's announcement, former President Ramon Grau San Martin said, "I wish to announce a political pact between the Menocal forces and mine. I will be nominated as a presidential candidate to oppose Batista. Menocal has accepted the candidacy of the senate."

[Gen. Mario Garcia Menocal is a former Cuban president. His Democratic Republican party won 15 seats in the constituent assembly election last week. Grau San Martin's Cuban Revolutionary party took 18 seats.]

Batista will be the candidate of both the Liberal Nacionalista and Conjunto Democratic parties. Grau San Martin will be supported by the Authentic Revolutionary, the A. B. C., communists, Agrarian and Democratic parties.

Nine Fire Companies Battle Live Stock Building Blaze

East St. Louis, Ill., Nov. 23 (AP).—Fire damaged a wing of the Live Stock Exchange building at National City, Ill., today but was brought under control before it spread to other areas of the yards. Nine fire companies responded to a general alarm. Inspection of the damage at daylight indicated it would be considerably less than an estimate of $150,000 made during the fire. Fred J. Bareis, general manager of the stockyards, said temporary quarters would be provided for the firms burned out and there would be no interruption of stock handling.

Sheboygan, Wis., Nov. 23 [Special].—Mrs. John Van Akkeren, 70 years old, died here today from a cerebral hemorrhage induced by what proved to be an unfounded fear. Mrs. Van Akkeren believed that her daughter Florence, a teacher in a Highland, Ind., Christian school, who was expected home for the Thanksgiving holidays, was a passenger on the Winnebago flyer which was wrecked at North Chicago yesterday. Florence left Chicago on a later train. Funeral services will be held Saturday.

DEAD CONGRESSMAN'S OFFICE MYSTERIOUSLY PLACED UNDER GUARD

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23 (AP).—Police are keeping a day and night guard outside the office of the late Representative J. Will Taylor of Tennessee, but the reason for the vigil has capitol attachés puzzled.

Officials said Taylor's widow had telephoned Kenneth Romney, house sergeant-at-arms, on Tuesday night from her home in La Follette, Tenn., and requested that guard be posted and no one be permitted to enter the office. It was not clear whether the bar would apply to Taylor's secretarial force.

At Romney's home, it was said Mrs. Taylor gave no specific reason for her request but indicated she desired the guard maintained until an administrator of her husband's affairs arrived.

In Tennessee, Mrs. Taylor was ill and could not be reached for comment, but the eldest daughter, Elizabeth Taylor, told reporters she would go to Washington in a few days as Mrs. Taylor's agent.

Two Rivers Fishermen Win Court Test on Nets

Manitowoc, Wis., Nov. 23 [Special].—The fishing colony of Two Rivers, representing a $250,000 industry on which 80 families depend for livelihood, was thankful today when the state conservation commission held up an order prohibiting the use of two and a half inch mesh gill nets. The fishermen announced yesterday that they would abandon their business rather than purchase new nets. City Manager E. J. Donnelly appealed to Gov. Heil yesterday. Notice was received today that the order would not be enforced until a court test is completed. The Two Rivers fishermen, who operate 14 boats, all sein for chubs, and contend they cannot use nets of a larger mesh.

[ADVERTISMENT]
HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 PINTS A DAY
Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Kidneys remove excess acids and poisonous waste from your blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.
When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.
Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

PUSH CHICAGO'S DRIVE AS PLANE MAKING CENTER

Experts See Rapid Gain in Industry.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

America's aircraft factories are expected by experts to expand into a $650,000,000 industry in 1940. Expansion of the Chicago area into an aviation manufacturing center is the first objective being taken up by the Greater Chicago Plan, the purpose of which is to bring new industries and pay rolls into this area.

Assistant Secretary of War Johnson urges inland plane factories.

In 1938, aircraft was rated by experts as a 225 million dollar industry. At the beginning of this year, with army expansion under way the volume of manufacturing was expected to reach 400 million dollars. Since then the war in Europe and large orders from belligerents have pushed the total beyond that figure.

City's Opportunities Raised.

This rapid expansion, the Greater Chicago planners believe, increases this area's opportunity to become a center in aviation manufacturing. They find additional support for this in the policy of the war department in urging airplane manufacturers to move from the sea coasts to interior points between the eastern and western mountain ranges.

Last March Louis Johnson, assistant secretary of war, told the association of commerce in an address that the war department, as it signs contracts for military planes, advises manufacturers to follow the general headquarters airforce inland. Interior plants would not be exposed to destruction of coastal air raids in time of war, he said. The war department chose Scott field at Belleville, Ill., as headquarters for the GHQ air force for similar strategic reasons.

Los Angeles Area High.

At present 65 per cent of the production of airplanes is in Los Angeles county, Cal., where four major companies have plants. About 90 per cent, in dollar value, of the output of airplane engines is concentrated in two eastern cities: East Hartford, Conn., and Paterson, N. J. In the latter city is the Wright Aeronautical corporation, termed the largest aircraft engine company in the world.

Manufacturers of 95 per cent of the airplanes and engines bought by the army and navy have their factories on the Atlantic or Pacific coasts, most of them within 150 miles of the shore line.

The recent establishment by the Aviation Manufacturing corporation of a plant at Nashville, Tenn., is deemed in conformity with the war department's policy of establishing interior plants.

As first move, the association of commerce is advising manufacturers in the Chicago area to get more and more into the business of building

WHOLESALERS' TRADE THIS MONTH PLACED AT 25 PCT. ABOVE '38

November business of wholesalers will be 25 per cent above 1938, judging from buying activity in the first 15 days of the month, Percy Wilson, managing director of the Merchandise Mart, said last night in a monthly survey. An average sales gain of 20 per cent was shown in 20 major classifications in the wholesale field during October, compared with October last year, Wilson added.

Sales last month assumed a more normal character as the effect of war stimulation wore off, receding 14.3 per cent from September's abnormal peak, according to the survey.

Sales during October in 3,594 lines in the Merchandise Mart totaled $15,018,867 at wholesale. This represented an increase of 20 per cent over the volume of $12,511,576 in the same lines during October last year. September sales amounted to $17,531,576.

AVIATION STOCKS MOVE UPWARD IN FOREIGN TRADING

Strength of aviation issues in Toronto and Amsterdam stood out in desultory dealings in most world markets yesterday.

Canadian securities generally pointed upward in moderate dealings. In Toronto DeHaviland Aircraft rose 4½ points to 10½, and at Montreal a wide assortment of shares advanced fractions to 3 points.

In Amsterdam Douglas Aircraft was firm, while most American issues held close to Wednesday's final prices in Wall street.

In London stocks were irregularly lower. American shares were dull. The Paris bourse showed a steady undertone.

Richfield Oil Declares 50 Cents on Common Stock

Directors of Richfield Oil corporation, Pacific coast refiner and distributor of petroleum products, have declared a dividend of 50 cents a common share payable Dec. 18 to holders of record Dec. 8, it was reported yesterday. The last previous payment was 50 cents a share in December last year.

Canada Finds War Demands Spur Business

Major factors indicating the trend of Canadian economic conditions moved to higher levels in October than in the preceding month, the dominion bureau of statistics at Ottawa reported yesterday. Six prominent factors showed gains. The standing of the bureau's official index was higher than in any month of the present year.

Industries favored by war demands expanded operations to a large extent last month, according to the bureau. Automobiles, foodstuffs, and forestry products were produced in considerably greater quantities than in September.

Stock Prices Rise.

Common stock prices registered an additional advance last month following a substantial upturn in September, the bureau reported. Gains in wholesale prices were of "minor importance" compared with the marked advance of the preceding month. Several commodities reacted following sharp rallies in September.

The index of the physical volume of Canadian business climbed to 135.7 for October [1926 equals 100], representing a gain of 14.4 per cent over the September figure of 125.8. In October, 1938, the index stood at 125.8.

In August the total value was $2,622,000 and in August last year $1,443,000. PUBLIC AGENCIES FILL 308,400 JOBS IN MONTH AS IDLE RELIEF FALLS

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23 [Special]. — Public employment offices placed 308,400 persons in jobs with private employers during October, the Social Security board reported today. This was the largest number in the history of the employment service. Meanwhile unemployment benefit payments fell to $26,700,000 for the month, less than in any preceding month this year and nearly 21 per cent below September payments.

Half of the 308,400 jobs were of a continuing nature, the board reported. The total was 7 per cent above September and about 50 per cent higher than the month in 1937 and 1938. In addition 57,000 jobs were filled in public employment.

During the first 10 months this year, 2,192,000 jobs in private industry were filled, an increase of 42 per cent over the same period in 1938 and 366,000 in public employment.

Private placements in Illinois were 13,416 and public placements 245. October applications in the state were 52,606 and the total number registered was 198,579.

BANK CLEARINGS HOLD ABOVE 1938 FOR THREE WEEKS

New York, Nov. 23 [Special].—For the third successive week, bank clearings in 22 leading cities of the United States exceeded the corresponding 1938 period, Dun & Bradstreet reported today. For the week ended Nov. 22 the total was $5,573,602,000, rising 2.3 per cent above the same week of last year.

This gain was recorded in spite of the decline in New York, where the week's total of $3,034,475,000 fell 7.6 per cent from the figure of $3,285,641,000 the year before.

Chicago clearings in the week ended Nov. 22 totaled $341,900,000, compared with $294,600,000 in the corresponding 1938 week, a gain of 16.1 per cent.

SEC Reports Security Sales in October 22 Pct. Under '38

Washington, Nov. 23 [Special].—The Securities and Exchange commission disclosed today that the market value of sales on all registered exchanges in October, 1939, amounted to $1,346,934,094. This was a decrease of 48.7 per cent from the value of sales in September, and a decrease of 22.6 per cent from October, 1938.

CANADA CLAMPS TIGHTER GRIP ON MONEY EXPORT

Act to Halt Indirect Evasion of Law.

OTTAWA, Nov. 23 (AP).—Evasion of exchange control regulations by indirect methods is to be prevented by a series of new regulations made public by the foreign exchange control board today. Purpose of the board is to prevent unnecessary export of Canadian capital and to conserve the supply of foreign exchange to meet essential requirements.

By virtue of orders in council passed Tuesday the board has issued new orders covering indirect exports of capital, prepayment of freight on exports, export of services, and evasion by change of residence.

Provides for Indictments.

It is also provided that trial of those charged with violation of the control act may be by indictment instead of by summary proceedings.

Direct exports of capital are prevented under the order by requiring all purchases of foreign exchange to be made thru the board, which in general, will sell foreign exchange only for current expenditures or to meet payments on debts expressed in foreign currencies.

One new regulation forbids, in general terms, any export of capital unless the approval of the board is obtained, and defines a number of cases which are regarded as constituting an export of capital.

Define Capital Exports.

Examples are: The export of property for no payment, or for payment by means of a long-term credit, or for payment of a price which is less than the fair value of the property.

The payment for imports of a price which is more than their fair value; the transfer to nonresidents of foreign securities or of property situated abroad for payment of less than its fair value.

The acceptance of Canadian dollars in satisfaction of a debt which is owing in foreign exchange or the relinquishment of any right to foreign exchange.

List Exceptions to Rules.

Exceptions are made with respect to goods sold to the government of a British Empire country or any allied government in the war. The amendments also make clear that it is not intended to interfere with the export of securities beneficially owned by a nonresident or with the transfer to a nonresident of securities or other property beneficially owned by such nonresident.

Another new provision, requires that if freight is to be prepaid on

Federal Bureau Opens Drive to Cut State Trade Barriers

Washington, D. C., Nov. 23 (AP).—The department of commerce today launched a campaign aimed at removing barriers to trade among the states.

A committee was created to cooperate with the Council of State Governments in tackling such problems as differing taxes, licenses, and regulations on motor trucks, plant, and live stock quarantines at state borders, and gasoline taxing ports as state boundaries.

Paul T. Truitt, a special assistant to Secretary Hopkins, was selected to be chairman of the group, and the state, labor, agriculture, and justice departments, the Federal Works agency, and the national resources committee were invited to appoint representatives on it.

Truitt explained that the first move toward leveling obstacles to interstate commerce might be a broad investigation thru the temporary national economic committee. He has arranged conferences with Senator O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.], committee chairman, to enlist that group's aid.

No federal legislation is contemplated, at least for the present. Truitt explained that the initial effort would be to get individual states to remove as many barriers as possible in consideration of other states doing the same thing.

He said the problem is most serious in the case of trucks whose routes cross state lines. A truck driver often must buy separate licenses in several states. At state boundaries, trucks also are frequently stopped to pay taxes on their tonnage, the gasoline brought from other states, to be inspected for lights, for weight, and for carrying diseased plants.

State Building Value Up 52% in Last Month

Building in Illinois during October was greater in number of permits and in cost than during the corresponding month last year. Permits taken out showed 24.5 per cent increase and contemplated costs rose 52 per cent. This was disclosed yesterday by the state department of labor in a survey of 166 cities.

Permits were issued in October for 3,283 buildings, costing $8,984,801, compared with 2,636 permits involving an outlay of $5,910,089 in October last year. Altho a few more permits were taken out last month than in the preceding month, the proposed investment during October showed a seasonal falling off in comparison with September. Permits totaled 3,033 and were valued at $12,621,104 during September.

Home building last month increased in number of units and in cost over September and the corresponding month of 1938. Of the total permit valuations issued last month, residential construction accounted for 62.8 per cent. Nonresidential building amounted to 20.5 per cent. Additions, alterations, repairs, and installations comprised the remaining 16.7 per cent.

For the first ten months of this year residential construction was more active than during the similar period last year. This year's permits for new homes totaled 7,412. During the first 10 months of 1938 the total was 4,658.

Markets and Banks to Reopen Today

Security and commodity exchanges, banks, and live stock markets closed in observance of Thanksgiving will reopen today.

GENERAL ELECTRIC WORKERS' EXTRA PAY $4,750,000 THIS YEAR

New York, Nov. 23 [Special].—Employés of the General Electric company will receive approximately $2,400,000 under their general profit sharing plan this year, against $557,000 last year, according to an announcement by Gerard Swope, president of the company.

Swope said that the employés also will have been paid $2,350,000 as a cost-of-living adjustment of their earnings for 1939, against $3,298,000 for 1938.

For eligible employés with five or more years of service with the company, the payment for the latter half of the year will be equivalent to 3.75 per cent of their earnings. This, with 2 per cent for cost-of-living adjustment, makes 5.75 per cent added to regular earnings. The company now has about 67,000 employés, or 10,000 more than a year ago, Swope announced.

Pennsylvania Road Reports Big Gain in Operating Net

The Pennsylvania railroad yesterday reported net operating income during October totaled $10,204,201, an increase of $2,876,932 over the total for October last year. For the first 10 months of the current year net operating income amounted to $58,374,098. This was a gain of $14,183,223 over the $44,190,875 shown during the first 10 months of 1938.

N. Y. Central's 'Pacemaker' Will Stop at Cleveland

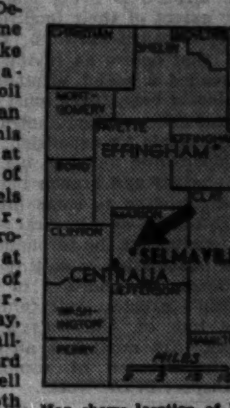
DEEP OIL WELL SETS ILLINOIS OUTPUT RECORD

Devonian Test Flows 450 Barrels an Hour

Centralia, Ill., Nov. 23 [Special].—The Kingwood Oil company's deep test well into the Devonian lime of the Lake Centralia-Salem oil field began flowing this morning at the rate of 450 barrels an hour. This production, at the rate of 10,800 barrels a day, sets an all-time record for any well of any depth in Illinois.



Map shows location of Illinois' record output oil well.

Completion of this well, the first drilled to 3,405 feet in the rich lake pool, has started a rush of deep well drilling. This activity, coupled with production into the St. Louis level at 2,209 feet, will probably make the Lake Centralia-Salem field the richest for its size of any pool in the country.

Altho the East Texas field is much larger than the Salem pool, it is divided into sections.

Choke Down Production.

Today's production of the Kingwood well began after a small acid treatment. Shortly after the initial gauge was taken, production was choked down to 112 barrels an hour.

The well is known as No. 18A Shanafelt and is located a quarter of a mile north of Selmaville at the north edge of the lake field. It was first cased a week ago today and flowed 1,800 barrels without acid treatment in 24 hours before being shut down. Kingwood's well was drilled on the farm of James O. Shanafelt, who has received some of the largest royalty payments in this area for oil produced on his farm at shallower levels than the Devonian lime.

Report Indiana Strike.

English, Ind., Nov. 23 [Special].—Interest in the possibilities of Crawford county as an oil producing area was renewed here today with the announcement that oil had been struck at Branchville in Perry county. The site is about seven miles west of the Crawford-Perry county line. John Wyman of Salem said his crew had struck a 22 foot oil sand at a depth of 780 feet.

Day by Day on the Farm
By BOB BECKER

Thanksgiving Is Over.

Nov. 23, 1939.

THANKSGIVING received a real ovation on the Du Page county farm. It meant a short vacation from school for the children. For the men it was a holiday with only a few morning and evening chores. The holiday meant considerable work to the women, but they welcomed the opportunity to prove their ability as cooks.

Every One Has Turkey.

Each of the farm families got a turkey from the barnyard, large or small according to the number of children in the home. The women made big preparations for the dinner. A typical menu included turkey with all of its traditional trimmings, sage dressing, cranberry sauce, sweet potatoes, vegetable salad, plum pudding [made with beef suet], and tea and cider.

Today Thanksgiving is over and the men return to their regular farm jobs. The main work being carried on is the digging of a ditch which forms the connecting link between the three farm ponds. When this ditch is completed the farm will have its own minature system of waterways that includes three ponds and one artificial "river" with several underground drainage areas.

Water Supply Augmented.

The largest farm pond has two windmills which augument its natural supply of water. The artificial river was dug between the big pond and the center pond, so that the overflow from the larger body of water will go into the smaller one. From the center pond another ditch is being dug so that its overflow will go into Half Moon pond near the west edge of the farm. A new dam on Half Moon pond will keep its water level up and send any overflow down a drainage ditch to a farm road.

The new waterway system is appreciated by the black swans which spend their time on the farm ponds. Some of the swans are using the canals, gliding gracefully from pond to pond.

PUSH CHICAGO'S DRIVE AS PLANE BUILDING CENTER

Experts Forecast Rapid Gain in Industry.

Airport Survey Made.

In seeking the establishment of plants here the association is taking up the problem of airports first. A survey of the 19 airports in the Chicago area, in addition to the municipal airport, is being made to learn the extent of their facilities, particularly in paved runways. The experts say that before an invitation can be extended a major airplane company to locate here, there must be arrangements for space equipment and runways ample for expansion.

Meanwhile outside manufacturers of engines and branch industries are being invited to come into the Chicago region, as a natural manufacturing center for the aeronautical world. The association is setting forth that Chicago, in addition to being the world's greatest rail center, is also the hub of America's greatest air lines. Its municipal airport is the busiest center of commercial air transport in the world.

Labor Supply Ample.

Labor supply is being stressed, with 500,000 workers covering all crafts and phases of technical training. Much emphasis is being placed on Chicago's comparative freedom from labor unrest. In 1938, when the nation lost 9,148,273 man days of work due to strikes, Chicago, with 1-40th of the country's population lost only 95,412 man work days, or only slightly more than 1-100 of the national total.

One argument made by the association is that Chicago is nearer to more sources of raw supplies than any other American city, and that it is the leading foundry center of the United States, having a greater number of foundries, machine shops, and pattern shops than any other city.

PAPER VS. GLASS.

With all this talk about paper milk containers, how will the Thatcher Manufacturing company fare? Will you please give me some information about this company?—H. J.

Answer: Thatcher Manufacturing company produces about one-half of the glass milk bottles made in this country. The automatic machinery it uses is operated under licenses from the Hartford-Empire company, which owns the patents.

The company's plants have an annual capacity of 166 million milk bottles. Distribution is conducted thru branches in New York, Boston, Chicago, and Philadelphia.

Altho the milk bottle has been the accepted container for milk delivered to homes, paper containers are now extensively used. There is insufficient knowledge, however, upon which to forecast the extent to which the paper container will displace the glass bottle.

The earning records of the Thatcher company contain no conclusive indication that the introduction of the paper container has made any inroads on its sales or profits. Since 1931 sales have climbed steadily, but dropped slightly in 1938. The small decline last year may have resulted from the downtrend in general business. Operating results in the last five years follow:

1934	$3,850,000	$ 636,000	$1.33
1935	4,565,000	811,000	2.52
1936	6,195,000	1,016,000	3.92
1937	6,594,000	1,085,000	4.47
1938	6,477,000	728,000	2.12

This year the company recovered from the 1938 decline. In the first 9 months of 1939 net income rose to $656,930, or $2.35 a share, from $559,722, or $1.68 a share, in the same period of 1938.

Capitalization consists of 115,541 shares of convertible preference stock and 146,832 shares of no par common stock. Quarterly dividends of 90 cents each are being paid on the preference stock. Three dividends of 25 cents each have been paid on the common stock thus far in 1939, the latest on Oct. 2. In 1938 $1.50 a share was disbursed and in 1936 and 1937 $2.50 a share was paid each year.

LOW IN 1932.

What was the lowest price that Chrysler common reached since 1929 and in what year?—K. A.

Answer: Chrysler common reached its depression low of $5 a share in 1932.

RANGE OF GRAIN PRICES NARROW; TRADING IS SLOW

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 23 (AP).—With other grain markets closed because of Thanksgiving day holiday, trading was light here thruout the session today and prices ranged narrowly. Members voted to close an hour early because of the small trading.

Wheat futures closed ⅛ cent lower for the day, and all coarse grains followed that lead, finishing ¼ to ½ cent down for the session.

Winnipeg Prices Steady.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 23 (AP).—Lack of selling pressure proved the chief steadying influence to wheat futures prices in the early minutes of trading on Winnipeg grain exchange today. Buying was thin and only a few odd loads of Canadian wheat were traded for export. The close was ⅛ cent lower to ¼ cent higher for November.

Retail Trade Up 8 to 13 Pct. Last Week Dun's Estimate

New York, Nov. 24 (AP).—With the help of favorable weather and Thanksgiving preparations, retail buying activity reached a new high for the year this week, Dun & Bradstreet said today in its weekly survey. The year to year advance was estimated at 8 to 13 per cent.

Exchange on London, 176.625. In bourse trading 3 pct rentes were 72.00f; 4½s A, 81f 40c; 4½s 1937, 200f 70c.

LIVERPOOL COTTON.

LIVERPOOL, Nov. 23 (AP).—Cotton futures trading was active today and final prices showed losses of 15 to 20 points. Speculative buying at the opening forced prices upward, but a sharp reaction followed on Bombay selling and profit taking. There was a fair demand for spots, prices 14 points higher.

exports the Canadian exporter must recover the amount of the freight from its foreign customer in foreign exchange.

Under another regulation power is given to the board to designate certain services performed for nonresidents for which payment shall be obtained in foreign exchange instead of in Canadian dollars.

Control Kind of Exchange.

In order to prevent unauthorized transactions in certain currencies, and particularly to prevent the conversion of sterling into United States dollars, except thru authorized channels, power also has been given the board to prescribe the particular foreign currencies which shall or shall not be received in connection with exports and other transactions involving foreign exchange.

Another amendment is designed to require a nonresident, becoming a resident of Canada after the coming into force of the foreign exchange control order, to declare his holdings of foreign exchange and foreign securities in the same manner as other residents. Conversely it is provided that a resident of Canada cannot become a nonresident insofar as concerns the foreign exchange control order except with the approval of the board.
